MORE SWEEPING RESTRICTIONS ON USE OF COAL THOUGH STRIKE SETTLEMENT SEEMS AT HAND

GARFIELD MOVES AS COAL SUPPLY FAST DWINDLES

Nearly All Drastic Restrictions on Lighting and Heating in Effect During 1917 Shortage Are Restored.

STORES AND FACTORIES ON A REDUCTED RATION

Manufacturing Plants to Run Only Three Days a Week—All Street Lighting Must Be Greatly Curtailed.

Washington, December 8.—Viewing with alarm the steadily dwindling bituminonus coal supply, due to the miners' strike, Fuel Administrator Garfield, by an order tonight, restored, for the entire nation, most of the drastic restrictions on lighting and heating, which were in effect during the coal shortage of 1917.

The limitations, which are applicable to consimers of bituminous coal and coke, were made effective tonight with issuance of the order, and are to be enforced by the railroad administration. Consumers of anthracite coal, gas and other fuels are not affected by the order.

All street lighting, other than that necessary for the safety of the public, must be curtailed and stores, office buildings and industrial plants, with a few exceptions, are put on a record ration as to both lighting and heating.

Another of the restrictions provides that all manufacturing plants except those engaged in the making of necessary products shall reduce their operations not to exceed three days in any one week.

Electric railways are required under the fuel administrator's order to reduce schedules to minimum requirements and no heat shall be provided in electric cars during the rush hours.

The New Restrictions.

The restrictions were announced through the railroad administration as follows:

No ornamental lights, white way or other unnecessary street lights, outline lighting, electric signs or illuminated billboards, show windows, or showcase lights are to be operated. This does not affect street lighting necessary for the safety of the public.

No cabaret, dance hall, pool hall or bowling alley shall be permitted to use light except between 7 p. m. and 11 p. m.

Stores, including retail stores but excepting stores selling food, and warehouses must not use light (except safety lights) except for six hours per day. Manufacturing plants shall be allowed to use light only during the time prescribed for the use of power.

Drug stores and restaurants may remain open according to present schedules, but must reduce lighting one-half.

Railroad stations, hotels, hospitals, telephone, telegraph and newspaper offices are not included in so far as necessary lighting is concerned.

General and office lights must be cut off not later than 4 p. m. in office buildings except necessary federal, state and municipal offices, and except where office operation of vital industries is involved.

Dairies, refrigerator plants, bakeries, plants for the manufacture of necessary medicinal products, waterworks, sewerage plants, printing plants for the printing of newspapers only, battery charging outfits in connection with plants producing light or power for telephone, telegraph or public utility companies are exempted.

Only enough heat may be used in offices, stores, warehouses and manufacturing plants to keep the average temperature at 68 degrees Fahrenheit, and then only during the hours for which light is permitted. During other hours only enough heat is to be used to prevent freezing of water pipes or sprinkler systems.

In manufacturing plants or plants

POSITIONS IN PARADE.

All organizations desiring positions in the parade on Thursday, given in honor of the visit of General John J. Pershing, are urged to communicate immediately with General J. Van Holt Nash, at his office in the capitol, according to a statement issued last night by the executive committee of the parade.

General Nash will assign the various units to positions in the parade, and, to assure every one of their proper place, it is urged that they communicate with him immediately.

MAN AND WOMAN HELD FOR MURDER OF BILLY DANSY

Hammonton, N. J., December 8.—Charles S. White, neighbor of the Dansey family, was arrested late today charged with the murder of "Billy" Dansey, Mrs. Edith L. Jones, housekeeper for Councilman Edward H. White, father of Charles White, was also arrested, charged with being an accessory after the fact.

The body of three-yer-old "Billy" Dansey was found by a hunter in a swamp near here on November 21. The boy had disappered from his home several weeks previously and a nation-wide search had been conducted for him on the theory he had been kidnaped.

White is the owner of the Dahlia farm, adjoining the Dansey farm. He is 29 yers old, and the father of "Charlie" White, the child playmate of "Billy" Dansey. The elder White told the investigators at the time of "Billy's" disapperance that he had seen the child in his dahlia fields.

When the body was discovered Dr. Louis R. Souder, the county physician who examined it, said that there was no evidence of foul play, but that the vital organs and all parts o fthe body which woud have aided in disclosing how the boy had died had disappered.

Edmund C. Gaskill, county prosecutor, declared tonight that he had sufficient evidence to show that the boy was murdered, and to clear up the mystery surrounding his death. He refused, however, to give any information as to the grounds on which the warrants were secured against White and Mrs. Jones.

SCHEDULE PRUNING CAUSES PROTEST

Crippling of Local Train Service While Tourist Service Continues Arouses Georgians to Complaint.

By James A. Hollomon.
(By Constitution Leased Wire.)

Washington, December 8.—Telegrams fro mthe city officials of Macon, Carrollton, Millen and other places in Georgia, and from business men all over the state and particularly along the Central of Georgia, have been pouring in to members of the congressional delegation today protesting against the cutting out of train service in order to conserve coal.

These protests are not directed at the basic proposition of reducing train operations, but at the particular schedules arranged along different routes. Macon protests are to the effect that the locals have been taken off while the through trains have been retained. Carrollton claims that its service has been reduced to such a minimum that the business of the city will be paralyzed, and so on.

The railroad administration here has made it plain today that the details in reducing train operations are left entirely with regional directors, and that these complaints must be taken up with Atlanta. In the meantime, however, it has asked for a report today covering the specific complaints, and the director of transportation has agreed to advise with Director Winchell, of Atlanta, regarding the specific cases and effect a satisfactory or certainly an equitable adjustment if practicable to do so.

Exodus Begins.

The Christmas exodus from Washington has already begun and as the reduced service goes into effect tomorrow indications are that thousands of government employees who will go to their homes for the holidays will get standing room only, and hundreds who have intended leaving the capital for Christmas, especially those whose homes are at a great distance, will defer the trip until the regular summer vacation season.

Members of congress from the south and west are making their reservations this early and because of the limited train service it is very probable that congress will adjourn for the holidays on Thursday, December 18, so that members may have suffcient time to get to their homes without stampeding the service in the four or five days immediately preceding Christmas.

The following passenger trains on the southern lines will be temporarily withdrawn tomorrow:

Trains Affected.

Trains 23 and 24, Washington-Memphis express, now leaving Washington at 2:10 p. m., and arriving here at 5:15 p. m. Trains 137 and 138, operating between Washington and Atlanta, one leaving Washington at 10 p. m., and the other arriving here at 8:45 a. m.

Trains 35 and 47, operating between Washington and Atlanta, leaving Washington at 8:30 and 9 a. m., are consolidated and leave Washington at 8:30 a. m. The

ATLANTA STORES MAY REMAIN OPEN AFTER 4 O'CLOCK

Modification of Order Grows Out of Fact That Heavy Rains Have Made It Possible for Georgia Railway and Power Company to Operate Part of Time Without Coal.

MANY SOUTHERN CITIES AFFECTED BY CHANGES

Plants Furnishing Power Will Be Permitted to Use Coal Until 4 O'Clock, But Not After That — Garfield Order Does Not Affect Latest Ruling.

Coincident with an order issued Monday night by United States Fuel Administrator Garfield, imposing upon the nation practically the rigid restrictions that obtained during the coal shortage of 1917, the coal committee of the southern region on Monday issued orders lifting restrictions on the use of electric light and power when it is generated solely by water power.

More electric power and light for Atlanta and several other cities in the southern region are now available, since the recent heavy rains have enabled large utility plants partially dependent on steam and partially dependent on water power for the production of their current to operate for certain hours of the day without the use of coal or other fuel. During these hours, when absolutely no combustion of fuel is required for the maintenace of current, the customers of these various plants may use light and power without restriction.

Order Affects Fuel.

The nation-wide regulations imposed last night by Federal Fuel Administrator Garfield affects users of soft coal.

This order, carried on this page in a dispatch from Washington, affects the south and is more drastic in some of its provisions than orders hitherto given out by the southern committee but it does not affect the ruling given out last night allowing greater freedom in the running of hydro-electric plants.

The national restrictions place all industries using soft coal or electric current generated by this class of fuel, on a ration basis. The use of electricity made by bituminous coal is drastically limited with reference to street and other lighting, and its use by street railway systems for heating cars is also cut down.

The Georgia Railway and Power company will operate by water power exclusively from 3:55 o'clock in the afternoon until 5 o'clock in the morning, and between the hours named the restrictions on the use of electric power and light by Atlanta

RAIN COMES TO AID OF TARDY SHOPPERS; STORES OPEN LONGER

Now, maybe some of these conscience-stricken Christmas procrastinators will heave a sigh of relief. Perhaps they thought the rain was just going to knock their Christmas shopping higher than prices, and they get a most exhilarating jolt out of the announcement that days, those fourteen shopping days, are going to be longer.

The hydro-electric plants have gotten their new lease on life and dilatory holiday purchasers may be heard to chant in unison and irreverence to our good Robert Loveman:

"It is not raining rain to me,
It's raining Christmas gifts.'
Gifts with reverse English, maybe, but gifts right on.

SENATOR W. J. HARRIS IN ATLANTA FOR DAY

Senator William J. Harris arrived in Atlanta early Monday afternoon and passed the night at the Ansley hotel. He stated late last night that he was called here on a personal business matter and that he will return to Washington this morning.

Too Much Booze Used by Airmen, Says Maynard

"Flying Parson" Says Whisky Caused Failure of Some Pilots in Trans-Continent Race.

New York, December 8.—The secret of the failure of some of the pilots in the recent transcontinental air race "can be attributed to too much booze," Lieutenant Belvin W. Maynard, the "Flaying Parson," declared in a statement made public tonight by the Anti-Saloon league. "If all of them had been as sober as myself I would not have been the winner," he added.

Although he declared he was "prejudiced against strong drink," the "Flying Parson" admitted there are "a few instances when a pilot might be justified in using it."

He pointed out that the aviator might take a drink to "tide him over" after becoming exhausted after continuous flying for twelve or fifteen hours.

Lieutenant Maynard said that many of the fatal air accident were due to pilots flying "half-intoxicated" or "with a hang-over from the night before."

"A pilot needs every bit of gray matter God has given him in an emergency and to have a brain clear from hang-overs and the effects of booze is a great asset," he added.

Savannah, Ga., December 8.—Lieutenant Belvin W. Maynard, upon being shown the statement attributed to him by the Anti-Saloon league at New York tonight, said:

"Yes, it is nearly correct."

Then taking his pencil he made the final paragraph read: "A pilot needs every bit of gray matter God has given him in an emergency. To have a clear brain, free from hangovers and the effects of booze, is a great asset.

"That makes it clearer," he said.

GENERAL PERSHING ARRIVES ON TIME

Train, Which Had Been Dropped From Service, to Be Allowed to Run to Bring Him to Atlanta.

CHILDREN TO SEE PERSHING.

Atlanta's 30,000 school children will be excused from school duties in time to greet General Pershing as he rides through the streets of the city next Thursday, the board of education voting them this opportunity at its meeting Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Samuel M. Inman, general chairman of the committee arranging for the general's visit, appeared before the board and asked that the school children be permitted to participate in the reception. Mrs. Inman suggested that the pupils carry flags and that they be massed at designated points along the route to be traversed by General Pershing. The pupils are expected to attend school as usual Thursday morning, and will be dismissed in time to take up their stations on the line of march.

General Pershing will be here on time!

The gloom which spread over Atlanta Monday afternoon when word was received that he would not be here until Thursday morning has been dispelled, and the original plans will be adhered to.

The coal crisis, which has resulted in the curtailment of train service on all roads, seemed about to cheat Atlanta out of about sixteen hours of the general's company. But through the efforts put forward by Mayor Key and other patriotic citizens, word was received from Washington through the office of Fuel Administrator Winchell late Monday afternoon that the train on which General Pershing was due to arrive Wednesday night and which had been dropped from the schedule, would be allowed to run that night.

Citizens to Meet Train.

Arrangements were made at a meeting of the committee having the program in charge for a delegation of local citizens to meet the general's train at Newnan. This committee will be composed of Councilman A. J. Orme, Colonel Albert Howell, Jr., John S. McClelland, Robert F. Maddox, Eugene R. Black.

When General Pershing steps from the train at the Terminal station he will be greeted by a large reception committee chosen by Mayor Key, and as he passes between a double line of Boy Scouts his face, now so familiar to all lib-

TECH HIGH SCHOOL BUILDINGS SCORED BY LADY VISITORS

Tell Board of Education That Guide Will Be Necessary for Anyone Looking for These Structures.

"MAIN BUILDING LOOKS JUST LIKE WAREHOUSE"

Tech High School Boys Ashamed to Let Visiting Teams See Their School, Declares This Report.

Any citizen of Atlanta would blush with shame to inspect the seven ramshackle buildings which house Tech High school, declared the lady board of visitors to the schools in a general report on the institution submitted to the board of education Monday afternoon. The inspection was made upon the invitation of Professor W. A. Sutton, principal of the school.

"Any one trying to find our Tech High school will need a guide, as the main building, the only one owned by Atlanta, looks like a warehouse and has no name above it," said the lady visitors. "A red mud field is the playground, and the other buildings are cheap frame houses once used as flats and now converted into school rooms, without artificial lights of any kind. The windows are darkened by the adjoining dwellings, and the rooms are so dark on cloudy days that the instructions written on blackboards cannot be read by pupils at the rear of the rooms."

Heated by Fifty-two Stoves.

The visitors declared that they found these rooms heated by fifty-two stoves inherited from grammar schools out of which they had been removed to make way for furnaces.

The report was signed by a committee composed of Mrs. R. L. Foreman, chairman; Mrs. W. T. Newman and Mrs. Hinton Hopkins, and was read by Mrs. Foreman. The board voted to accept the report and authorized a remedy for some of the conditions named.

Complaints were made by the women about the absence of lockers in the buildings. The committee stated that upon their trip of inspection they saw several hundred boys about the playground carrying book in their arms because they had no other safe place to keep them. Overcoats are folded and tucked about wherever a place can be found, said the visitors, though many prefer to leave them at home rather than risk the chance of losing them.

Ashamed of Buildings.

Illustrating the matter of pride in the students of Tech High, the ladies stated in their report that visiting athletic teams are steered clear of the school and taken to the ball grounds, as the loyal Atlanta pupils are ashamed to let the visiting boys see what Atlanta has provided for them.

Despite these adverse conditions, the lady board stated that they were impressed by the appearance, the spirit and enthusiasm of the 1,100 boys in attendance there; with the splendid faculty, loyal, well organized and doing fine work; and proud of the excellent mechanical equipment and the work turned out by the students.

Should the proposed bond issue of $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 for schools be submitted to the voters of the city and passed, a new building would be erected to replace the dilapidated structures which house Tech High.

A. J. Haygood, a confederate veteran, was elected by the board to fill the post of compulsory attendance officer in the department of public schools. His duties will begin on January 1, when the provision of the compulsory school law passed by the legislature at its last session requiring all children between the ages of 8 and 14 years to attend school for six months in the year, goes into effect.

New School Building.

Negotiations between Jacob Elsas and the board of education for the erection of a new school building near the Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills, were brought to a halt Monday afternoon, a special committee of the board reporting that Mr. Elsas in the final stages of negotiations wished to deviate from his original proposition.

He had proposed to donate a site and agreed to erect the building provided the board of education would pay him 6 per cent on his investment and purchase the structure

Hands Off Mexico, President Wilson Says to the Senate

He Would Be Gravely Concerned to See Any Such Resolution as That Proposed by Fall Passed by Congress.

COMMITTEE DROPS MEXICAN MATTERS

Lodge Says the Entire Situation Is Up to President and Responsibility Is On His Shoulders.

Washington, December 8.—The resolution asking President Wilson to break off diplomatic relations with the Carranza governemnt was abandoned today by republican leaders in the senate after the president had informed Senator Fall, of New Mexico, its author, that he would "be gravely concerned to see any such resolution pass the congress."

Up to Wilson, Says Lodge.

In announcing, after a conference with Senators Fall, and Brandegee of Connecticut, that the foreign relations committee would takt no action on the resolution, Senator Lodge said:

"We wanted to help, but now the entire situation goes to the president. The responsibility is on his shoulders. Let it rest there."

Senator Lodge said the committee had wished to assure the president of its support, but that even that appeared undesirable.

"Very well," he said, "he may deal with it."

"It was what I expected," remarked Senator Hitchcock, after reading the president's letter.

The president's letter to Senator Nall follows:

Passage of the resolution, the president wrote Senator Fall, would "constitute a reversal of our constitutional practice, which might lead to very grave confusion in regard to the guidance of our foreign affairs." Declaring that the initia-

Washington, December 8.—President Wilson's insistence that the senate refrain from passing the Fall resolution terminating friendly relations with Mexico today drew from Senator Fall documentary evidence showing that Carranza is so "friendly" as to be in intimate touch with the extreme radicals who seek to overthrow the government of the United States.

Senator Fall's charges against the president of Mexico are of a highly sensational nature. They set forth that Carranza not only sympathized with the fantastic visions of radicals for the destruction of the government of the United States, but he actually was supporting such efforts in addition to directing a personal propaganda of hostility to

RED EMMA LOSES WITH BERKMAN

Judge Refuses to Grant Writs of Habeas Corpus. Appeal To Be Taken to Supreme Court.

New York, December 8.—Federal Judge Mayer late today dismissed writs of habeas corpus obtained by Alexander Berkman and Emma Goldman to prevent their deportation to Russia and refused to admit them to bail. Federal District Attorney Caffey announced in court that the court planned to deport the two anarchists within two weeks.

Judge Mayer, who two years ago sentenced the two radicals to prison for obstructing the draft, then ordered them both remanded to Ellis Island, but granted a stay of deportation until 4 p. m. next Thursday to permit their counsel time to appeal to another court for admittance to bail and to carry an appeal to the United States supreme court.

Mr. Caffey announced that "other aliens" besides Berkman and Miss Goldman would also be deported within two weeks, referring presumably to 32 radicals whose confinement at Ellis Island recently has been featured by hunger and silence strikes.

The announcement was made in

WILSON PROPOSAL TO BE ANNOUNCED AT INDIANAPOLIS

When Federal Court Convenes Today, Attorney General Palmer Will Present Details of Agreement for Settlement.

PRESIDENT BELIEVES END OF STRIKE IS NEAR

Statement Predicting Settlement Is Issued From White House—Contempt Charges Against Miners May Not Be Pushed.

Indianapolis, Ind., December 8.—Department of justice officials, including Attorney General Palmer, and heads of the United Mine Workers of America, who today arrived from Washington, alike refused to give out any details of the agreement reached at Washington Saturday night looking to a settlement of the strike of bituminous coal miners.

Likewise they declined to make any statement as to the probable effect of the agreement upon the legal phases of the situation, which include arrangements for a sweeping investigation by a federal grand jury of alleged violations of the Lever fuel control act and anti-trust laws, and criminal contempt proceedings against eighty-four international and district officers of the miners' union.

At the close of a conference of government officials with United States District Judge Anderson, which lasted more than two hours this afternoon, Attorney General Palmer stated that there would be no announcement from the government on the coal situation until after the convening of court at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, when the miners' heads are to appear before Judge Anderson and answer the charges of contempt. It was announced that the union leaders would be required to appear as scheduled, but efforts to learn if the charges would be dismissed or the hearing postponed, pending the meeting of the executive board of the miners tomorrow afternoon to consider the Washington proposal were met with evasive answers.

May Postpone Action.

Belief that action against the miners in the contempt cases as well as the grand jury investigation which was called to investigate charges of conspiracy on the part of operators as well as miners, would be postponed was based on the action of government attorneys this morning in procuring postponement of the first session of the grand jury until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. In announcing this postponement United States District Attorney L. Ert Slack this morning stated that empanelling of the grand jury had been held off until conferences could be held with Attorney General Palmer. He stated that his announcement did not mean that the grand jury would be empanelled tomorrow morning, but that such action would not be taken before that time.

John L. Lewis, acting president of the United Mine Workers of America, who with Secretary-Treasurer William Green and Walter James, legislative agent of the miners' organization, arrived on the same train from Washington with the attorney general's party, also refused to discuss the Washington conference or the possible effect the agreement might have on pending court action. In answer to questions, Mr. Lewis said that in the Washington conference no mention was made of dismissal of court proceedings as a part of the proposed settlement.

Conference Being Held.

The conference this afternoon began at a hotel, but after a short while was adjourned to the Federal building in order that the department of justice officials might consult with Judge Anderson. Besides Mr. Palmer and Judge Anderson those who participated included C. B. Ames, assistant to the attorney general; United States District Attorney L. Ert Slack, Dan W. Simms, special assistant district attorney, appointed in connection with the proceedings against the miners; Henry S. Mitchell, special assistant to the attorney general, and Fred Van Nuys, who will succeed Mr. Slack as district attorney next month.

The meeting of the executive board of the miners has been called for 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon to hear the proposal made by President Wilson through the attorney general and which President Lewis and Secretary-Treasurer Green have agreed to urge upon the miners as a basis for settlement of the strike. Several of the district officials of the coal workers had reached Indianapolis late this afternoon and the others who composed the executive board and scale committee, all of whom are defendants in a contempt proceedings, are expected during the night or early tomorrow morning.

Settlement Expected.

While Mr. Lewis and Mr. Green would not discuss the Washington conference they appeared satisfied with the turn which the situation has taken and it was indicated that they expect a speedy settlement of the strike and resumption of work in the mines. It is believed that a statement by Ellis Searles, editor of The United Workers' Journal, to the effect that any proposal which met the approval of Mr. Lewis and Mr. Green would be indorsed by the executive board, reflected opinion among the miners generally.

There was much speculation tonight as to the terms of the proposal of President Wilson and widely divergent views were expressed. However, a preponderance of opinion favored reports that the proposal did not contemplate any advance in wages above the 14 per cent proposed by the government through Fuel Administrator Garfield at the close of the last joint conference of operators and miners in Washington, but contained provision for appointment of a commission to investigate and report on what is a just increase in wages. Under this plan, it was believed, the miners would return to work at once at the 14 per cent advance and after final settlement be given the benefit of any increase above the 14 per cent by payment of back wages during the period intervening.

WILSON EXPECTS SPEEDY ENDING OF COAL STRIKE

Washington, December 8.—Hope for the settlement tomorrow afternoon of the "controversy between the miners, the operators and the government," was expressed in a formal statement issued today at the white house.

The statement follows:

"It is hoped that there will be a settlement on Thursday afternoon of the controversy between the miners, the operators and the government through the acceptance by the miners of the plan for a definite settlement proposed by the president, which proposal was submitted to acting President Lewis, of the miners, by Attorney General Palmer Saturday night."

The utmost secrecy still surrounded the President's proposal and Secretary Tumulty and other officials refused to supplement the white house statement. It was learned, however, that the proposal made to the miners was from the president himself, and was in the form of a memorandum written by him.

Feeling Among Miners.

In agreeing to urge upon the miners' representatives acceptance of, the president's proposals, John L. Lewis, acting president of the United Mine Workers' of America, was said to have frankly informed Attorney General Palmer of the difficulties he was having in view of the feeling created among the miners by the injunction proceedings and the general attitude of the government.

Lewis was said to have expressed willingness to attempt to change this feeling if given assistance from responsible government officials in dealing with the men.

Federal court citations against the eighty-four national and district officials of the union for contempt, which will come to a head tomorrow, also at Indianapolis, were not discussed today by officials, particularly in view of the absence of Mr. Palmer, who has personal charge of further legal steps there against the strikers.

Discussion of Terms.

Discussion of the terms of the president's proposal to the miners' union chiefs which John L. Lewis, acting president, and William Green, secretary, have agreed to recommend to their associates at Indianapolis tomorrow, developed these virtually assured facts today: There will be no immediate increase given the menb eyond the 14 per cent suggested by Fuel Administrator Garfield as possible without an increase in the price of coal, but a commission will be established to review the whole situation. This was the plan outlined two weeks age by the fuel administration, but rejected by the miners. It was said, however, that the plan, as renewed, would give the men a more hopeful prospect of further increase. How far the fuel administrator participated in the arrangement was not known.

Senator Attacks Miners.

Congress likewise delayed action on the various pending proposals in connection with the strike, it generally being felt that it was advisable to await the outcome of events in Indianapolis. The strike, however, was brought before the senate late in the day by Senator Frelinghuysen, republican, New Jersey, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, which has been investigating the coal situation, who, in his address, caustically criticised the action of the miners, declaring the strike to be "an exhibition of inhuman selfishness" and a "brutal menace" to millions of American citizens.

"Wherein is the course of these strikers less heinous than their brothers in soviet Russia?" the New Jersey senator said.

The miners he described as the best paid workers in the United States and added that they were not entitled to even a 14 per cent increase in wages.

HANDS OFF MEXICO, WILSON TELLS SENATE

tive in directing relations with foreign governments was assigned by the constitution "to the executive and to the executive only." Mr. Wilson said he was confident that "the only safe course" was "to adhere to the prescribed method of the constitution." "We might go very far afield if we departed from it," he said.

Text of Wilson Letter.

The president's letter follows:

"Thank you very much for your kind promptness in complying with my request that you send me a copy of the memorandum report of the subcommittee on Mexican affairs of the committee on foreign affairs. I shall examine it with the greatest interest and care. What you told me of the investigation on Friday last, prepares me to find in it matter of the greatest importance.

"You ask an indication of my desire with regard to the pending resolution to which you and Senator Hitchcock called my attention on Friday, and I am glad to reply with the utmost frankness that I should be gravely concerned to see any such resolution pass the congress. It would constitute a reversal of our constitutional practice which might lead to very grave confusion in regard to the guidance of our foreign affairs. I am confident that I am supported by every competent constitutional authority in the statement that the initiative in directing the relations of our government with foreign governments is assigned by the constitution to the executive, and to the executive only. Only one of the two houses of congress is associated with the president by the constitution in advisory capacity and the advice of the senate is provided for only when sought by the executive in regard to explicit agreements with foreign governments and the appointment of the diplomatic representatives who are to speak for this government at foreign capitals. The only safe course, I am confident, is to adhere to the prescribed method of the constitution. We might go very far afield if we departed from it.

"I am very much obliged to you for having given me the opportunity to express this opinion.

"Very truly yours,
(Signed) "WOODROW WILSON."
"Hon Albert B. Fall, U. S. Senate."

Fall Takes Issue.

Senator Fall, in a statement tonight, took issue with the president that the senate could not advise on matters affecting relations with foreign governments until requested to do so by the president, and said there were precedents to support him. He also said he would again request the committee to postpone action on his resolution, "or upon any phase of the Mexican matter," until the president had had time to give the subject his consideration.

Before the president dispatched his letter the senate foreign relation scommittee held an hours session for discussion of the Mexican situation, including the Carranza oil decrees, which have been the subject of diplomatic correspondence between the United States and Mexico, but at the suggestion of Senator Fall action on his resolution was deferred until the president had expressed his views.

Senator Fall tonight made public the memorandum which he sent the president dealing with the results of the investigation of the senate committee, of which the New Mexico senator is chairman. Part of this information was given Mr. Wilson last Friday by Senator Fall when he and Senator Hitchcock, democrat, Nebraska, called at the white house to discuss the Fall resolution.

Mr. Wilson's statement in his letter that what the New Mexico senator had told him of the investigation "prepared" him to find in the memorandum matter of "the greatest importance," was interpreted by some senators as meaning that the president had not yet had time to study Mr. Fall's report.

Senators noted also that the president's letter gave no indication as to whether a change of the administration's attitude toward Mexico was under consideration. During the day the state department was advised by the American embassy at Mexico City that Carranza's reply to the American note renewing the request fo rthe release of Consular Agent Jenkins was to be handed to the American charge today. The reply had not been received at the state department tonight.

Meantime the investigation into the liberation of Jenkins on bail last week was continuing. Officials read without comment a statement given out by J. Salter Hansen at Mexico City that he had acted on his own initiative and responsibility in furnishing 1,000 pesos bail for Jenkins' release.

Senator Fall announced today that his committee would continue its investigation of the Mexican situation. He expects to leave for the border before the New Year to pursue the inquiry there.

WHY HANSEN FURNISHED BAIL FOR JENKINS.

Mexico City, December 8.—J. Salter Hansen, who furnished the bail upon which W. O. Jenkins, the American consular agent at Puebla, was released, declared he had acted on his initiative. He issued this statement:

"I wish to say the following: On Thursday morning last, on account of certain facts that came to my attention which I am in no position to disclose, I suddenly realized that war between the United States and Mexico was inevitable unless one of the two governments was ready to sacrifice his honor, prestige and dignity by receding from the dangerous position into which it was forced.

"I therefore took all the steps necessary to effect the immediate release on bail of W. O. Jenkins and relieve the tension. I did so spontaneously and of my own initiative, and I am ready and willing to take upon myself the full responsibility or credit, according to the point of view.

"It was a source of infinite pleasure to me to hear that the news of the release of Jenkins cheered our president, and I ardently hope that his complete recovery is near."

SOUTHERN CONGRESS MEETS IN SAVANNAH

The opening session was devoted entirely to speeches of welcome and to the honor guest of the day, General Pershing. Following the invocation by Right Rev. Frederick F. Reese, Episcopal bishop of the diocese of Georgia, Mayor Murray M. Stewart welcomed the delegates to Savannah, and Governor Hugh M. Dorsey welcomed them to Georgia.

Governor Dorsey referred to the great part which the sons of this state had taken in the organization and development of the congress. Its first presiding officer was Oscar Straus, a native of Georgia, he said. Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, another native of Georgia, had been one of its founders and its president for several years. The director general, Dr. Owens, was another Georgian, and the state feels that in honoring those who had made the congress a success, it was doing honor to itself, he added.

Cooper Raises Enthusiasm.

Governor R. A. Cooper, of South Carolina, who made the response for the south, raised the enthusiasm of the audience to the highest pitch when he declared that "Bolshevism, anarchy and disorder should not live on Dixie's soil." He was given an ovation second only to that which General Pershing received.

Senator Hoke Smith made a speech of welcome to General Pershing, whom he hailed as the greatest soldier developed by the war, and paid a tribute to the courage and endurance of the American private.

The conference began to get down to business at once. At the afternoon session the names of the following committee on resolutions were announced by Director General Owens:

Jordan First Speaker.

Other members of this committee, which is made up of at least one delegate from each of the sixteen southern states, will be announced at Tuesday morning's session. Several resolutions offered, including one by A. F. Thomas, of Lynchburg, Va., against the selling of ships by the shipping board, and one by Harvie Jordan, of Monticello, relative to the baling and marketing of cotton, were referred to the above named committee.

The first speaker at the afternoon session was Harvie Jordan, campaign director of the American Cotton association and chairman of the cotton committee of the Southern Commercial congress. He criticised the present system of baling and handling cotton, which he said cost the southern farmer $100,000,000 a year. He urged that a system of marketing be adopted which would make a market for the product throughout the year instead of having it forced out of the farmer's hands when prices were lowest in the fall.

Claude Bennett, of Washington, read the first statement that has been given out by the chairman of the United States shipping board, telling of the efforts that would be needed on the part of all the people to establish an American merchant marine and keep it in American hands. He said that the shipping board would have 2,250 ships completed by the end of 1920.

Urges Ship Habit.

A successful American merchant marine is not possible until the country grows into the ship habit, Chairman Payne, of the United States shipping board, declared today in a letter red to the congress.

The American people must be awakened, he said, to the necessity for American-owned ships and to the possibilities of the shipping industry as an investment.

"The problem of establishing a permanent merchant marine presses for solution," the letter read. "No question of government ownership is involved. The question is not between public and private ownership, but between American and foreign ownership. We want an established American merchant marine, how it shall be owned is less important. We desire that every ship now government owned shall be privately owned and operated by Americans for Americans, but that will come later."

By lowering the prices of its ships the board cannot crete a privately owned merchant marine, the chairman explained, because the American capital now available for the purchase of ships could only buy 300 of the 2,250 vessels which will constitute the government fleet by the end of 1920. This would leave the remainder on the government's hands to be operated in competition with the privately owned ships.

"We want to sell to our own people for use under our own flag and our country has not yet begun to think in terms of ships," Chairman Payne said.

Mortgage Bill.

He recommended passage of a mortgage bill by congress which would guarantee to investors a lien for the purchase price of ships. This, he said, would have as much value as the railroad mortgage and bankers and the public could freely invest in ship securities. He urged the development of American ship insurance and the strengthening of the American bureau of shipping.

Emphasizing the incresed importance of foreign trade and the necessity for maintaining a balance between exports and imports, Edwin T. Sweet, acting secretary of commerce, declared that the present unfortunate condition of foreign exchange constituted a bar to foreign commerce which could be remedied only by the extension of long term credits to Europe by the United States.

While American investors were not in a position to advance credits directly, he thought the Edge bill, now before congress, providing for the organization of federal corporations for foreign business, offered a solution of the difficulty.

The last speaker at the afternoon session, which was devoted mainly to a study of the problems of the cotton farmer, was Senator Hoke Smith.

No Governors' Session.

Owing to the program of entertainment for General Pershing there was no session of the house of southern governors today. In fact, only three governors had arrived for the conference so far—Governor Dorsey, of Georgia; Governor Cooper, of South Carolina, and Governor Wilson, of Connecticut. Governor Wilson is not a southern governor, but he will be invited to participate in the discussion of the conference. Governor Dorsey said tonight that he had wires from Governor Bickett, of North Carolina, and other southern executives that they would be on hand tomorrow and that the program of the governors' conference would be carried out.

Other meetings held today included a session of the woman's auxiliary of the congress at the DeSoto hotel under the presidency of Miss Louise G. Lindley, of Tennessee, and an educational conference at the Savannah high school under the direction of Dr. Carlton B. Gibson.

General John J. Pershing was the hero of the hour here today. As the guest of the Southern Commercial Congress of Georgia and of the city of Savannah, the general put in one of the busiest days that he has spent since he commanded the American legions that broke the Hindenburg line at the Argonne forest.

From the moment that his feet first touched Georgia soil early this morning until the conclusion at the DeSoto hotel tonight of the biggest banquet in his honor ever held in Savannah, every minute was occupied. What is said to have been the largest crowd ever seen here met him at the station on his arrival from Charleston this morning and lined the triumphal route of his progress to the DeSoto hotel. He was accompanied here by Brigadier General Fox Conner, his chief of staff, and others of his staff officers.

It was estimated that there were about 50,000 people along the line of march and the general was kept continually bowing and raising his cap to the cheering crowds. The climax of his reception occurred when he reached that part of the line where the 10,000 school children of Savannah were banked on Bull street. At this point the high school girls rushed forward, stopped his automobile, and their leader, Miss Olga Adler, daughter of a Savannah merchant, presented the hero with a splendid bouquet of chrysanthemums.

Crowd Goes Wild.

The crowd fairly went wild as the general gracefully saluted and accepted the flowers. At the city auditorium, where the opening session of the commercial congress was held, the general was given a greeting equal in enthusiasm to that which he had received on the streets. He was the last speaker on the morning program and the subject of his address was "The South's Part in the World War."

The audience was touched to the heart by the splendid tribute which he rendered to the thinning line of the men who wore the gray, representatives of whom in uniform immediately faced him in seats that had been reserved for them. Their hearts were equally touched by the eulogium which their great general pronounced on the Dixie lads who had given their lives for America and civilization in France.

"The southern men in our armies quickly reached the standard of our highest troops," he declared; "at Chateau Thierry, in the counter attack on the Marne, at St. Mihiel and above all in the Argonne forest the American soldier proved himself a true descendant of the men who fought with Pickett at Gettysburg, and with Grant at Vicksburg."

Confirmed Our Faith.

"They renewed and confirmed for all time our faith in Americans, the devotion to the nation's welfare which they showed will enable us to meet the unrest which prevails in the world today. The triumph of democratic government in the world is its guarantee of permanence and its ability to overcome the delusions to which the overthrow of imperialism has given rise in Europe.

"I am an optimist in regard to the future of America. Those who stood by us in the war, with the support of the men who fought for our country in the trenches, will prove themselves thoroughly able to cope with every danger. In their ranks you do not find anarchists. It is for us and them to make this country safe for real Americans.

"I sincerely hope that the last war has been fought, but it would be folly for us as a nation to revert to the condition of unpreparedness. I am making this trip to study the material side of our military necessities. This is a matter of national interest and I beg leave to urge its consideration upon the members of the Southern Commercial congress."

General Pershing disclaimed for himself the high honor of winning the war, which had been conferred upon him by the speakers who preceded him. But he declared that all of the good things which had been said of them, the American soldiers amply merited, and that in the American army the heroic men of Dixie had written for themselves a record which the world would never allow to grow cold.

Following the meeting at the auditorium, General Pershing was the guest of honor at a private luncheon at the DeSoto hotel tendered him by Joseph Hull, the proprietor. Accompanied by the members of his staff, he then made an inspection of the harbor and docks of Savannah.

Inspects Harbor.

Edwin F. Sweet, acting secretary of the United States department of commerce, was the general's host on this trip, which was taken in the Cypress, one of the vessels belonging to the department, which was sent here for the purpose.

Second only to General Pershing as the hero of the day was the daring parson aviator, Lieutenant Belvin W. Maynard, who arrived in Savannah yesterday after a flight from Long Island, bearing greetings to the Southern Commercial congress from Secretary of War Baker, Governor Smith, of New York, and the mayor of New York.

Lieutenant Maynard responded to a call for a speech at the morning meeting, in which he paid a high tribute to the Boy Scouts as the American citizens of the future.

The climax of General Pershing's entertainment came at the banquet given him tonight. Director General Clarence J. Owens, of the Southern Commercial congress, presided as toastmaster. Responses to toasts were made by United States Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, of Florida; Secretary of Commerce Edwin F. Sweet and General Pershing.

Industry Crippled Unless Coal Secured For Gas in Americus

Americus, Ga., December 8.—(Special.)—Hundreds of Americus homes will be without cooking facilities, and a number of industries here will be seriously crippled unless the local gas plant speedily secures a supply of suitable coal. This became known here when J. E. Johnson, manager of the Americus Lighting company, which operates the gas company, announced that the company had on hand gas coal sufficient to continue in operation only until Tuesday.

Users of gas have been appealed to to restrict its use to a minimum, and every effort is being made to secure coal. The unparalleled condition is a result of restricted coal production at Kentucky mines, which usually supply the plant here, and the situation is most serious. George Anderson, fuel administrator for Sumter county, has already telegraphed in many directions in an effort to divert a car of suitable coal to Americus, but up to last night had been unable to locate a single car anywhere in the southeastern territory.

Washington, December 8.—Without debate the senate today adopted a resolution by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, requesting the president to transmit copies of all correspondence between the United States and Great Britain relating to the British-Persian treaty.

ANGLIN MAKES 18-POUND GAIN

"It was the luckiest day in my life when I began taking Tanlac," said Charles E. Anglin, of 152 Beale avenue, Memphis, Tenn.

"Several years ago," he continued, "while living at Jonesboro, Ark., I had such a terrible attack of acute indigestion that I came near playing out. My stomach was in an awful fix and I just had to be particular about everything I would eat, and even then I suffered almost every day. My trouble pulled down my weight and strength till I was almost a physical wreck and had to stop work entirely. I couldn't eat or sleep to do any good and I would roll and toss in misery all night long. The medicines I took gave me only temporary relief and soon I was as bad, if not worse off, than I was before.

"My wife advised me to try Tanlac, so I started on it, and just a few bottles straightened me out fine. Before I had finished my first bottle I was eating anything I wanted. I improved so fast that I was soon back at work feeling all right. I picked up eighteen pounds in weight and then stopped taking it because my clothes were getting too tight. Tanlac is a wonder and I don't believe it has an equal in the world."

Tanlac is sold in Atlanta by Jacobs' Pharmacy Co. and all other leading druggists.—(adv.)

MISSING MONDAY, BLACKWELL'S BODY FOUND IN STREAM

Conley, Ga., December 8.—(Special.)—Half submerged by the waters from a little stream that flowed near his home, the body of W. F. Blackwell, prominent citizen of this community, was found shortly afternoon today by members of his family, who, becoming alarmed at his absence, instigated a search for him. Death resulted from heart failure, according to the verdict of the Clayton county coroner's jury, called to the scene a few minutes after the body of the dead man was discovered.

Members of the family stated that Mr. Blackwell left home on the way to work in good spirits after a hearty breakfast. Not coming home to lunch, Mrs. Blackwell said, a search was started, and the body was found a short distance from the residence, where the small stream is crossed by a footlog. Death, evidently, came as the middle of the stream was reached, as Mr. Blackwell's head was in the middle of the stream, with his feet a short distance from the bank.

He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Miss Irene Blackwell, and a son, Ezra Blackwell. The body was sent to the undertaking establishment of A. C. Hemperley, at East Point, and the funeral will take place at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from Mr. Blackwell's late home.

One of the young men, who retained his share of the fluid, became badly affected, his throat, tongue and vocal organs becoming completely paralyzed. Local physicains succeeded in relieving him to some extent, however, and the other two did not suffer so badly.

The reorganization of the Nunnally company, the oldest and one of the largest manufacturers of high grade candies in the south, involving more than $3,000,000, was announced by the Securities Sales company, underwriters of the transaction, Monday. According to plans set forth in statements by officials of the Securities Sales company, 160,000 shares of common stock, of no par value, will be placed on the market at $23 per share. Immediate application to have the stock listed on the New York exchange will be made.

The list of directors for the candy company is as follows: James H. Nunnally, chairman, Atlanta; E. W. Lane, president of the Atlantic National bank, Jacksonville, Fla.; J. N. Goddard, vice president Conklin Tin Plate company, Trust Company of Georgia, Citizens and Southern bank, Atlanta; W. W. Banks, vice president, Citizens and Southern bank, Atlanta; Clarence Haverty, vice president, Haverty Furniture company, Atlanta; E. R. Rogers, vice president of company, Atlanta; Frank Adair, director Lowry National bank, Atlanta; Winship Nunnally, president of company, Atlanta; Joseph A. Rushton, of Babcock, Rushton & Co., Chicago; Berry H. Collins, president Securities Sales company, Atlanta; T. Edward Hambleton, of Hambleton & Co., Baltimore.

It was announced that stock sales in the eastern market would be handled by Hambleton & Co., of Baltimore, while the firm of Babcock, Rushton & Co., Chicago, would look after the subscriptions in the western market.

The growth of the business of the Nunnally company has been phenomenal. The business was established in 1885 by James H. Nunnally, who as chairman of the board of directors will continue in active management of the company.

In 1909 the statement of the organization showed net sales of a little more than $400,000, while the 1919 report, with two months' estimated revenue, exceeded the three million and a quarter dollar mark.

It was announced in the statement offering the sale of common stock, that the reorganized company has under consideration the construction of a larger plant, capable of a greatly increased output. The present plant, located on Edgewood avenue, and having an annual capacity of more than five million pounds, will be enlarged, officials of the candy company stated, to care for the increase in the volume of business made possible by the world-wide advertising campaign to be conducted by the reorganized Nunnally company.

WALLACE WAS SHOT IN BACK OF HIS HEAD

Washington, December 8.—James Wallace, the American who was killed by a Mexican soldier at Tampico on November 26, was snot through the head from behind, according to The Tampico Tribune, an English newspaper under date of November 29, which reached Washington today. The newspaper account states that Wallace was a pipe line crew foreman, a position that carries responsibility in the Mexican oil fields. After reading the newspaper officials here were inclined to discredit the official report of the Mexican embassy that Wallace was intoxicated at the time he was killed.

Money Needed for Hospital For Convalescent Children

It is well known that one of the most dangerous periods of illness is that during convalescence. Thinking that he is practically well, the patient overexerts himself. Especially is this true in the case of children, who must be carefully watched during this time.

Charity wards in Atlanta hospitals are overcrowded, and children and other patients must often be dismissed as soon as the most critical period of the disese is past, in order to make way for other patients. If the convalescent could be assured of proper attention at home this would not be such a serious matter, but most of these children go home to families ignorant on helth matters, only to become ill again.

In order that convalescent children of Atlanta may be properly taken care of, the Oversas Girls' club is establishing a hospital. A house has been given them by Mrs. Lollie M. Pickett, at the end of the Howell Mill road. A graduate nurse must be hired, and the house must be properly furnished, in addition to the sum required to maintain the place as far as food and clothing goes. It will take $3,500 to do this, and letters are being sent out by the club to Atlanta citizens, asking for subscriptions. Sustaining memberships are sold at $2; contributing, $10; associate, $25; and honorary, $50. It is hoped that the amount can be raised without delay, and without a public acmpaign, in order tha tthe work may begin at once.

Miss Esther Smith, 954 Peachtree, is president of the club. Checks may be sent direct to her.

NEWBERRY MUTE WHEN ARRAIGNED

Thirteen of Those Indicted With Senator Also Mute—Newberry Is Accused of Violating Election Laws.

Grand Rapids, Mich., December 8. United States Senator Truman H. Newberry and thirteen of those indicted with him on charges of violating the election laws, stood mute when arraigned this afternoon before Federal Judge Sessions.

When the group of fourteen appeared before the court, Attorney James O. Murfin, representing them, informed Judge Sessions it had been the intention of the respondents to plead not guilty, but inasmuch as this precluded the possibility of raising certain legal questions, they would stand mute.

Those appearing with Senator Newberry were his brother, John S. Newberry, Paul H. King, Allen A. Templeton, B. Frank Emery, Charles A. Floyd, H. A. Hopkins, Frederick Cody, Milton Oakman, H. C. Turner, F. P. Smith, Clarence Sibben, Mark T. McKee and James F. MacGregor.

Following the arraignment of these respondents, eleven others named in the indictments appeared and also stood mute. They were. Roger H. Andrews, Richard H. Fletcher, William M. Cannon, William T. Hosner, F. W. Castator, Guy Ingalls, George W. John, Edwin Goodwin, Zalie Clago, Benjamin F. Reed and John Cawood.

After a conference between counsel for defendants and Judge Sessions, the plan to hold the trial on January 26 was abandoned and the date was postponed to January 27. Demurrers must be filed by January 6, when arguments will be heard.

It was exactly 2:05 when Senator Newberry appeared in the court room. He was escorted before the bar by a deputy United States marshal and was the first member of the group to face Judge Sessions. Then Paul H. King was taken before the judge and this proceeding continued until fourteen were in line, when Judge Sessions interceded, saying that the group was large enough. The same method of escorting the indicted men to the bar individually was followed in the arraignment of the second group.

The bonds of Senator Newberry were set at $10,000 on the first indictment and $5,000 on the second.

MINES IN NORTH SEA DESTROYING VESSELS

New York, December 8.—Ten additional members of the crew of the American steamship Liberty Glo, which broke in two after striking a mine off Terschelling, Holland, last week, have been landed at Emden, according to cable advices received here today by Barber and company, operators of the ship. Previous reports showed 23 of the crew missing, leaving 13 still unaccounted for. The Liberty Glo, owned by the United States shipping board, was on her way to Bremen and Hamburg with general cargo from New York.

As a direct result of the loss of the steamers Liberty Glo and Kerwood, both of which struck mines in the North Sea last week, war risk insurance today was quoted at a material advance. Where a rate of one-tenth of one per cent was previously asked, today one-half of one per cent was quoted for North sea ports.

German Protests Cause the Allies To Modify Terms

Features of the Protocol Most Objectionable to Berlin Government Have Been Eliminated.

SIGNING OF PROTOCOL EXPECTED VERY SOON

Believed That the Modification of the Terms Will Be Acceptable to the German Plenipotentiaries.

Paris, December 8.—The allies have consented to modify some of the terms of the protocol putting the peace treaty into effect to which Germany has made objection.

The clause providing for the indemnity for the destruction of the German fleet at Scapa Flow has been modified so as to refer to the league tribunal the question whether the delivery of the tonnage demanded will cripple Germany, it is understood.

Germany Expected to Sign.

The understanding also is that the other features of the protocol most objectionable to the Germans have been eliminated. It is expected that the German plenipotentiaries will sign the protocol without much further delay.

The final paragraph of the protocol providing that even after the peace treaty has gone into effect, the allies might use military measures of coercion to insure the execution of the treaty's terms, has been eliminated entirely, as also has the clause relating to the evacuation of the Baltic provinces by German troops.

The imputation of responsibility to Germany for the sinking of the Scapa Flow fleet is left in the protocol.

Notes Are Delivered.

The supreme council's notes dealing with the peace treaty were delivered to Baron von Lersner, head of the German delegation, this evening.

The first note denies the German demands for modification of the treaty on the surrender of Germans charged with crimes against internatitonal warfare and the return of prisoners. It agrees to consider the economic effects of the indemnities required for the sinking of the warships in the Scapa Flow on Germany in "a spirit of equity, after a hearing by the reparations commission."

The note warms Germany "for the last time" that denunciation of the armistice would give the allied armies all latitude for necessary military measures and adds: "In this spirit we await without delay signature of the protocol and the exchange of ratifications."

Regarding the coercion clause of the protocol the supreme council considers that signature of the protocol and ratification will make the treaty effective and that the protocol's execution will be guaranteed by the general terms of the treaty, and by ordinarily recognized methods. It rejects the Germans' "pretended right" to modification of the treaty clauses as compensation for the absence of Americans from the commissions. It declares that "it is vain for Germany to seek to delay" the treaty's effectiveness because of the position of the Americans with regard to the commissions.

The second note deals entirely with the Scapa Flow incident. It places the responsibility on the Germans for the sinkings and sees in the protest only "an attempt, difficult to explain, to delay the treaty."

The note cites the secret message of the chief of the German admiralty (Admiral von Trotha) to Admiral von Reuter, in command of the German crews of the Scapa Flow ships, dated May, telling him that the fleet's disposition "cannot be decided without us, it will be finished by us, and delivery to the enemy avoided."

To Give Wilson Authority.

Washington, December 8.—President Wilson would be authorized, under a resolution introduced today by Senator King, democrat, Utah, to employ the armed forces of the United States in conjunction with allied forces in enforcing the terms of peace on Germany.

Before the resolution was referred to the foreign relations committee, Senator Thomas, democrat, Colorado, wanted to know by what rules of consistency this government could propose to enforce a treaty which the senate had rejected. There was no answer.

Satisfactory Issue Expected.

London, December 8.—Andrew Bonar Law, the government spokesman, declared in the house of commons today there was little reason to doubt that the communications proceeding between the allied and associatde powers and Germany with reference to the immediate ratification of the peace treaty would have a satisfactory issue.

SUPREME COUNCIL RUSHING ITS WORK.

Paris, December 8.—The supreme council this morning took up the unfinished business of the peace conference in effort to dispose of the more urgent questions. Its purpose also was to decide upon the reference of the other pending questions to the proper quarters for decision after the "big five" becomes the "big four" as it is expected the supreme council, with the four principal allied powers represented, will continue to meet after the American delegates leave tomorrow.

As far as the Americans are concerned, the supreme council will cease to exist after the signing of the Hungarian peace treaty. It is as yet not determined who will sign that document for the United States, although in all probability it will be Ambassador Wallace. Most of the unfinished business will thereafter be referred to the various governments and settled through the regular diplomatic channels.

Among the matters to be referred will be the administration of western Thrace, although the ultimate fate of that province may be decided by the supreme council of four.

The reparations commission will inherit a number of questions, including the distribution of the German merchant shipping.

The revision of the treaty between Belgium and Holland, and the Adriatic and Baltic questions probably will be put in the class of those to be referred direct to the governments.

The question of the continuation of the inter-allied war council is still undecided. The Americans are understood to be unfavorable to its continuation, and the French and the British are said to be not yet in complete accord as to the details under which the organization may be continued.

The question of negotiations with Turkey is another one as yet undetermined. Great Britain still desires to transfer the negotiations to London, but France has not yet given her consent.

Among other questions remaining to be disposed of is the disposition of the German shipping left in the hands of Brazil and Uruguay, the former operated by the French, and the latter by the Americans. It is understood the American delegates favor the allotment of this tonnage, to Brazil and Uruguay, respectively.

TEN PERSONS INJURED IN RAILROAD WRECK

Johnson City, Tenn., December 8.—Ten persons were seriously injured and three others dangerously hurt in a passenger train derailment on the Carolina, Clinchfield and Ohio railway ten miles south of Speers Ferry at what is known as the Kermit tunnel, this morning.

Passenger coaches were derailed and overturned. The cause of the wreck is undetermined.

The injured are:

Dr. A. B. Dixon, negro, Johnson City.

L. D. Taylor, Elizabethton, Tenn.; W. C. Cooney, Johnson City; J. B. Jackson, Fordtown, Tenn.; Charlie Buck, Fremont, Va.; C. H. Cowden, Starnes, Va.; B. F. Taylor, Pardue, Va.; and J. C. Knox, Johnson City.

None of the persons received injuries that are believed to be fatal.

A relief train under the supervision of H. W. Morrison, general counsel for the Carolina, Clinchfield and Ohio railway, left Kingsport with three physicians on board. Superintendent Phetteplace arrived later in his private car attached to the wrecking train. Railway officials say that a broken rail caused the wreck.

Sir Joseph Lister

Today* We Go Even Further

Fifty years ago—before Sir Joseph Lister founded antiseptic surgery—surgical operations often were followed by gangrene and blood poisoning.

Today such consequences are rare exceptions, and medical science has so extended the idea of sickness prevention that the great plagues of the past no longer ravage the world. Serums, vaccines, anti-toxins, sanitation—all stand guard before the citadel of health.

Now science has developed an effective agent against that general condition that underlies 90% of all human disease—constipation.

That effective agent is Nujol.

Leading medical authorities agree that pills, salts, castor oil, etc., simply force and weaken the system. Nujol softens the food waste and encourages the intestinal muscles to act naturally, thus removing the cause of constipation and self-poisoning.

Nujol helps Nature establish easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals—the healthiest habit in the world. Get a bottle from your druggist today.

CLUB IS ORGANIZED TO SAVE TABERNACLE

Members Plan to Raise $17,000 to Help Pay Off Debt.

Developments in the campaign to raise the Baptist tabernacle debt of $96,000, which must be paid by January 1 to save the church from sale, are:

First—A redemption club, which aims at 500 members, has been organized to provide funds to meet the deficit of $17,000 which faces the church in its efforts to raise the deft of $96,000.

Second—J. O. Mitchell, manager of the James M. Smith estate, has written to the pastor of the tabernacle, Rev. J. W. Ham, in reply to an inquiry as to whether the Mormon church wants to buy the tabernacle property and turn it into a Mormon temple.

The Baptist tabernacle now has in the bank and in transit $42,000. It also has a pledge of $25,000 from the mission board of the Baptist church, which brings the church's available resources to $67,000. In addition, the church has outstanding subscriptions due this week which amount to $12,000, of which more than 90 per cent will be secured in the opinion of the team workers. In addition, $17,000 more will be needed.

In regard to the possibility of the Mormons buying the church if the debt is not paid, the pastor, Rev. J. W. Ham, wrote to the manager of the James M. Smith estate, and has received the following reply:

"As to prospective buyer for property, would say that some time ago it was intimated to us a certain religious organization would probably be interested, but in view of the contract existing between the administrators of this estate and your organization, it is not felt that they are at liberty to enter into tentative negotiations, and nothing has been done nor will anything be done with a view to disposing of the property except in the event that after the expiration of the existing agreement it shall become necessary for the administrators to do so. Under the circumstances we do not feel at liberty to state the name of the organization referred to.

ATLANTA STANDS BY FEDERATION

Woman's Club Passes Resolution Deploring Action of Macon Woman's Club in Withdrawing Because of Suffrage Action.

A resolution indorsing the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, and deploring the action of the Macon Woman's club in withdrawing from the federation on account of the passage of a resolution indorsing suffrage at the recent state convention in Columbus, was passed by the Atlanta Woman's club at their regular meeting Monday afternoon.

This step was taken by the Atlanta women after the action of the Macon women in circularizing the state women's clubs with letters asking them to withdraw from the federation.

Situation Is Explained.

In introducing the resolution to the meeting, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, chairman of the resolutions committee, said:

"Yesterday's papers carried a call from our president, Mrs. J. E. Hays, for allegiance to and support of the Georgia federation. This call came in answer to the challenge of a group of Macon women, dissatisfied with the resolution—passed, 2 to 1—indorsing suffrage at the convention in Columbus.

"The whole state has been circularized by this committee, each club has been asked to withdraw from the federation, thus quickly to disintegrate the most powerful organization of women in the state.

"The question is not one of suffrage, or anti-suffrage, but of accepting the will of the majority and going quietly on with the work of the federation. To this end your executive board in session last Friday sent a telegram of cordial support of the federation to Mrs. Hays. The board also instructed your resolutions committee to bring to this body for action resolutions in accord with the action of the board."

Resolution Passed.

The resolution, as presented and passed, is as follows:

"Resolved: First, That the Atlanta Woman's club deeply deplores the effort to disrupt the Georgia State Federation.

"Second, That the Atlanta Woman's club pledges its unfailing loyalty and support both to the federation and to its president, Mrs. J. E. Hays.

"Third, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to Mrs. Hays and to the committee in Macon."

CARRANZA IN TOUCH WITH U. S. RADICALS

the American people and to President Wilson.

The documents held by Senator Fall were said by him to establish direct contact between Carranza and Mexican and American extremists who proposed to call a general strike last month in the coal and metal industries; to have their 3,000,000 adherents in this country who would seize one Pacific and two Atlantic ports, aided by the "large number of American soldiers who were preparing to take sides with them;" that it was proposed to establish a "reformed government" in the United States with its capital in Colorado, and then when the revolution had been accomplished to return to Mexico the border states acquired from that country in 1848.

Plan of San Diego.

The revival of the so-called "plan of San Diego" which was exposed in 1915, was contemplated. This dream of conquest proposed the segregation from the United States and ultimate union with Mexico of the states of Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, and Upper Colorado; that Americans over 16 years of age should not be held as prisoners, but should be executed; that the aid of negroes should be sought with promises of subsequent assistance to them in the conquest of six southern states for an independent negro nation.

Despite the fact that the American people scoffed at this "childish and ridiculous" plan and could not believe that the Mexican government had anything to do with it, Senator Fall showed that Carranza was very active in its recent revival. He established his chain of evidence through photostatic copies of letters written by Carranza and by minutes of radical meetings in Bisbee, Ariz., and Mexico City, Mexico, showing that Carranza had taken a personal interest in three leaders—two Texans and a Mexican—in the movement.

Senator Fall sought further to establish clearly that Carranza's diplomatic and consular agents in the United States were supporting revolutionary propaganda in this country, their inspiration coming direct from Carranza. He stated furthermore that the Carranza "blue book" and "the Carranza doctrine," two Spanish books circulated in the United States by Mexico, revealed beyond doubt the "determined policy" of Carranza to drive British and American investors and their employees from Mexico, while inviting German and Japanese investments and immigrants.

Reference in correspondence between "two high officials" in Mexico to the fact that the "treaty with Japan is coming along," was made by Senator Fall without further comment upon the probability of such a secret treaty. He drew attention to it, however, in connection with the famous Zimmerman scheme proposed by Germany during the war to Mexico and Japan.

Hostility of Carranza.

A photostatic copy of a letter written by Carranza showing his "sympathetic hostility toward foreign speculators, especially American and English," and his desire to paint in "lively colors" the "tortuosity" of the American policy toward Mexico, "causing the figure of Wilson to stand well out as the director of that policy," was revealed by Senator Fall. It follows:

"Private correspondence of the president of the United Mexican states.

"Mexico, N. D., June 29, 1919.—Miss Hermila Galindo, Ignacio Ramirez Street, No. 6, City.—Esteemed Lady: It is necessary that your book, 'The Carranza Doctrine,' be finished in a short time, since I desire that you immediately proceed to write a second part of it, for which purpose I shall shortly send you a blue book' which we are about to publish, and which will serve to justify the attitude of my government in its systematic hostility towards foreign speculators, especially Americans and English.

Do not forget my injunction to describe in lively colors the tortuosity of the American policy with relation to our country, causing the figure of Wilson to stand well out as the director of that policy. I also enjoin you to be very careful about the corrections which I have made in the original (manuscript) which you brought me.

"I salute you affectionately.

"V. CARRANZA."

Senator Fall's memorandum to the president referred throughout to the fact that the startling evidence against Carranza had been obtained by the subcommittee on Mexican affairs of the senate committee on foreign relations. Senator Fall is chairman of the subcommittee.

"The committee had its attention called," the memorandum stated, "to a letter from Consul General R. P. De Generi to a member of the Mexican senate of Mexico City, dated New York, October 23, 1919, and published in Spanish in a Mexico City daily paper of November 6, 1919, in which the consul geenral calls attention to the fact that he is in touch with radicals and others in the United States favoring the nationalization of all property, and congratulates the Mexican senator upon the ground that Mexico has set an example in such nationalization, and that he, De Generi, in 1917, had made up his mind to engage in propaganda favorable to us (Mexico) by having our constitution printed in English.

Attack on Wilson.

"There was obtained from a Mexican consulate in Texas a pamphlet, entitled 'The Conspiracy Against Mexico,' by one Arthur Thomson. In this pamphlet, among otherr things, comparison is made between the Mexican constitution and the soviet government in Russia, and the charge is made that the American government has placer eevry obstacvle in the way, through protest, etc., of the Mexican Carranza government carrying out the provisions of the Mexican constitution, and nationalizing all forms of property. Strong criticism is directed at President Wilson for his actions in this regard, and attention is called to certain speeches made by the president as being naturally contradictory in their terms with reference to Mexico, and the general tenor of the document is to hold President Wilson responsible for interference with the Carranza government in Mexican affairs. Even stronger criticism is directed at Secretary Lane, the charge being that he, while a member of the American-Mexican joint commission, was "attempting to browbeat the Mexicans into yielding the guarantees demanded by the Rockefellers, the Guggenheims, the Dodges and the Dohenys.'

"By causing a letter upon private stationery to be written to the Mexican embassy stating that the writer understood that this pamphlet was being distributed by the embassy and expressing a desire that a copy might be mailed to a private address in the city of Washington, an immediate response was had by the receipt in a plain envelope of a copy of such document.

"The committee caused a letter to be written to the author of the pamphlet directed from a southwestern town in which the writer, under a German name, requested copies of the pamphlet and suggested that through certain influence which he might wield the Mexican government might be persuaded to purchase and circulate the Thomson pamphlet. An immediate reply was received from the author stating, among other things, that the consul general of Mexico, at San Francisco, had already purchased for distribution five thousand copies of such pamphlet, and that they were being distributed in the United States and other countries, and also stating that should the consul general be able to obtain from his government further funds for such purpose, an increased number of such pamphlets would be so distributed.

Propaganda Efforts.

"At the very moment of closing this investigation of the acts of Carranza in favoring and attempting to carry out the 'plan of San Diego,' evidence was brought to the committee not only of the propaganda efforts of the Carranza government referred to, and of the agitation being carried on by the Carranza consuls and diplomatic agents in this country with the radical revolutionary element in the United States, but further evidence was presented showing that Carranza himself directly was now engaged in assisting in the formulation, or at least with knowledge that plans were being formed similar to those in the 'plan of San Diego' in some respects, and that he was lending government assistance to the carrying out of such plans, which were again directed to revolutionary effort in the United States. The committee has in its possession photostatic copies of two letters sent by Carranza and directed to Aguirre Berlanga, minister of governacion of Mexico, in one of which he directed pecuniary assistance, etc., to be rendered to two men coming from Texas, who are in Mexico with one Mr. Juan M. Garcia, and in the other letter dated June 14, 1919, Mr. Carranza states to Mr. Berlanga that there are three men—two from Texas. This letter reads as follows:

"Mexico, June 14, 1919.—V. C.—Senor Lic Manuel Aguirre Berlanga. Esteemed Friend: Senor Lino Cabello, bearer of this letter, is the person who, in company with two friends, will bring to you the manifestos and the plan which they desire to put into practice in the state of Texas.

"This plan being very favorable for Mexico, please aid them in every way and give the necessary instructions in the frontier states.

"I remain your affectionate friend,

"V. CARRANZA."

Carranza Preparing.

"Of course this letter of itself is evidence that Mr. Carranza is ordering the frontier states of Mexico to be prepared to take some action concerning some plan to be carried out in the state of Texas, which plan will be explained and is to be explained by the men introduced by Mr. Carranza to Mr. Berlanga. Following this or contemporaneous with the receipt by the committee of this photostatic copy, the committee came into possession of the notes of the proceedings of the secret meeting of lodge 23, an organization of extreme agitators and I. W. W. members in the city of Mexico, held on October 15, 1919.

"The notes referred to state that at this meeting on October 15 of lodge 23, there appeared three delegates, two Americans and one Mexican, who had arrived from the United States, and who claimed that 'the society" would be able at the beginning of next November (that is, the month of November, 1919, just passed) to call a general strike of all miners and metal workers in the United States; that they have three million adherents in that country where they will be able to seize one western and two Atlanta ports, that a large number of American soldiers were preparing to take sides with them, and that they proposed to establish a capital of a reformed government of the United States in the state of Colorado; that when such revolution was successful, the Mexicans rendering their assistance, the border states, which were acquired by the United States under the treaty of 1848, would be returned to Mexico.

"From evidence in its possesion the committee is prepared to say that the three men referred to in the minutes of this meeting are the same three men, or at least that the two Texans or Americans were two of the same men referred to by Carranza in his letter of instructions which is quoted above.

'It may be well to add the further statement, viz.: The committee identified at least two of the men mentioned in the Carranza letters of June 14 and of August 19. The committee knows who Lino Cabello and Juan Garcia are and are familiar with their activities. The committee has also identified one of the agents who was to come from New York to Laredo to support revolutionary doctrines, etc. This particular man is in the secret service of Mexico under Aguirre Berlanga. The committee also has the evidence as to what took place at Bisbee, Ariz., when the Mexican I. W. W., co-operating with other radical I. W. W.'s, threatened the peace of that town and were deported. It was stated in the hearing before W. B. Wilson and the president's other mediators, that these Mexicons were largely Villa followers and had arms in the Ajo mountains, which they proposed to use in the revolution at Bisbee. The committee has information leading it to believe that at least one of the men deported was in Mexico City on October 15 and at the secret meeting of lodge No. 23 of that date.

Carranza Blue Book.

"The committee obtained possession of a copy in Spanish of what Mr. Carranza calls his 'blue book,' embracing some 400 printed pages, in which at various places attention is called to the oppressive policy of the United States government toward Mexico, and stress is laid upon the fact that President Carranza has resisted every such encroachment and in every instance from the first proposed Niagara conference down to and including the American protests as to nationalization of lands and other properties, that Carranza had been successful by refusing absolutely to yield in any respect to the demands of this government. It calls attention to the fact that the letter to Miss Galindo showed Carranza personally was correcting proof and dictating contents of the propaganda books."

After reading the president's letter, Senator Fall conferred with Senators Lodge and Brandegee and later issued the following statement:

"The president's letter deals exclusively with the propriety of passing the resolution recommending the withdrawal of the recognition of the Carranza government and his comments relate directly and only to that proposition. It is surprising that at this time it should be stated that the suggestion of the senate that such recognition should be withdrawn should constitute a reversal of our constitutional practice. From the beginning of the government the senate has felt free and has exercised its privilege over and over again to make any suggestions in respect to all phases of foreign relations. There is nothing in the constitution that requires that the initiative with respect to foreign relations shall be limited to the executive. Of course he may and properly, because of his extraordinary relation to foreign affairs, in ordinary cases be the source of negotiations. The president's general statement that only one branch of the congress, namely, the senate, has any relation to foreign affairs and the senate only when its advice is sought by the executive, is contradicted by a hundred precedents. Indeed, the precedents have gone so far that in a number of cases the advice has been the advice of negotiation and even as solemn engagements as treaties have been made not only upon the suggestion of the senate, but in the exact terms that the senate has suggested."

Mexican Reply on Jenkins.

The state department was advised today that Mexican newspapers have announced that the Mexican government's reply to the second American request for the relese of William O. Jenkins, American consular agent at Puebla, who was freed after bail in the amount of $500 had been deposited by J. Salter Hansen, an American, would be handed to the United States embassy in Mexico City today.

The Mexican reply is not expected to be conciliatory, but to vindicate the Mexican pretensions, the danger of a rupture of relations over the Jenkins case having been removed by his release. It is considered unlikely that the Mexican note will draw a rejoinder from this government, as it is believed Mexico would engage only in polemics.

Unless Jenkins should be rearrested, no further insurmountable difficulties are looked for in his case. The most interesting phase of the case left is the inquiry into Hansen's record beng undertaken with the state department, in an effort to discover why he put up bond for Jenkins, against the wishes of Jenkins himself and the purpose of the state department.

VII. We Go Shopping

"Come on, Nan," I called, "hustle through that raft of letters and go shopping with me."

"All right, there's a bit of shopping I want to do myself," Nan answered.

The crisp December air brought the color dancing into Nan's cheeks as we walked to the train. Her complexion was positively petally and the wide-meshed veil made her a perfect picture.

"By the way, Nan," I said, "I thought Herb acted rather happy last night—he seemed to approve of life in general."

"Now, never mind, dear," Nan teased, "you just pilot me to your pet toilet counter and I'll be happy. I need another bottle of Hagan's Magnolia Balm. It's the best liquid face powder I know."

"Fine," I said, "I need another bottle myself." So we purchased two bottles of Magnolia Balm—that ideal lotion that really beautifies the skin without being detected. I never use any other. It is so easy to apply and is not greasy or injurious to the skin. The price is only 75 cents at the dealers or post paid from the Lyon Manufacturing Co., 100 So. Fifth St., Brooklyn, N. Y. There are three colors—white, pink and rose red. Try a bottle today. Besides its beautifying qualities it protects the skin from chapping and wind burn.

As we came out of the store who should we meet but Herb Kendall!

"Why, Herb," I said, "how did you ever happen along?"

"Oh," he laughed, "I just had a feeling that you and Rosy Cheeks were some place near. Let's run over to the tea room for luncheon."

IF YOU NEED A MEDICINE YOU SHOULD HAVE THE BEST

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfil the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfils almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcels Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention the Atlanta Constitution. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—(adv.)

To The Public

"Atlanta, Ga.,
"December 8, 1919.

"Georgia Railway & Power Co.,
"Atlanta, Ga.

"Gentlemen:—

"Along the line of our interview today, the Regional Coal Committee understands that the GEORGIA RAILWAY & POWER COMPANY will cease manufacturing any electricity by the combustion of fuel at 3:55 p. m. each day, and that no electricity will be generated by the combustion of fuel between 3:55 p. m. each day and 5 o'clock the following morning, but that this energy will be supplied during this period entirely from hydro-electric plants without the combustion of coal.

"Under these conditions, the Committee will waive restrictions on the use of electricity for light and power insofar as your customers are concerned, from 4 p. m. each day until 5 a. m. the following day, and you may so notify your customers.

"Please be very careful in sending out this information to emphasize the fact that full curtailment rules, governing the use of electricity for light and power, are still on for your territory, and for your customers, during the period between 7 a. m. and 4 p. m. of each day. Please also emphasize the fact that the rules covering the use of heat have not been modified in any way.

"You are to give to the Committee each day a report on your operations, on forms which will be supplied to you, and will keep the Committee fully informed as to your operations insofar as the consumption of fuel is concerned.

"Yours very truly,
"REGIONAL COAL COMMITTEE."

This applies to all users of electric cur rent supplied by lines of the Georgia Railway & Power Co., located in and around the following cities and towns:

Atlanta	Duluth	Cedartown
East Point	Gainesville	Rome
Hapeville	Lawrenceville	Dalton
College Park	Braselton	Calhoun
Kirkwood	Hoschton	Milstead
Decatur	Winder	Buford

Conyers	Bolton	Emerson
Covington	Smyrna	Aragon
Social Circle	Marietta	Lindale

The peculiar advantage that comes to our customers through the above order clearly establishes the wisdom of hydro-electric power.

ARMY OF 300,000 MEN FOR THE UNITED STATES

Washington, December 8.—A peace time regular army of 300,000 men and 18,000 officers was decided on today by the house military subcommittee, headed by Representative Anthony, republican, Kansas, framing the army reorganization bill. The number of combat troops, was fixed at 250,000.

The sub-committee's proposal would leave it to the president to divide the forces into infantry, cavalry and artillery units at his discretion.

The provision for 18,000 officers, many more than needed for an army of 300,000 men, was framed in order to give 1,500 to 1,600 extra as instructors for the national guard and reserve officers' training corps units. Both the guard and training corps would be greatly enlarged under the committee's plans, as only 300 officers now are needed as instructors.

at a stipulated figure at the end of five years. During this time the board was to maintain it as a school.

The committee stated that he wished to reduce the five years to two years, and also declined to pay the architect's fee, which he was expected to do.

A delegation representing patrons of the Stewart Avenue school appeared before the board and asked for the erection of two additional class rooms at this school to take care of children in this district who are forced to attend the Adair school and other schools for lack of room at the Stewart Avenue school.

The representatives were armed with a petition signed by 206 patrons of the school requesting relief from the board.

Members of the board agreed that the need for more room at the school is urgent and referred the request to the finance committee of the board of 1920 with the recommendation for favorable action.

GARFIELD MOVES AS COAL DWINDLES

coming under power curtailment rules, heat (to 68 degrees Fahrenheit) will be allowed only during that time prescribed for use of power.

Coal Curtailed to Factories.

No manufacturing plant or factory shall be furnished bituminous coal or coke, or heat, light or power from bituminous coal or coke furnished by or through the United States fuel administration for operation in excess of three days a week on the basis of present working hours. The exceptions are dairies, refrigerating plants, bakeries, plants for the manufacture of necessary food products, of necessary medicinal products, water works, sewerage plants, printing plants for the printing of newspapers only, battery charging outfits in connection with plants producing light or power for telephone, telegraph or public utility companies.

Elevator service must be curtailed as much as possible in accordance with the above regulations on use of heat, light and power.

Electric railways shall reduce schedules to minimum requirements of service under revised hours of heating, lighting and power as herein provided.

No heat shall be provided on electric cars during rush hours and heating during non-rush hours shall be curtailed as much as possible.

Electric railways and manufacturing plants, stores and offices are required to co-operate in arranging, within the provisions of the order, schedules, days and hours of work to permit the maximum utilization of transportation equipment.

Many of the restrictions contained in the order have been in force in some states for some days, having been placed in effect by regional coal committees and state authorities. The order issued tonight, which will affect more persons than any coal rationing measure taken since the strike began more than five weeks ago, will make itself felt, however, in every community in the nation.

As Precautionary Measure.

Issuance of the order, officials explained, did not mean that hope of settling the strike, possibly tomorrow at Indianapolis, had been given up, but restrictions were necessary as a precautionary measure. This was explained by Dr. Garfield in the following portion of his announcement of the order.

"A careful survey of the coal situation indicates that even if there is a prompt settlement of the coal strike, it will take some time to adjust the country to a normal basis and that, therefore, certain restrictions will have to be placed on the consumption of bituminous coal and of light, heat and power derived therefrom, so that urgent domestic needs may be cared for, the necessity foodstuffs produced and really essential light, power and heat supplied. Already in many parts of the country restrictions as to the use of coal and coke for lighting and heating purposes and for the production of electricity and power for such purposes have been adopted. Regulations were tonight issued to make such restrictions uniform over the country and thus aid in the conservation of coal."

erty-loving people everywhere, will be lighted by the flares of four hundred red torch lights.

Parking on the plaza, Mitchell street and Peachtree street, will be prohibited after 6 o'clock Wednesday night in order that there might be no delay in getting to the Elks Lodge building.

City Will Be Decorated

Lavish display of flags in residence and downtown districts will greet General Pershing upon his arrival in Atlanta. The committee in charge of decorations has asked that residences, especially those upon the route the general will take on his tour through the city, be decorated with flags. Forty firms on Whitehall street have already agreed to co-operate with the committee by decorating the fronts of their stores with flags and bunting, and it is probable that the scene will surpass even the Fourth of July and Armistice days in patriotic decorations.

Among those who have agreed to decorate are the following:

J. P. Allen company, Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose, National Clothing company, Hightower Hardware company, Cook-Cobb company, Myers-Miller Furniture company, Capital City Laundry, Empire Furniture company, Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, Zahan Furniture company, United Tailoring company, Sauls department store, Globe Clothing company, King Hardware company, J. Regenstein company, F. W. Woolworth, Byck Bros., Ginsberg, Inc., J. M. High company, Cole Book and Art company, Roundtree Trunk and Bag company, Tipps Specialty Shop, Inc., Lilienthal Crockery company, Southern Book Concern, C. W. McClure company, Davison-Paxon-Stokes, Keely company, Frohsin company, Franklin-Cox company, Allen-Chapman company, The Boys' Shop, E. J. Perkerson company, Hanover Shoe company, Eiseman & Sons company, Fred Stewart company, Walk-Over Shoe company, H. G. Lewis and company.

Program for Pershing.

Immediately upon his arrival Wednesday night, General Pershing will be escorted to the Elks' building, where he will be a guest of the local lodge at a dinner and dance. Owing to the late hour of his arrival, guests will already be assembled, and no time will be lost. Two hundred covers will be laid for the dinner.

On Thursday morning, General Pershing and his staff will drive to Camp Gordon to inspect that camp and, upon their return, will go direct to the Georgian Terrace, where they will be met by a citizens' committee for an automobile parade through the city to Fort McPherson. Since this will be the only public appearance of General Pershing, and the nearest aproach to a parade great throngs of people will line the streets on this route. Many of the patriotic and civic organizations of the city are expecting to gather in bodies at various points and help in the general welcome. Five hundred members of the American legion, many of whom were in France, will be congreated at Five Points.

Upon his arrival at Fort McPherson, Geleral Pershing whl be the luncheon guets of Colonel T. S. Bratton, commanding officer of Fort McPherson. Following the luncheon he will make a general inspection of the hospital. From there he will go to Camp Jessup to inspect the camp and general repair shops. This will complete his official duties here, and from Camp Jessup he will return to the Georgian Terrace.

On Thursday night a dinner and dance will be given in his honor at the Piedmont Driving club. Five hundred covers will be laid, and those who desire to attend the dinner, which will be a formal affair, in full dress, should send in their names early. The price of the plates is $5 each, and checks should be made payable to W. W. Orr, treasurer, 464 Chamber of Commerce building.

response to the claim of Harry Weinberger, counsel for Berkman and Miss Goldman, that the government had no definite plans to deport his clients, and that they might be held at Ellis Island indefinitely, perhaps for life, in violation of law.

Denounced by Judge.

In rendering his decision, Judge Mayer denounced both of the anarchists.

"The court views these defendants as enemies of the United States and of the peace of this country," he said. "Berkman has a criminal record that began when he attempted the assassination of Mr. Frick. At the beginning of the war these defendants tried to prevent the carrying out of the selective draft act. They did everything they could to destroy the welfare, the stability and the integrity of this government, and the court regards their actions as every bit as bad, every bit as inimicable to the government, as were the acts of the common enemy, the German empire. Therefore, the court declines to grant bail."

Mr. Caffey furnished still another surprise for Miss Goldman by announcing that Jacob A. Kersner, whom she claims to have married in Rochester, N. Y., in 1887, did not die until January of this year. Weinberger had argued that the cancellation of Kersner's citizenship by the United States district court at Rochester, in 1909, was illegal, because Kersner presumably was dead at that time.

The only point worthy of consideration throughout his entire argument that the deportation would be unconstitutional, Judge Mayer told Weinberger, was his claim that Miss Goldman had not been given notice of the denaturalization proceedings against Kersner and that the "real intention of the government was to denaturalize Emma Goldman by subterfuge and indirection."

To this United States Attorney Caffey replied that Kersner's father had testified that his son immigrated from Russia in 1882 and that he was born in 1865. He was naturalized by the Monroe county state court at Rochester in 1884. The law provides that an alien must be at least 21 years old and have been in the country at least five years before naturalization.

Lack of Fair Play Alleged.

Weinberger accused the government of lack of fair play in not giving Miss Goldman a chance to prove that Kersner's father reckoned dates by the Jewish calendar and had been mistaken about his son's birth and the date of his arrival from Russia.

Mr. Caffey said that Miss Goldman could not have been a party to the denaturalization proceedings because the statute only permitted the man upon whom citizenship had been conferred to contest this suit, and that notice had been served on Kersner by publication.

"She never appealed to have that judgment vacated even if they were married," he said.

The other contentions of Weinberger as to the unconstitutionality of deportation were termed by Mr. Caffey "frivolous and absurd."

These claims were: First, that the anarchy statutes of 1917 and 1918 violated the first amendment to the United States constitution providing that congress shall pass no law abridging freedom of speech or of the press; second, that when his clients were admitted to the United States more than thirty years ago they were not anarchists and that to deport them now would violate ex-post facto inhibitions of the constitution; third, that the government could not deport them to soviet Russia, as it has announced its plans to do, because the United States has not recognized the bolsheviki.

In reply Judge Mayer said that the anarchy statutes had already been held constitutional by other courts; that congress could pass at any time any law it saw fit regulating aliens, and that the court had no judicial knowledge of soviet Russia.

Elaborate precautions were taken to guard the court during the hearing. Dozens of policemen and plain clothes men were on guard at the doors and in the corridors. Friends of the anarchists were barred from the court room.

BOURBON LIQUOR MAY BE ISSUED AS DIVIDENDS

Chicago, December 8.—Rumored possibility that dividends of the United States Food Products company, legal successor to the former Distillers Securities corporation, would be distributed in the form of distilled liquor instead of currency caused much comment here today.

One broker estimated that on a conservative basis such action might release 1,500,000 gallons of Bourbon whisky as dividends on the 307,726 shares of the corporation's stock.

Levy Mayer, counsel for the corporation, was consulted. "The plan is under consideration," he said. "The issuance of dividends depends on the United States supreme court decision in the prohibition cases."

The rumor failed to indicate how the liquid dividends would be transported.

"The lips should move when you are supposed to be speaking. Now in this scene you denounce your husband. So let your jaws work."

"All right," responded Pauline Perfection. "Gimme a wad of gum."—Detroit Free Press.

PEPTO-MANGAN MAKES RICH RED BLOOD
Helps Restore Thin, Rundown Men and Women to Vigorous, Full-Blooded Health.
Recommended by Physicians
Sold in Liquid or Tablet Form—The Name "Gude's" the Guide to the Genuine.
It is a true saying that your health is only as good as your blood. Good, rich blood manifests itself in a healthy, natural complexion; clear, keen eyes; tireless energy and enthusiasm; and an abundant supply of reserve strength.
And just as positively does poor, thin blood directly influence the entire system. Pale, sallow complexions; dull eyes; a listless step; languidness; tiredness; worn-out feeling; general dejectedness and unhappiness—all are positive signs that the body is not receiving its proper nourishment through the blood.
Pepto-Mangan helps restore vigorous health, because it contains the very elements so much needed by the blood to enable it to perform its functions and supply the body with nourishment, energy and strength.
For your convenience, Pepto-Mangan is prepared in tablet as well as liquid form. Both possess exactly the same medicinal value.
There is but one genuine Pepto-Mangan, and that is "Gude's." If the name "Gude's" is not on the package it is not Pepto-Mangan.—(adv.)

TO THE RESCUE.

As it has done repeatedly in the past, Fulton county has again come to the rescue of the city of Atlanta in providing the means for important public improvement development; and, by reason of the public-spiritedness of the board of commissioners, the last barrier that has stood in the way of the Spring street project has been removed.

Following the city's plea of poverty, and its demonstration of absolute inability to assume responsibility for clearing the way for the proposed widening of Spring street, even after the county had offered to do the actual work of regrading and paving that thoroughfare, the county board has agreed to relieve the city of all manner of obligation, with the exception of replacing disturbed water and sewer pipes and "taking care of" any damage that may accrue to abutting private property—which, of course, will be nil.

The county commissioners are to be commended in highest possible terms for the splendid spirit manifested by them throughout this whole movement. It is, in fact, the same spirit that has been in evidence for many years of Fulton county development—the spirit that has not only placed the county upon its present high plane of service, efficiency and financial stability, but that has been responsible for the fulfillment of many of Atlanta's own public improvement projects.

For many years this city has been unable to finance its own development and keep pace with the needs of its constantly increasing population. This has not been due to the type of men elected to administer the affairs of the city, but solely to our archaic and wholly inadequate form of municipal government—a plan of government designed to meet the requirements of a village, and which proved serviceable enough for small town purposes, but which is wholly unsuited to properly supply the needs of a large, ambitious and progressive city, such as Atlanta is today.

Fortunately, the city has always had a reliable friend to which to run in case of dilemma or emergency.

Fortunately, that friend—Fulton county—has kept its house in order and its affairs under such conservative, yet progressive, management at all times that it has been able to come to the city's rescue whenever a generally helpful and beneficial end was to be served.

But, much as Atlanta is to be congratulated upon the possession of such a friend, it is humiliating to the city to be repeatedly compelled to go down on its knees before the county and plead for a contribution of something that the city ought, as much as the county, to be able to provide for itself.

While this happy and encouraging ending of the Spring street improvement controversy gives occasion for general popular rejoicing and felicitation among the people of Atlanta, its possible beneficence will not be wholly utilized unless it serves to bring the citizens of this city to a realization of the fact that the county cannot be expected to carry our burdens indefinitely, and that the time has come when the city must devote constructive attention to providing whatever changes may be necessary in the fundamentals to enable it to meet its own responsibilities

THE SAVANNAH CONGRESS

Measured by its possibilities to incur lasting benefits upon the south, and, for that matter, the entire nation, the Southern Commercial congress, which began its sessions in Savannah yesterday, is one of the most noteworthy gatherings of its kind ever held in this part of the country.

In no sense is it local in scope, nor is it held in the interest of any particular locality or line of activity; but its purpose, broadly speaking, is to give impetus to the development of the south and the nation as a whole, commercially, and to facilitate and hasten the country's readjustment from a war-time to a peace basis.

More explicitly, as expressed by our staff representative at the congress, "the theme of the congress will be three-fold: The south's part in the solution of economic problems of the nation; the south's part in the restoration of the American merchant marine, and the extension of trade relations with Latin-American countries."

Each of these topics opens a wide range for discussion and offers latitude for the most earnest and constructive consideration that thoughtful, purposeful and enterprising business men and pilots of public sentiment can devote to it.

Participating in these deliberations are men of national and international renown in the fields of commerce, industrial development, education and world politics.

Out of a meeting of such men, none having a special or a selfish purpose to serve, but each interested in common with all in the betterment of the world and in adding to the sum total of human happiness, much in the nature of permanent welfare is bound to come.

It is very appropriate, too, that Savannah, the main seaport of the south Atlantic coast, was selected to act as hostess for this notable—and, perhaps, history-making—conference; for there is no part of the country that is more vitally concerned in the shape that post-war developments may take than is the southeast, nor any city that stands to assume greater prominence in its relation to them than does Savannah.

TAXES AND HIGH COST.

Clothing manufacturers and dealers testified at a hearing in Massachusetts a few days ago that the prices of men's wearing apparel will be higher next spring than they are now, on account of the excess profits tax imposed by the government.

The Nebraska State Journal ridicules this suggestion—not the prophecy so much as the reason upon which it is predicated—and argues that excess profits taxes cannot legally be passed on to the consumer because "the profits on which these taxes are levied are made on goods already sold."

Here is stated a principle which is not susceptible of dispute. Everybody knows that the government does not compel nor expect a business man or corporation to pay taxes on excess profits that are not already in hand. And everybody knows that if, when he sells his goods, a merchant does not make excess profits the government is not going to compel him to pay to it excess profits taxes.

In other words, no excess profits, no excess profits taxes; and, therefore, the way for the merchant to escape the payment of excess profits taxes to the government is to take only reasonable and fair profits from the consumer.

But for a merchant to anticipate the harvesting of excess profits and in advance fix the prices upon his merchandise at a high enough figure to absorb the excess profits tax and still leave him the margin of reasonable profits would be unjust and unfair to the public and a policy which the government should not condone.

Excess profits taxes are for the profits-takers, and not the public, to bear; and to offer the levying of such taxation as an excuse for keeping prices high is not in keeping with either good business judgment or common sense.

Carranza likes to hear himself explaining his explanations.

Today's Talk

To the Defeated.

There is desert enough, as a usual thing, to him who wins. Even though many times unappreciated by immediate time, there is to him who wins a sweetness of satisfaction that compensates full well.

It is to the defeated that the world should open its lap.

Time is the greatest friend to the defeated. For all defeat is but temporary to the one with a mind working in proportion—that is, a mind which has the ability to measure values.

Winning is made up of defeats, as well as of victories, just as a string of beads is strung.

To the defeated is given great impetus. The crowd leaves that man, for a time. Its exultation is for him who has won completely. But the defeated one, in his loneliness of desertion, feels the sting—and leaps ahead till the crowd may find him strong—and follow him—as the conquerer.

A person is never defeated, excepting in his heart.

We fight from the inner feeling of what we are. And our defeat is never greater than our attitude toward defeat. As a man does, so he is. Performance must always be the measure of desert.

Defeat is never pleasant. Our bodies sometimes tremble from its bitter tinge. But in its school, we learn the first lesson of victory.

Ah—to him who does not THINK he is defeated, defeat can never come!

Scheme of Senator Moses to Force a "Force Bill" Upon the South the Result of the Exposure of the Newberry Scandal—The Celebrated Case of Lorimer Recalled—Chairman Payne at Savannah.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON

Washington, December 8.—(Special.)—The contemplated attempt of Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, to force another "force bill" through congress is apparent in his resolution inquiring into negro enfranchisement in the south, looking to the cutting down of congressional representation. The significant feature, however, is the fact that he followed the Newberry scandal so closely that its real purpose cannot even be veiled.

It has been in the republican mind since that party secured control of congress—and as to how they secured it in at least one instance is very forcibly told in the Newberry indictments—to attempt to find some kind of a political "scandal" in the south so as to capitalize it with the voters in the east. They did not expect to do this, however, until after the special election in the Charlotte, N. C., district to choose a successor to ex-Representative Webb, now federal judge.

Republicans are bending every effort to capture this district for its moral effect in the national campaign. They know that the question of negro enfranchisement is a sore one with the white voters, irrespective of party, in that state. It was the one state in all the south that suffered most from "carpetbagism" and later from "Marion Butlerism." White reublicans in North Carolina or Georgia, or anywhere else in the south, will not take kindly to force bill tactics.

The Newberry case, however, so stung the republican side that they were quick to jump at some kind of a reprisal.

And the Moses resolution resulted.

Sell the Ships, But at Leisure.

Chairman John Barton Payne, of the United States shipping board, will speak at the Southern Commercial congress in Savannah tonight on a subject close to the heart of the South Atlantic—the merchant marine. Mr. Payne will take the position that congress should let it be known that it will not compel the board to sell ships, so that it may stabilize the market, get the value out of the sales made, properly allocate them, and at least keep American-built ships in possession of American owners and operators. He will favor the passage of a mortgage bill which will guarantee investors a lien for the purchase price of the ships which will, in financial circles, have such value that the bankers and the public may invest in ship securities. He will also advocate American insurance for American ships; illustrating, as it does, that at the present time we are dependent upon European companies for ship insurance.

There are now 1,300 shipping board ships, operating all trade routes, carrying American products, under the American flag, into the important ports of the world. By the end of 1920 this number will be increased to 2,250 ships. Sales are being made, but the sales do not begin to keep pace with the launchings.

While it is the purpose to have ultimately every ship privately owned the head of the shipping board is firmly of the opinion that this process should be slow, deliberate, well-timed and business-like and systematic.

New Life Injected Into Service Branch.

Ex-service men, or soldiers who may be in hospitals or still in the army, may be interested in knowing that the general staff has taken over the war department's service and information branch, and placed Major General W. G. Haan in charge as director.

The object of this branch is to get discharged enlisted men, out of jobs, in touch with employers. This service has stations at various places throughout the country. These local stations keep in touch with American Legion posts, with various welfare societies, and with employers and employment agencies. Largely through the American Legion they get in touch with men who are loafing and actively assist these men to get in contact with jobs.

This was primarily the object for the establishment of this service; however, since its establishment it has been ascertained that this service can be and is of great use in disseminating information to disabled men—those who are still in hospitals as well as those who have been discharged and have since developed disabilities that bring them under one or other of the various legislative acts that have been enacted for helping disabled soldiers.

The branch in this way co-operates with the board on vocational training, as well as with the war risk insurance bureau. It also assists men in regard to Liberty bonds, allotments and back pay.

The Newberry Charges Recall Lorimer Case.

The sensational charges against Senator Newberry, promising the biggest political scandal of the decade, recall the celebrated Lorimer case, of Illinois. This controversy raged in the senate from the early days of 1911 to the mid-summer of 1912, and after two or three "victories" for the Illinois senator, who held a seat on the floor by virtue of an election certificate, the senator was finally sent back to his old constituents and the seat declared vacant.

Lorimer took his seat in 1909. He had been in the house for a number of years and even when he was advanced to the senate there were persistent rumors of bribery and corruption. The validity of his election was not challenged in the senate, however, until January 9, 1911, and in March an investigating committee reported in his favor, and by a vote of 46 to 40 he was retained in his seat.

With the incoming of a new senate and a very substantial change in its personnel the case was again brought up and despite a bitter and determined fight the senate decided on June 1 following to reopen the investigation. The committee for a second time brought in a report sustaining Mr. Lorimer and holding that his election was not brought about by corrupt means. A bitter and protracted debate followed and, finally, on July 14, 1912, the senate by a vote of 55 to 28 sustained a resolution that corrupt methods and practices had been employed in his election. The simple wording of the resolution that closed this exciting chapter in the history of senatorial election controversies read:

"Resolved, That corrupt methods and practices were employed in the election of William Lorimer to the senate of the United States from the state of Illinois, and that his election was therefore invalid."

:: Bits of New York Life ::

BY O. O. M'INTYRE

New York, December 8.—(Special.) Over on West Forty-sixth street is Mrs. Duprez's boarding house—the real, old-fashioned kind where they have star boarders, a slovenly, slavey girl, parlor lamps, the horse-hide sofa and a big round dining room table for all. At Mrs. Duprez's place dinner is at noon, supper at 6 o'clock, and she rings the bell herself in the little hallway entrance to the dining room.

But because it is old-fashioned is not its charm. It is a boarding house for circus folk—performers in town for the winter who talk in the patois of the saw-dust ring and the big top. There are bare-back riders, trapeze performers, cannon ball jugglers, clowns and tight wire walkers and all of the polyglot ensemble so dear to Boyville.

Not one of us ever lose the circus thrill. To visit Mrs. Duprez's is to taste red lemonade, eat peanuts, sniff the pungent odor of the menagerie and hear the crack of the ringmaster's whip all in one Cubist impression. I visited the place with Harry P. Staton, for several years Barnum & Bailey's and Ringling's publicity wizard.

Staton is the modern Tody Hamilton. He represents the new type of press agent in contrast to the ticket giving, cigar presenting, good fellow of yesteryear. The new press agent of the circus is a psychologist, a student of the classics and highly paid employee. Nearly all of them have landed stories in the best magazines.

A clannish lot, these circus folk, but their own friendships and ties are clinched with hooks of steel. Because they knew Staton, and I was his friend, they were natural and easy—just like the folk we all know at the hotel, drug store or postoffice back home. The women are industrious and invariably churchgoers. The circus men are old-fashioned. Why? No one seems to know.

But they express it in such trivialities as the vest pocket comb, the over-the-head stiff shirt, wristlets, mountainous toed shoes and the like. They are proud and zealous of their profession. They point to many who have left the circus for the so-called legitimate stage to make big hits. For instance Ida St. Leon, soon to star on Broadway; Slivers, the clown; Dainty Marie and Bird Millman, one of the Follies' attractions on the tight rope.

Society is aflutter over the coming of the duchess of Marlborough, daughter of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, and formerly Consuelo Vanderbilt. She will bring with her her eldest son, the marquis of Blandford. He has recently attained his majority and is considered a most desirable catch as he will one day inherit his father's title and estates. Incidentally the duchess, who for several years eschewed society owng to almost total deafness, has now recovered and she claims her hearing was restored through Christian Science. This religion is making rapid strides in the peerage. One of Queen Victoria's granddaughters, Princess Louise, is an adherent to its tenets, and Lady Astor, who has been so much in the public eye, is a constant reader of "Science and Health."

Over the lunch table at Brown's chop house on Broadway the other day a group of magazine editors—who graduated from the newspaper shops—discussed the most unusual and striking headline that ever appeared in a New York newspaper. All agreed that the one written by Boss Clark, of the Sun, in the old days was the best ever written. The story concerned the theft of some books on the "Simple Life" by a crowd of young East Side thugs. And the headline read:

"Tempted Beyond Their Strength!"

Actors and managers who quit the Friars and Lambs during the actors' strike are slowly returning. The big event will be when George M. Cohan returns to the Friars. Broadway will be lively for one night at least. So far, Mr. Cohan is coy.

Last Night's Dreams; What They Mean

Did You Dream of Trees?

By Irving King.

"Me thought that I had wandered far in an old wood," says Tennyson in his "Dream of Fair Women" and Dante begins his wonderful dream of hell in the "Divine Comedy" with "In the midway of this mortal life I found me in a gloomy wood astray." To dream of trees or of being in a wood is a very common occurrence to many people, while to others such dreams are extremely rare. Freud in his dream theory has what he calls a "dream censor" and many, if not most, of the other scientific investigators accept the Freudian theory in this respect. The theory is that when we leave our days of early childhood, which are entirely "unmorale," we begin to accumulate a sense of shame, morals, proprieties, conventions, etc., which sense becomes woven into our conscious being. Even in sleep this sense is strong enough to assert itself and so acts as a check upon the more daring processes of the dream thought which, in order to get what it wants to express past the censor, is obliged to make use of symbolism. This may be true, but if so we all, even the best of us, have had dreams in which the censor was evidently on strike or asleep at the switch. A dream of trees or woods would seem innocent enough, but the extremists would explain it as something "put over" on the censor.

With the mystics this dream is one of the oldest and most widespread of prophetic visions. With certain modifications it is held to be a most auspicious omen to dream of trees. If they are in leaf or flower success in life, a happy marriage and many children await you. If already married look for success in business. If a sailor you may expect a good voyage. If you climb a dream-tree you will go far on the upward road and if you pick fruit from one you will receive a legacy. But it is bad luck to cut down dream-trees or to see them leafless or blasted. This of trees in general. The significance of different sorts of trees will be dealt with later.

The Oxalic Acid in Foods.

A certain amount of oxalic acid, in combination with calcium (calcium oxalate) is found in the urine under normal conditions, even though a prolonged fast is under way. Therefore the eating of foods containing oxalic acid is not the only source of this substance in the body.

A great to-do has been made by some physicians about the "poisonous" effect of foods which happen to contain oxalic acid, such as rhubarb, tomatoes, spinach. And many people have deleted these valuable foods from the diet merely because of this ex-cathedra pronunciamento. Now, let us see which foods contain oxalic acid, and how much they contain. Here is a list of foods with the content of oxalic acid as determined by Esbach:

Cocoa	4.5
Black tea	3.7
Sorrel	3.6
Pepper	3.2
Spinach	3.2
Rhubarb	2.4
Dried figs	1.0
Chocolate	0.9
Chicory	0.7
Potatoes	0.4
Beets	0.4
Beans	0.3
Gooseberries	0.13
Bread crust	0.13
Plums	0.12
Coffee	0.1
Endives	0.1
Strawberries	0.06
Tomatoes	0.05
Carrots	0.03
Rose cabbage	0.02
Celery	0.02

The figures represent grams of oxalic acid per thousand grams of food. It is doubtful whether any oxalic acid is present in the following foods: Rice, peas, turnips, asparagus, lettuce, cauliflower or white cabbage, cucumbers, mushrooms, onions, pears, apricots, peaches, grapes, melons.

Calcium oxalate in excessive amount sometimes causes irritation of the urinary tract and, owing to the low solubility of calcium oxalate, the formation of stone in the kidney or in the bladder (this does not refer to gallstones). Some physicians maintain that there is also an occasional case of hypochondria associated with dyspepsia due to too much calcium oxalate in the blood.

In any such case the foods containing oxalic acid should be omitted from the diet. Then certain other foods should be taken for their large content of magnesium salts which render oxalic acid or calcium oxalate more soluble. Here are some foods containing considerable amounts of magnesium salts:

Cornmeal, rice, wheat flour, nut kernels, barley, buckwheat, oatmeal, peas, apples, beef.

Certain foods of animal origin also contain calcium oxalate or oxalic acid, such as liver.

Foods containing much lime (calcium salts) should be avoided by one with oxaluria or oxalemia (too much oxalic acid in urine or in the blood), because lime salts render calcium oxalate less soluble. These foods are rich in lime salts. Grapes, asparagus, bananas, lemon juice, cauliflower, strawberries, carrots, radishes, cucumbers, gooseberries, plums, cherries, cabbage, spinach, milk and the yolk of egg. White of egg may be taken. Potatoes may be taken. Fat of any kind may be taken.

:: :: The Treaty of Neuilly :: ::

BY FRANK H. SIMONDS

The world public has become so accustomed to treaties of peace which do not bring peace, that the document, just signed in the little town of Neuilly, a suburb of Paris familiar to the A. E. F., because of its great American hospital, has excited little comment. Yet all things considered, this treaty may fairly be reckoned the worst of the series, which began with the treaty of Versailles.

The vice underlying this particular arrangement is the familiar evil discoverable in its predecessors. By comparison with the number of things it settles, it unsettles or postpones settlement of a far more considerable bulk. The object of the treaty was, in restoring peace with Bulgaria, to regulate the Balkan conditions, to erect a solid structure in place of the several jerry-built constructions which have followed one another since the Balkan states attacked Turkey just six years ago.

In point of fact the treaty has settled nothing but the size of the wholly mythical "compensations" Bulgaria is expected to pay her neighbors and the trace of the new Serbo-Bulgar frontiers. By contrast it has postponed three vital decisions; first, as to the Greek rights in Trace; second, as to the European frontiers of Constantinople and the status of that city; third, as to the ultimate disposition of the southern Dobrudja.

To take these items in order: The Greeks have a claim, based upon historical grounds, going back several thousand years, and upon racial grounds, valid at this very minute, to all of the old Turkey in Europe, south of that Bulgarian frontier, which existed at the moment of the outbreak of the world war. This would include all of the Aegean seacoast left to Bulgaria by the Treaty of Bucharest in 1913 and everything in Eastern Thrace including Adrianople, right up to the walls of Constantinople. In point of fact, their claim to Constantinople is almost equally impressive.

Blocked by United States.

But for the United States representatives in Paris, this Greek claim would have been recognized, but our commissioners disclosed an astonishing solicitude for the Bulgars. Thus, we Americans have insisted that the Bulgarians have a corridor to the Aegean and have prevented the cession of all of Thrace to the Greeks. We have done this in the face of Anglo-French wishes, alienated Greek friendship, we have postponed actual settlement, since Thrace is now ceded by Bulgaria to the great powers, who have postponed final allocation. In doing this we have not in the least placated the Bulgars, who will lose much territory, but we have kept alive their hope to regain things to which they have no claims.

This is the old story of Fiume over again. No compromise has been possible because of our stand and at the same time the passions of both sides have been greatly intensified and the dangers of new hostilities multiplied. We have argued that without access to the Aegean the Bulgars would not accept the new treaty and fresh wars would result. But the treaty of London in 1912 assured the Bulgars access to the Aegean and possession of Kavala and Dedeagatch. Notwithstanding these concessions Bulgaria attacked Serbia and Greece in 1913. The treaty of Bucharest after this second Balkan war again conceded Dedeagatch and Kavala. What the Bulgars seek is a Prussian status in the Balkans, that is, a position in the Balkans like that Prussia won in Germany in 1870. No other arrangement will satisfy, as the various wars Bulgaria has waged in the past six years amply demonstrate. This fact is recognized in Europe but rejected by the American delegation at Paris.

The Constantinople Situation.

The postponement of the disposition of Constantinople is due to the desire and expectation of Europe that the United States would take a mandate for the city and wish of the European nations to consult our pleasure as to the size of the district about the town, which we regard as desirable to make our control easy. Both President Wilson and Colonel House advocated such an American mandate while in Paris and it was the general expectation that an American acceptance of it would follow the prompt ratification of the treaty, which has not been ratified.

Thus, the Turk has been saved once more, at least temporarily, this time by America and not by Britain and there is a growing belief that his retirement from Europe will not take place as result of the latest war. Meantime the whole Thracian question, together with that of Constantinople, remains unsettled, largely because of American conditions in Washington and American policies in Paris.

The third question adjourned without debate is that of the southern Dobrudja. Rumania annexed it in 1913. No one will argue that the Rumanian claim is based upon the will of the inhabitants. But it was based upon the expectation of a Bulgarian attack and the necessity to protect the Bucharest-Constanza railway. The attack actually came in 1916, was successful and following it Bulgaria acquired the whole of the Dobrudja, north as well as south, with all the seacoast of Rumania, by the notorious treaty of Bucharest in 1918.

At Paris the American delegation advocated a policy which would have compelled Rumania to resign the southern Dobrudja. Conceivably Rumania would have made concessions, had her claims elsewhere just claims in the main, been recognized. She proposed to cede most of it to Bulgaria, provided certain Bulgar territory went to Serbia and Serbia was constrained to evacuate her corner of the Banat. But this compromise was rejected.

The Serbia-Rumania Quarrel.

The result is a quarrel between Serbia and Rumania over the Banat, the postponement of any decision as to the Dobrudja, which keeps alive the Bulgar-Rumanian quarrel. To this is also added the perpetuation of the Greco-Bulgar dispute over Thrace. Today Rumanian and Serb troops face each other in arms in the Banat. Bulgar and Greek forces confront each other in Thrace and the rivalries between Bulgaria and Rumania have lost little since the Paris conference first undertook to force Rumania to cede the southern Dobrudja and then abandoned the task.

Americans are little interested in the facts of the Balkans. The nation-wide weariness over European wrangles is growing rather than lessening, but it is necessary to recall that the failure of the great powers of Europe to settle the Balkan situation in 1913 led to the world war in 1914 and resulted in the sending of 2,000,000 American troops to France in 1917 and 1918. Therefore we can hardly afford to be wholly unconcerned with a new treaty which preserves all the old causes for war in the Balkans and adds a few, for good measure, notably by bringing Serbia and Rumania into collision in the Banat, where, if Serbia's claims are good, her necessities elsewhere should advise the sort of sacrifice Cavour made in the case of Savoy and Nice two generations ago, thus winning for Italy that French aid which made Italian unity possible.

GEORGIA NEARING $10,000,000 MARK

Baptists Report Actual Subscriptions of $9,706,282.69, With Seven Hundred Churches Still to Be Heard From.

Although the heavy rains throughout the state prevented the general round-up that was anticipated in the Baptist Seventy-five Million campaign on Sunday, it is reported that Georgia has now reported in actual subscriptions $9,706,282.69. This total for Georgia is based on reports coming in early in the day Monday. Later on reports Monday night carried the figure higher and it is stated at the headquarters that Georgia will easily more than reach her goal of ten million dollars.

There are about 2,400 white Baptist churches in Georgia and less than 1,706 have made reports. This does not mean that the same proportion of reports may be expected, but it is a basis for predicting that when the final reports are all in Georgia will be above ten million dollars. The machinery of the campaign will be held intact and during the entire month of December the district organizers will be busy getting the reports in from every church out through the last association of the state.

Headed for $100,000,000.

From the southern headquarters in Nashville came a message Monday afternoon that the south is headed for one hundred million despite the weather conditions now prevalent throughout the south. Texas with her big quota of $16,000,000 is reported as having $10,000,000, and Mississippi, Louisiana, and Alabama and Virginia were practically over last night. The other states have good margins of over-subscriptions which help to pull the grand total as reported Sunday night to $82,000,000.

Dr. Scarborough states that he has no doubt that the south will go to $100,000,000 when all the reports are in from the seventeen states.

With more than $2,000,000 in excess of the quota, the Baptists of this state are pressing for a final goal of $10,000,000 and the leaders in every section say that they will not stop till the mark is reached.

General Leonard Wood And Treaty of Peace Prove G. O. P. Problems

Republican Bosses From Every State Pour Into Washington for Committee Meeting — Big Business Backs Wood.

By James A. Hollomon.
(By Constitution Leased Wire.)

Washington, December 8.—General Leonard Wood and the peace treaty are the two perplexing problems before the old-timers who are among the republican clans pouring into Washington tonight. This despite Chairman Hays' statement that the treaty is not an issue.

The hotel corridors tonight remind one of national convention days. The country is politically hungry, it appears, and the old "regulars" are on the job with the earmarks of the former Mark Hanna days.

Although it is ostensibly a meeting of the national committee only, that Chairman Will Hays has called for Wednesday, the fact is the G. O. P. bosses from every state, and almost every section of every state, have been ordered here in order that a line on public sentiment with regard to the peace treaty may be obtained.

Despite the bold and confident front that the republican senators assume regarding the treaty there is an apprehension on the part of all of them, except the little coterie of bitter-enders, the whole thing is going to prove a costly political blunder. That the country is still at war with Germany defiant, and that the business of the nation is still topsy-turvy by reason of the lack of a stabilizing peace policy, are two factors that are so acute that the republicans are beginning to tremble at their own part in the game.

The Real Reason.

Particularly has this feeling been accentuated by Mr. Wilson's determination to let the conditions that the republican senators—abetted by four or five democrats—have precipitated continue for a while and let the country get an object-lesson of how it feels to be at war, with industry unsettled, while the other allied powers are at peace. This is the real reason that this republican meeting in Washington is more than a committee meeting to decide upon the convention city and date.

Again, the presidential booms have begun earlier and with more force than usual. And they are many and varied. There never has been a time when the republican nomination for president was in so much doubt, with so many unsettled elements that must enter into it.

The boom for General Leonard Wood has put the old-stagers to guessing. That he is not the favorite of the machine is known, and yet, with an eye on the soldier vote, the leaders are at a loss to placate it or to handle it. Now comes along Colonel Proctor, of Cincinnati, a several times millionaire, who takes up the active management of the Wood campaign, which means that at least some of the big business interests are behind the military candidate, as well as military men. Colonel Proctor is not only a military man himself, but one of America's biggest manufacturers. Committeeman John T. King, of Connecticut, has charge of the Wood interests before the republican organization.

Numerous Booms Start.

At the Washington hotels tonight there are headquarters opened for Lowden, Watson, Harding, Goodrich, Poindexter and others. Illinois sent a whole trainload of Lowden boosters, and that is the noisest boom thus far precipitated, which is usually not a good sign. The Poindexter boom has little snap and there is an effort to get Governor Goodrirh to retire in favor of Senator Watson, otherwise both of their booms may go up in smoke. The Ohio delegation is making a strong pull for Harding with some effect. But the Wood problem is the real disturbing element to the old wheel horses, like Penrose and the bosses of his type. It is very probable they will seek to puncture his boom if they can do so without causing a party disruption.

Among the party leaders here tonight are a number of women, and while they will not sit with the committee in executive session they will hold a separate meeting on ways and means and so forth, and treat with the male bosses on campaign plans and issues.

The Tariff Problem.

While the question of a convention city between Chicago and St. Louis, with the former always as ever, the leading competitior, the choosing of a convention place is really of small concern to the delegates or to the side show attendants. As to issues, so many things can happen in these days of national and international tension that the republicans are going to leave the matter open for a while except as to the well-known basic principles of the party. And even on some of them there is a disposition to split. The divergent views of the republican senate and house leaders upon the suggestion in President Wilson's next message that future tariff legislation be shaped upon the theory that the United States—now the greatest creditor nation in the world—must adopt a reciprocal foreign trade policy if it wishes to maintain its standing as a world power promises a lively revival of tariff discussions during the present session of congress.

Even such high protectionists as Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the senate committee on finance, and Alba Johnson, of Philadelphia, former president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, have indicated in recent statements that they are in accord with President Wilson's position. There are still many irreconcilables among the republican standpatters, however, who can see only the old free trade bugaboo whenever extension of America's foreign trade is proposed. Republican Leader Mondell and Chairman Fordney, of the house committee on ways and means, are the chief spokesmen of the latter element in congress. Mr. Mondell was particularly critical of President Wilson's tariff views as expressed in his recent message.

ELLIS GOES ON TRIAL ON WEDNESDAY WEEK

Wm. Pollard, Labor Leader, Will Face Jury Thursday Morning.

Tillie Ellis, an interior decorator, who, several weeks ago, shot and killed "Dutch" Elliott, on Whitehall street, will go on trial, charged with murder, Wednesday week. The date of this trial and that of the second trial of William Pollard, labor leader, was announced Monday by Solicitor John A. Boykin. The Pollard trial was set for Thursday of this week.

Ellis is now recovering from an attack of pneumonia and will be ready for trial when the case is called. It is understood that Attornel J. O. Ewing and John Y. Smith, counsel for Ellis, have commenced the summoning of 150 witnesses to testify in behalf of the accused. The defense, it is claimed, will contend that Elliott pursued Mrs. Ellis during a period of one month last fall when Ellis was in Chattanooga at work on a special job. It was upon Ellis' return to Atlanta that he ran into his wife in the company of Elliott and shot and killed Ellis.

William Polard is under sentence of six years, following his conviction for the part he took in the street car strike here two years ago. He was granted a new trial by the state court of appeals and has been out on bond since his conviction and sentence.

Miss Wagstaff was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Wagstaff, of 306 West Peachtree street. Besides her parents, she is survived by a younger sister, Miss Sara Wagstaff; a brother, Henry C. Wagstaff, Jr.; and her grandfather, Charles Wagstaff, of Detroit, Mich.

CORRECTION MADE AS TO CLOSING TIME

A regrettable typographical error in the advertisement of J. Regenstein Co. in Sunday's Constitution made it appear that this house would open at 9 a. m. and close at 5:30. The closing hour should have read 4 p. m. To those who know the policy of this well-known house—know its willingness to cheerfully comply with all government regulations—a correction of this typographical error is hardly necessary, but in order that no one may rest under a wrong impression, The Constitution is pleased to make the correction. The Regenstein Co. is observing the opening and closing hours just as are all of the other leading stores on Whitehall street.

ANNUAL REPORT MADE BY ATTORNEY GENERAL

Increasing Dangerous, Radical Activities Confront Department of Justice.

Washington, December 8.—The department of justice is confronted with "increasingly dangerous radical activities," Attorney General Palmer sad in his annual report submitted today to congress.

Mr. Palmer did not go into details as to "red" activities in general, but said that of the total of 365,295 index record cards, 71,000 Bertillon records and 262,712 fingerprint records now in the department, some 60,000 represented data concerning "reds" and their work. He mentioned that the department had increased steadily its contributory sources of investigation, adding that this meant better facilities for running down persons whose lives bore marks of crime.

Mr. Palmer said that while other government agencies, during the past year, were rounding out their labors incident to the war, his department found itself only half way through its scores of investigations and litigated questions. Countless hundreds of claims, growing out of the war, have been made against the government, he said, and must be fought through the courts. Cases in which the government seeks to recover funds paid out through error or fraud provide another source of supply for litigation. Alleged infingement of patent rights by the government in its manufacture of war materials as well as similarr claims arising from private manufacture of war supplies on the cost-plus arrangement, also puts litigation on the shoulders of the department's staff.

The department policy of resuming prosecution of trusts has restored to activity other investigations and crime-proving machinery, the attorney geenral added.

In addition to these, Mr. Palmer said, the department will be burdened for months to come with its prosecution of violators of the sedition and selective service acts. Under the latter, the number of cases runs high, he said. Department agents are engaged now in gathering all necessary data through records of local draft boards which have been assembled in Washington, and prosecution of these cases will proceed immediately upon completion of that work.

Investigations and trial arguments durig the year have shown loopholes in many statutes, Mr. Palmer said. He called attention to the fact that, under existing law, it is not a crime to send threatening letters through the mails, unless in furtherance of a scheme to defraud, or as a means of extortion. Pointing out that letters threatening personal injury or destruction of property may be sent with impunity, he urged revision of the law to cover such cases.

Mr. Palmer said, also, there was great need for a statute providing punishment for an individual attempting to defraud the United States. Present statutes, he said, provide punishment only in the event that two or more persons conspire to defraud the government.

Recommendation also was made that criminal procedure be changed to make more simple the removal of indicted persons to the districts where the indictments were returned. He described the present system as "grieviously defective," and as making removal proceedings "infinitely more cumbersome" than extradition.

The attorney general recommended creation of a pardon and parole board of three, fully empowered to handle all pardon and parole cases, thus relieving the attorney general's office of duties "which are becoming icreasingly heavy and onerous." Jurisdiction of penal institutions also should be vested in this board, he said.

$100 Still Lacking In Bathrobe Fund For Grady Patients

Will the coming cold weather find the patients in the charity wards at Grady hospital shivering and bathrobeless? Out of the fund of $500 which was asked for a few weeks ago to provide bathrobes and slippers for the sick ones, almost $100 is lacking.

Patients who do not have to remain flat on their backs find bathrobes almost a necessity to keep their arms and shoulders warm. It is uncomfortable enough to have to be sick, without having to be huddled in bed, wrapped to the chin, just for lack of a bathrobe. Contributions to this fund will insure the necessary bedclothes for these patients. They should be mailed to Mrs. Spencer R. Atkinson, chairman of the committee from the Woman's club, which is in charge of the movement.

State Federation Upheld By Atlanta Woman's Club

At the meeting yesterday afternoon of the Atlanta Woman's club, resolutions were unanimously indorsed upholding the Georgia State Federation of Women's Clubs, and expressing unfailing loyalty to the president, Mrs. J. E. Hays. The resolution also deplored the fact that an effort was being made to disrupt the federation.

Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, chairman of the resolution committee, explained in introducing the resolutions that a group of Macon women, dissatisfied with the indorsement of suffrage by the federation, had issued circular letters to all of the clubs in the state federation, asking them to withdraw from the federation. The question, Mrs. Richardson stated, was not one of suffrage primarily but of upholding the expressed will of the maority.

Mrs. Victor Kriegshaber, chairman of motion pictures of the child welfare committee, explained to the ladies the work done by the International Juvenile Motion Picture league, in censoring pictures for children, and in promoting good, clean pictures as well as educational pictures for them. Listen and Read Carefully

By Isma Dooly.

In this new era, or as some people call it, "in the reconstruction," when people are taking stock of their wares material and spiritual, there are two lessons which people generally might learno the one is to listen carefully and the other is to read carefully.

Half of the misstatements, misunderstandings, useless activities and social bickerings, arise from the breakneck speed people have been going, when they haven't time to listen to all of an address or a statement which is being made, especially at meetings, and they skim through what they read, whether it is a bill, a letter, a newspaper or a book. They acquire the habit of passing over a communication, laying it aside to be read again, or throwing it in the waste basket with the comment: "I am bored to death with all the reading matter which comes to me every day."

There is so much activity these days, aside from that of ordinary business activity which deals with the working out of the century's problems, that people cannot hope to bring about personal conferences on all subjects, so that correspondence is resorted to, and though much that is written may be tiresome to many, it may be the very communication which is passed over hastily; is thrown in the waste basket, and is the very one which will be of vital importance the next day.

It would be far better to keep communications waiting for some time and read them later carefully, than to make it a habit to throw everything away as insignificant.

This carelessness o listening and reading is the reason so many, many people are dull and uninformed, when they are summoned to confer on some subject which may by chance to have become of interest to them, or which is of general community interest.

These people obstruct the entire program of the meeting because the presiding officer or leader has to stop ever and anon to tell the A, B, C's of the movement, which is so commonplace it is remarkable everybody does not know something about it.

Then, these people will only half listen; they will hear only one little feature of the movement in all its importance, and they will not know enough to pass the message on, but will discuss it just as glibly, consequently the number of good causes which are not understood, and the difficulty there is getting information going in the straight and narrow path.

It is not necessary for everybody to know a great deal; if everybody were wise the world would probably not be any happier, but it is certainly very tiresome for some people to make a practice of not knowing anything much and the little they choose to know, not listening to the truth about it, and not passing it on accurately and intelligently.

One of the best lessons to be learned by people who are continually being brought into work of a public nature, is to make it a habit to listen carefully to what they hear, and to read carefully communications sent to them.

AVOID "FLU" BY STERILIZING YOUR NOSE

Last Year's Experience Proved Ol. Eucalyptus (Eucapine Salve) Is Most Effective Preventative Known.

Get out your jar of Eucapine Salve, or, if you have none, go to the nearest drug store at once and get a family jar of this well-known nose and throat sterilizer. Sterilize morning, noon and night by sniffing the Eucapine up into the nostrils and rub a little on the back of your tongue, whence it will spread to the throat and nostrils, thus sterilizing the nose and throat.

The chief ingredient of Eucapine Salve is Oleum Eucalyptus, the non-poisonous antiseptic whose power to prevent influenza was first discovered in the London Epidemic of 1891, and was so effective in the epidemic of influenza throughout America last year. In addition, Eucapine Salve contains just enough camphor, menthol and oil of white pine to make it soothing, healing and delightful to use. Even the babies enjoy it. Ask any well informed physician and he will tell you that Eucapine, though originally designed for the mother's use with her children in colds, croup and to prevent pneumonia, is the best and most agreeable antiseptic you can use to sterilize the nose and throat of young and old alike. Any drug store can supply you for half a dollar.—(adv.)

How to Peel Off a Weatherbeaten Face

It's really a simple matter to renovate a face soiled by dirt, wind or cold. Ordinary mercolized wax, used like cold cream, will transform the worst old complexion into one of snowy whiteness and velvety softness. It literally peels off the outer veil of surface skin, but so gently, gradually, there's no discomfort. The wornout skin comes off, not in patches, but evenly, in tiny particles, leaving no evidence of the treatment itself. The younger, healthier under-skin forming the new complexion is one of captivating loveliness. One ounce of mercolized wax, to be had at any drug store, is enough to remove any coarse, chapped, pimpled, freckled, faded or sallow skin. Apply before retiring, washing it off in the morning.—(adv.)

Remove Roots as Well As Surface Hairs

(Something New and Different)

The chemist who discovered the remarkable hair-destroying properties of phelactine has conferred a genuine blessing upon a multitude of women. This peculiar substance seems to paralyze and shrink up the hairs to which it is applied, right down to their roots—and these hairs come out very easily and quickly, roots and all, before one's very eyes!

Phelactine is perfectly odorless, non-irritating, non-poisonous—a child could eat it without the least harm. Not to be compared at all with depilatories or electrolysis. It leaves the skin so soft, smooth and hairless, no one would guess you ever had a moustache or other hairy growth. If you will obtain a stick of phelactine from your druggist and follow the simple instructions, you will certainly be "more than pleased."—(adv.)

The Further Adventures of Jimmie Dale

BY FRANK L. PACKARD

Author of "The Miracle Man," "The Wire Devils," "The Adventures of Jimmie Dale," Etc.

Copyright, 1919, for The Constitution.

It was close to midnight, as Jimmie Dale came out on Washington square. He crossed to Waverly place, and, on the point of starting along Fifth avtnue, drew suddenly back and around the corner. A man, walking rapidly, was just turning into Fifth avenue from the opposite corner. Jimmie Dale drew in his breath sharply. He had got out of sight just in time. He recognized the quick, springy walk of tht other. It was Meeighan, of headquarters. And then Jimmie Dale smile a little whimsically. They were both bound for the same place, heand Meighan, of Headquarters—Kenleigh's apartment, that was a little way further on there along the Avenue.

A short distance behind the other, but on the opposite side of the street, Jimmie Dale followed the detective. There was hardly any use now in going to Kenliegh's, for, if the detctive was really bound for there, it made him, Jimmie's Dale's, errant useless—the summoning of the Headquarters' man was prima facie evidence that the robbery had already been committed. And yet a certain grim curiosity, remained. Just how had it been done? And, besides, she hadsaid, "half-past one at Virat's," so ther was time to spare. The distorted lips of Larry, the Bat, thinned ominously. No; it was not useless even now. He had a very strong personal interest in all that had taken place—Virat woulu be the less likely to slip through his fingers, or through the fingers of the law, fo rthe information that the scene of the robbery might supply!

Meighan disappeared suddenly inside an apartment house, which Jimmie Dale recognized as a rather fashionable one, devoted exclusively to bachelors' quarters. Jimmie Dale quickened his step, walked on to the next corner, crossed the street and came back along the block. As he approached the apartment house entrance, voices reached him from the vestibule, and then he heard the closing of a door.

Larry the Bat to himself. He smiled facetiously. "Caves an interview with the janitor!"

He glanced sharply around him in all directions—and the next instant was inside the vestibule—and in another, without a sound, was crouched close against the apartment door. A delciate little steel picklock was working now, the deft fingers manipulating it silently, and then stealthily he pushed the door open a crack. A man's voice, agitated, came to him from within:

". . . . Perhaps twenty minutes, I don't know—the lentgh of time it took you to get here. I was dining out. I 'phoned Headquarters the instant I came in."

Jimmie Dale pushed the door further open, slipped through, and left the door just ajar behind him. He was in the hallway of a very small apartment, of not more than two or three rooms,he judged. Diagonally ahead of him alight streamed out from an open door. He stole toward this, and, pressed close against the jamb o fthe door, peered in.

It was asort of sitting room, or den, cosily furnished with deep, comfortable lounging chairs. There was a flat-topped desk in the center, a telephone on the desk; and at the rear o fthe room aconnecting door, leading, presumably, to the bedroom, w open. A clean-shaven, dark-eyed man of perhaps thirty-five, Kenleigh obviously, was pacing nevrously up and down. His face was pale, his h.ir ruffled; and, in his distraction, apparently, he had forgotten to remove the cloak which he waswearing over his eevning clothes. In thes far corner of the room, Meighan, the detective, knelt upon the floor amidst a scene of grotesque disorder. The door of a very small safe had been "souped," and now sagged open. Books and papers littered the floor, and were strewn over a mattress that, evidently, dragged from the inner room, had been swaddled around the safe to deaden the round of the explosion.

"You don't understand!" Kenleigh burstout, with a groan. "This meanss absolute ruin to me! An hundred thousand dollars in bonds—payable to bearer—and—and, God help me, they were't mine!"

"Say"—Meighan, still busily occupied with the fractured safe, spoke gruffly, though not unkindly, over his shoulder—"I understand all right, but don't lose your nerve, Mr. Kenleigh. It won't get you anywhere, and it doesn't follow because the swag is gone that we can't get it back. I know the guy that pulled this job."

"You—what!" Kenleigh, his face lighting up as though with a sudden hope, stepped quickly toward the detective. "What did you say? You know who did it!"

"Don't get excited!" advised Meighan coolly. "Sure, I know! That is, it's a toss up between one of two, and that's easy. We'll round 'em both up before morning, and then I guess it won't be much of a trick to pick the winner. They won't be looking for trouble as quick as this. We'll get 'em, all right. It's a toss-up between Mug Garretty and the Magpie."

Kenleigh was staring incredulously at the detective.

"How do you know?" he gasped out. "I—I don't—"

"I daresay you don't." Meighan was chuckling now. "It's like this, Mr. Kenleigh. A crook's like anyone else, like an artist, say—you get to know 'em, get to spot 'em, especially safe workers, from certain peculiarities about their work. They can't any more help it than stop breathing. Here, for instance, the way he—" Meighan stopped suddenly. He had been pulling the mattress away from the front of the safe, and now, with a sharp, exultant exclamation, he stooped quickly and picked up a small object from the floor. He held it out, twirling it between thumb and forefinger, for Kenleigh's inspection—a flashy scarf pin, horseshoe-shaped, of blantantly imitation diamonds.

Kenleigh shook his head bewilderingly.

"I suppose you mean that you recognize it?" he ventured.

"Recognize it!" Meighan laughed low, and, stepping quickly past Kenleigh to the desk, picked up the telephone and called headquarters. "Recognize it!" With the receiver to his ear, waiting for his connection, he turned toward Kenleigh. "Why, say, walk over to the Bowery and show it to the first person you meet, and he'd call the turn. Pretty, isn't it? When he's dolled up, he's some—hello!" He swung around to the telephone. "Headquarters?" . . . Meighan speaking from Kenligh's apartment . . . Get a drag out for the Magpie on the jump . . . Eh? . . . Left his visiting card . . . What? . . . Yes, wound a mattress around the box and souped it; his scarf pin must have caught in the ticking and pulled out. . . . Sure, that's the one—the horseshoe—found it on the flood . . . What? . . . Yes, the chances are ten to one he will, it's only play. . . . All right, I'll get Mr. Kenleigh's story meanwhile . . . I'll be here till you 'phone . . . Yes . . . All right!"

Dr. Provano's Car Found.

A roadster, belonging to Dr. P. L. Provano, of the West End phamacy, was recovered Monday by County Policemen Cafes and Head, who found the car abandoned in Bellwood. The car was stolen Saturday night from the street in front of the Oliver hotel. Through a mistake in license numbers made in a garage the was was first thought to be the property of Mrs. Lowry Arnold, wife of Solicitor Arnold, of the city criminal court. The car of Dr. Provano had been placed in a garage and through a misunderstanding a number formerly used on Mrs. Arnold's car was placed on it. Dr. Provano's key had been stolen from the car a week before.

Historical Beauties

Beauty is frequently nothing but a matter of taste. If you will look over the reproductions of portraits of beauties a century or more ago, you will find few faces that would be considered beautiful today. You can procure books in any library giving these portraits, and if you are interested in the matter of personal beauty, you will find the hour or so that it takes to look up these portraits very well spent.

One of the most famous beauties of history, for instance, was Nell Gwynne. Her portrait, by Sir Peter Lely, shows a pink-and-white face, lovely but with no distinction, and large lustrous brown eyes with a very hard expression. The mouth is a conventional cupid's bow, so tiny as to be absurd. Her face as well as the faces of all the women of her time, look as though they had never been disarranged by an emotion.

For some forty or more years in the middle of the last century, sylph-like fragility and a milky pallor were considered true beauty. They say that the ladies even ate slate pencils to produce this blue-white complexion! While to form their lips into the proper cupid's bow, they went about murmuring "prunes and prisms," a phrase that has come down to us as typifying that whole era of hothouse-bred beauties.

In the days when Rome was mistress of the world, a low brow was considered beautiful in a woman. Ovid assures us that united eyebrows were considered most attractive and that women who could not make them grow together, painted them so as to imitate what we now consider a deformity. In certain parts of the East from the time history began, the fatter a woman was the more beautiful she was considered. In Turkey a woman must be tall, with languishing dark eyes and glossy black hair to be considered good looking.

Which all goes to prove that beauty is only a matter of taste. At present we are having a revival of the civilization of the early Greeks. Our standards of taste in art, philosophy and even hygiene are modeled after theirs. We think the woman with the regular profile—that is, the high, intelligent forehead, straight nose and rounded chin—with the slender supple figure and the clear complexion of good health, to be the most beautiful of all. One of the great advantages of this standard of taste is that it encourages our girls to get into the open air and to develop themselves physically and thus we are producing a healthier race than we had two generations ago.

But taste is always changing. Impossible as it seems now, we may in a few hundred years, prefer the type of beauty worshipped by certain central African tribes. They say that the best looking women, according to their standards, have to be supported when they walk abroad since their flesh hangs like pendant bags from their arms and legs.

One never can tell!

Truck on Rampage Enters Drug Store; Patrons Scattered

A truck belonging to the Bell Laundry company and driven by John Patton, a negro, while turning into Forsyth street Monday morning skidded on the wet pavement, and the driver, in his excitement, stepped on the gas instead of applying the brakes, causing the car to crash into the drug store of A. T. Scroggins, 131 South Forsyth, breaking down the door and the glass in the display windows.

The truck continued its rampage until it smashed a show case and crashed into the fount, where it stopped.

The proprietor of the store was standing behind the show case at the cash register when the unusual visitor entered the store and was hit by flying glass from the shattered windows. He was sent to Grady hospital, where his wounds were dressed and then he was sent home. Patrons of the store took refuge under tables, behind counters, and ran into the rear of the store to avoid the truck.

The driver is in jail awaiting bond and a preliminary hearing on the charge of reckless driving.

It is stated that Mrs. Welsh was crossing the street and in avoiding another car stepped in front of the ambulance. The accident was unavoidable, it is said.

Mme. Schumann-Heink Wins Big Audience at Auditorium

That the American composer, if he can deliver the goods, has every chance now to come into his own, was once more indicated in the program of Mme. Schumann-Heink, at the Auditorium last night, when the famous contralto san with her accustomed great success before an audience of large proportions, and made the American song as conspicuous for its frequency in her selection, as it was fomerly conspicuous for its scarcity on the usual concert program.

The charm of Mme. Schumann-Heink's work was found last night, as always, in the finished art of her interpretations, the depth of human feeling, held in restraint only as artistic exigency would dictate, which carries the message of what she sings straight to her every hearer. Not all the erstwhile sweetness of her powerful voice, as rich as the notes of a pipe organ, remain, but the fact that her audience had no such invidious comparison to make, was indicated in their enthusiasm, and their calls for repetitions and encores.

She opened her recital with a Handel aria from Rinaldo, which revealed at once that musicianly mastery, which has always distinguished her, of the pure art of song—tone, phrasing, grace of delivery, pure diction, making her rendition of the classics as noteworthy as her more familiar excellence in the music drama. The well-known Bach air, "My Heart Ever Faithful," became in her hands no more vocal exhibition, but a real bit of the fervor of faith—piety of the cheerful kind.

In a strong contrast was Frank La Forge's "Before the Crucifix," the music to this prayer as modern in conception as Bach is typical of another world. It introduced a group of songs by La Forge, the pianist of the evening, and probably the foremost musician in America in delicate art of accompanying.

His compositions, as sung by Mme. Schumann-Heink, and as they take their place on the programs of all the celebrated concert singers, give him likewise a leading place among the contemporary song composers.

In ballads gay, serene or playful, or in the dirge-like "Flanders Requiem," where the funeral note in the voice part, as accompanied by the air in the piano score, is varied by a merging of the monotone into the accompaniment, with the air carried by the voice, he has done some beautiful things, although it is his songs like "Expectancy," "Retreat," "To a Messenger," that will longest hold their own, especially when they have an interpreter who sings them as caressingly as did Mme. Schumann-Heink.

She was obliged to repeat Lieurence's "Indian Love Song," which is having quite a vogue among concert singers, although it does not call for the delicacy of shading in thought and vocalization as does the "Dawn in the Desert," which preceded it, with broad, reposeful narrative coming to sudden and sensational climax in the rising of the sun.

Salter's "Cry of Rachel" has been sung here with more of poignancy, but Mme. Schumann-Heink gave it the prayerful aspect, rather than the despairing. Whether the melodramatic style or the restrained best suits the lament, seems to depend on the individual artist's conception.

"When Pershing's Men Go Marching Into Picardy," by Rogers, Mme. Schumann-Heink sang with a martial strength and a feeling which illuminated its rather arid content, and her recital, judging by the enthusiasm of her audience would have continued indefinitely after her program was completed if she had not bowed low her appreciation, but pleaded that her voice was tired.

MacDowell's Etude de Concert, by Mr. La Forge, was performed with a power and brilliance that made it a noteworthy feature of the evening, and the pianist's own "Romance" was flatteringly received.

The concert was the third event in the Music Study club course.

MACON PROTESTS CUTS IN SERVICE ON GEORGIA ROADS

A vigorous protest against the heavy curtailment of local passenger train service in and out of Macon, on the Central of Georgia and other railroads, due to the fuel conservation, was made to the railroad commission Monday morning by Thomas J. Simmons, managing editor of The Macon News, who represented the business interests of Macon and a number of middle Georgia towns.

Mr. Simmons contended that the utility service was cut considerably, while the luxury service was not noticeably touched in the rearrangement of schedules, which tends to interfere with holiday shopping and inconvenience the regiar patrons of the railroad, whereas, the Pullman car service is kept up to the old schedule. After the conference, C. Murphey Candler, chairman of the railroad comission, sent the following telegram to Regional Director B. L. Winchell in Washington, where he is attending a meeting of regional directors from all parts of the country:

"Advertised discontinuance passenger service account coal shortage apparently discriminates against long established local trains, especially on Georgia, Atlanta and West Point, Atlantic Coast Line and Central of Georgia railroads. Is it not possible to conserve more on heavy through trains and allow intrastate communities to have fair measure of service for pre-holiday trade?"

A second telegram in regard to the curtailment of service on the Central of Georgia was sent by the commission to W. A. Winburn, federal manager of that road. The telegram follows:

"Your advertised discontinuance of passenger service account coal shortage apparently discriminates against long established local trains. For example, trains 7 and 8 between Macon and Albany, and trains 21 and 22 between Macon and Millen, substantially injure intrastate communities. Is it not possible to conserve more extensively on heavy, through trains and allow Georgia points fair measure of service for pre-holiday trade?"

Ross to Prosecute Macon Detectives On Murder Charges

Macon, Ga., December 8.—(Special.)—Judge H. A. Mathews, of Bibb superior court, has appointed John P. Ross, former solicitor of the Macon circuit, to prosecute the charges of murder and accessory now pending against four city detectives in connection with the killing several months ago of Abraham Kimbrell and Philip Lamar. Solicitor Charles H. Garrett is disqualified in the case, because when the charges were first brought, he volunteered to defend Police Chief Bowden, against whom a "no bill" was later returned, and expressed his belief in the innocence of the detectives.

Judge Ross is familiar with the charges against the detectives, for he was solicitor general at the time the indictments were returned, and he prosecuted and secured the conviction of W. O. Swift, one of the detectives. Swift, however, secured a new trial later.

The cases of the detectives have been assigned for trial at the January term of court. In addition to Swift, the detectives under indictment are L. J. Stevens, L. S. McLendon and W. G. Evans. Swift and Stevens are charged with murder and the others with accessory to murder.

Loving Tributes Paid to Memory Of Peyton Wade

Tributes of love and respect were paid to the memory of the late Judge Payton L. Wade, chief judge of the court of appeals, at a sitting of the court held for that purpose Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, in the supreme court room.

A fitting memorial, sketching the life of the late jurist, and paying tribute to his many sterling qualities as a gentleman and jurist, was offered by Judge J. K. Hines, chairman of the memorial committee.

Ex-Governor John M. Slaton then spoke of Judge Wade from the standpoint of a college mate, they having been classmates in the University of Georgia. Governor Slaton stated that at college Judge Wade was a fine student, and that even as a college boy his character was one of poise, dignity and gentleness. In speaking of his appointment of Judge Wade to the bench of the court of appeals while he was governor, Governor Slaton said, "I believed that he had qualities requisite to a justice of this court, and I appointed him to the bench, and he was afterwards elected to the office by the people of this state."

Judge Hill's Tribute.

In paying a personal tribute to Judge Wade, Judge Ben H. Hill, who was the next speaker, spoke briefly of Judge Wade's decisions, which he said showed legal genius not often found. He also spoke of the consideration always extended by Judge Wade to members of the bar and of his "character of rare beauty and strength."

John Graham, an attorney and court reporter, spoke feelingly of Judge Wade's kindness and consideration for everybody connected with the court. "He was modest and retiring and did not seek popularity and he gave the best that was in him to the state."

Judge Frank Harrell touched on Judge Wade's great love for books, while Judge W. F. Jenkins, of the court of appeals, spoke of his marked sincerity. Judge Roscoe Luke, also of the court of appeals, in a short talk, stated that Judge Wade's great aim in life was to do right.

Chief Justice Nash R. Broyles accepted the memorial for the court and expressed deep appreciaiton in behalf of the court for the many tributes paid to the late judge. In summing up Judge Wade's life, he said that he was deeply religious and had a broad love for all humanity. Court was then adjourned until Tuesday.

Died From Influenza.

Judge Wade succumbed several months ago to the after effects of a severe attack of influenza, dying at his home in Atlanta. He was a graduate of the University of Georgia, a practitioner at the bar of Dublin and a jurist of well-known integrity and ability when he was appointed to the court of appeals by former Governor John M. Slaton.

The following committee of distinguished lawyers was appointed to prepare the memorial which was read and accepted Monday afternoon:

Former Judges J. K. Hines, Ben H. Hill, Arthur G. Powell and Frank Harwell, of Atlanta; Richard B. Russell, of Winder; J. R. Pottle, of Albany; John T. Allen, of Milledgeville, and ex-Governor John M. Slaton, of Atlanta; General Walter A. Harris, of Macon; William H. Barrett, of Augusta; A. A. Lawrence, of Savannah; R. E. Camp, of Dublin; Sanders McDaniel, of Atlanta; W. L. Clay, of Savannah, and Lamar Rucker, of Athens.

HUMANE SOCIETY MEMBERS TO VISIT REMOUNT STATION

Officers of the Atlanta Humane society have been invited to be the guests of Lieutenant Tingham, of the Camp Gordon remount station, in making a tour of the station. They will be taken through the veterinary hospital and shown how well the government cares for its horses.

Many compliments have been given the society on the demonstrations in connection with the work horse parade held by them last week. The Morrow Transfer company, which won a prize of $25 for their outfit, wrote a letter to Mrs. Katherine Weathersbee, secretary-treasurer of the society, congratulating the organization on their work and returning the prize the firm won as their donation to the Humane society. They requested that the firm be listed as a member of the association. The parcel post organization and the West Lumber company have sent in $5 each as donations, and asked that they be admitted to membership, and the Meinert Coal company has pledged the same sum.

A number of the prizes have not been claimed. Application for them should be made at once to 508 Chamber of Commerce building.

GEORGIA ICE PLANTS WILL HELP SAVE COAL

Will Close Down as Many Factories in State as Possible.

The ice plants of Georgia which supply the product for keeping the people cool in the summer are doing their part in helping to keep the population warm in the winter, during the present critical coal period.

At a meeting of the directors of the Georgia Ice Manufacturers' association held here Monday, it was voluntarily and unanimously voted to co-operate with the fuel administrator in the conservation of coal by closing down as many ice plants in the state as possible, permitting a smaller number of factories operating on full time to supply ice for customers of the closed plants, thus effecting a considerable saving of fuel in the aggregate.

Those present at the directors' meeting were: Frank Ellis, Augusta; Young Shackleford, Valdosta; J. W. Hancock, Marietta; W. M. Morris, Atlanta; Captain George B. Whiteside, Columbus; J. C. Gentry, Atlanta; J. W. Yopp, Atlanta; C. H. Dance, Toccoa; M. P. Word, LaGrange.

The resolution passed by the ice men follows:

"Resolved, That on account of the present situation in regard to fuel and the necessity for conservation of coal to the greatest possible extent, the Georgia Ice Manufacturers' association desires to express to the fuel administrator their purpose of co-operating with him to the fullest extent, and to that end will at once take up the question with all of the ice manufacturers of the state who are connected with the association requesting that every plant possible be closed down during the coal shortage, arrangements being made for plants that are necessary to run to supply the ice for those that are shut down, so that the public may be fully protected with a sufficient supply of ice."

The Real Solution to the High Price of Fuel

The shaded portion of the pile represents the relative amount of fuel saved by the CaloriC.

The fuel problem must be solved. Fuel this year is not only high in price and going higher—but IS SCARCE—and we cannot meet the situation by simply digging a little deeper into our pockets.

We must use LESS FUEL—so there may be enough to go around.

Yet we must keep warm. We must protect our families with well-heated homes. We must not let colds and influenza become rampant again this winter.

PIPELESS CALORIC FURNACE (TRADE MARK)

THE ORIGINAL PATENTED PIPELESS FURNACE

The CaloriC saves from ⅓ to ½ the fuel. This is not guess work, but an established record—fully proven in over 76,000 buildings where the CaloriC is in use.

CaloriC heat is circulated heat—constant change of air. Therefore CaloriC heat is always pure and healthful. Why should anyone endure close, stuffy rooms when they can have pure, healthful CaloriC heat at LESS COST?

The CaloriC is sold on the fair and square basis of guaranteed satisfaction—the broadest guarantee ever made in the heating industry. Why should any buyer of a furnace take chances with experiments when he can buy the CaloriC on this definite guaranteed basis?

The CaloriC is the Pioneer and Leader of Pipeless Heating, and embodies basic patents which are essential to efficient pipeless heating and which imitators dare not copy. The man who buys a CaloriC gets advantage of these patents, and can have advantage of them in no other way.

Call, phone or write for further details of the CaloriC—the heating system that gives you the most heat, in most convenient form at least cost.

—Big Facts

76,000 users.

Proven fuel saving of ⅓ to ½.

AMUSEMENTS

Loew Vaudeville.

(At the Grand.)

Marie Russell, in make-up of brown, proved a delightful entertainer to Monday's audience at Loew's Grand. Her impersonations of a swell colored belle are all that one could ask for and are extremely well done. Miss Russell is resplendent in handsome Parisian gowns and knows how to put her songs over.

A novelty on the program is the morality allegorical sketch in four episodes, "Which One Shall I Marry?" The episodes consist of a prologue, the rich man's home, the poor man's home, and the epilogue. The problem for decision concerns any young girl who is to choose between a rich man and a poor man for her future happiness. The four members of the cast are excellent in their parts and present a very interesting playlet.

Oliver, an expert accordionist, opens the bill with a good selection of melodies, ranging from the classical to the popular music of the day. Following is Francis and DeMar in "Making Good." The man member of this team works from the audience and certainly makes good. The act has a nice line of comedy and some good songs. Bell and Caron close the bill with singing, chatter, dancing and eccentric acrobatics.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Lyric.)

Svengali and his Trilby, in a wonderful demonstration of the "hypnotism of harmony," is easily the feature attraction on the bill for the first part of the week at the Lyric.

In this marvelous performance Svengali transmits by mental telepathy any air or song suggested to him by members of the audience as he stands out in the crowd to Trilby sitting at the piano on the stage, and instantly the young woman plays and sings the piece asked for.

It was one of the best and most genuine acts of its kind ever given in Atlanta and proved not only mystifying but wonderfully pleasing to the audience.

Friend and LaVan, a couple, composed of a popular song writer and a Parisian violinist, with catchy songs, were given the repeated approval of the crowd. Miss LaVan proved herself the mistress of a violin, and her solos, accompanied by Friend, on the piano, were delightful features of the bill.

The whistling of Rudinoff, which was done without the movement of his lips, was a novelty that pleased. He imitated the songs of birds in a most realistic manner. Rudinoff also presented a novelty by producing a marine picture from a piece of smoked porcelain, with the use only of his fingers and a small brush.

Donavan and Lee, who were advertised to appear on this bill, were unable to present their act, Donavan being ill. The management substituted a Christy comedy.

"Parlor, Bedroom and Bath."

(Coming to Atlanta Theater.)

Playgoers who are familiar with the brisk and breezy brand of farces will be more than interested in the announcement that one of the most successful of farce hits, "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath," will be presented again at the Atlanta theater on Thursday night for an engagement of three nights and Saturday matinee. The play is a fresh, flippant frolic in three acts by C. W. Bell and Mark Swan. Mr. Woods makes it a practice not to disclose the plot of his productions in advance, thus avoiding anticipated climaxes, but it may be said that the story of "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" has to do with the amatory experience of a meek and modest young husband who is compelled to live up to his reputation as a Don Juan in order to retain his wife's affections. His strategy in this direction results in his finding himself in a wayside inn surrounded by a bountcous but embarrassing display of feminine pulchritude. The situations are disastrous to his dignity, but provide an evening of fresh and abundant fun. Seats are now on sale.

Monroe Salisbury.

(At the Tudor.)

Monroe Salisbury, red-blooded actor of red-blooded roles, appeared at the Tudor theater Monday in a new Universal photoplay, "His Divorced Wife," a stirring drama of the Kentucky mountains in which Salisbury is seen as Ash Whipple, a rugged young blacksmith of Little Thunder mountain. Whipple loves the daughter of an old aristocrat who has been brought to poverty. His rivals, wealthy and proud, are distanced by the young giant and he marries the girl, only to find that her father and the rejected suitors have sworn to "break up" the marriage though it costs the happiness of all concerned.

Elsie Ferguson.

(At the Forsyth.)

If you fancy Elsie Ferguson can do only society parts, you ought to take a look at Elsie in "Counterfeit" at the Forsyth today and tomorrow—a new Paramount-Artcraft production that gives Miss Ferguson plenty of chances to wear beautiful clothes and also—listen to this!—to blow a safe and chase down a gang of desperate counterfeiters, as a secret agent of the government. It is a severe part for the refined daughter of an old southern family, especially when the young man she is in love with sees her cracking that safe. But he believes in her—gee, but he must love her a lot!—and sticks by her until the happy conclusion. Miss Ferguson's powers of emotional acting are given a fine chance in this new drama, and it contains a powerful appeal to the inherent love of adventure and "sleuthing" that is buried in the breast of every man and woman. A fine, lively drama is "Counterfeit"—it is the real goods, for all its name. And Miss Ferguson does some exceptionally fine work in it. A Paramount Magazine runs with the feature film.

Olga, Mind Reader.

(At the Vaudette.)

An unusual outpouring of patrons dropped into the Vaudette yesterday and, safely away from the down-pouring rain, questioned Madame Olga about their past, present and future problems—and heard things that startled them. Madame Olga, heralded as the "greatest mind-reader in the world," certainly told tales out of school at the Vaudette yesterday, and she is billed for all the week, answering questions about lost articles—including hearts—business engagements and prospects; doubtful husbands and sweethearts, and all the rest. She made a tremendous hit yesterday and the Vaudette did a huge business in spite of the wicked weather. Olga will be at the Vaudette all this week. Today Mary Pickford is shown in the feature film, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," and tomorrow comes Lillian Gish in the lively racing story, "Atta Boy's Last Race."

"Male and Female" Is DeMille's Best Film; Is Now at Rialto

Rain and otherwise horrible weather utterly failed to break up or interfere notably with the opening of "Male and Female" at the Rialto yesterday, and many attended the theater all afternoon and evening, to witness the latest and greatest of Cecil DeMille's productions, made from the famous stageplay, "The Admirable Crichton."

The reception of the great spectacle was simply wonderful, especially considering the weather. But it was evident that people were looking for the great play and were more or less prepared for it. Certainly no one who saw it will forget it—and it was pretty much that kind of a play on the speaking stage, though even Mr. Barrie will admit that when it comes to shipwreck, tropical island settings, slinking beasts cut down by the admirable Crichton's deadly arrow, and the glories of Ancient Babylon—when it comes to these things, the speaking stage must give way to the silver screen.

The tremendous play was given a royal cast, headed by Thomas Meighan and Gloria Swanson, both vastly popular in Atlanta. Lila Lee and Theodore Roberts also have splendid parts, and little Wesley Barry, as the freckle-faced "Buttons," plays an amusing role, introducing each actor in turn as he peers through the keyhole of each chamber door in the luxurious British mansion. Thus we obtain a peep at the beautiful Lady Mary preparing for her bath and other rather intimate details of her boudoir—until the firm hand of Crichton falls upon the guilty little shoulder of "Buttons."

The scope of "Male and Female" is simply tremendous. It swings us by way of a most spectacular shipwreck from the luxury of a wealthy English home to the perils of a jungle island, where, in truth, the snobbish family and their servants become merely "Male and Female," as the Holy Writ says they were created—and now it is the splendid butler who steps forth as the true leader, while the helpless blue-bloods do his bidding, and the proud Lady Mary fights with the scullery maid to wait on him—and to earn his love.

And the Lady Mary wins his love, too, it is declared, after the tremendous Babylonic episode is told her, after her lover saves her from the leopard, as he had formerly condemned her to die under the lion's paw. They are about to be married when a ship is sighted. Rescue—home—back to the artificial laws and conventions of civilization, in the crude garments they made during their two years' stay as the guests of hard old Dame Nature.

Does the former butler and later king go meekly back to his menial role? Does the Lady Mary—lately his devoted slave—renounce him? And what of the poor little scullery maid, "Tweeny," who loved him all the time?

It took Barrie to write the solution—it required DeMille to flash it brilliantly across the silver screen. It cannot be described—it has to be seen. It is justly rated the greatest of the DeMille productions to date.

A special musical setting, brilliantly played by the new Rialto orchestra, adds greatly to the presentation of this tremendous drama.

Big Griffith Play, "Scarlet Days," Is At Strand Theater

"The old Griffith punch is there!"

That's what people said, coming out of the Strand theater after every performance of "Scarlet Days," the latest and in many ways the most brilliant of the Griffith productions—the portrayal of the gold rush days of '49; when hard men lived in their boots—and died in them; when the sheriff could drive a tenpenny nail with his heavy six-shooter—yet missed the adorable bandit, Alvarez; that debonnair young man with the soft voice and the chilled-steel nerve—the prettiest character D. W. Griffith has given us in many a long day.

Yes—the old Griffith punch is there, in "Scarlet Days," and through the audience you hear the old familiar pat-pat-pat of the applause, as Alvarez marks down man after man, victims of his spurting revolver; and as the hard old sheriff takes the road, barely in time to break up the rush on the cabin where two women are defended only by "Sir Whiteheart" and the gallant little Alvarez, bandit of the mountains.

It's a story of California in the rough old times when a man's life hung in the crook of his trigger finger; a story of "Rosy Nell," of a scarlet life, lived for her innocent daughter in an eastern school. The daughter comes west—meets Randolph and Alvarez—finds her mother; and the old Griffith punch is there, too. And the mother is accused of murder—and the wicked King Bagleys' eyes fall on the fresh beauty of the daughter—and then comes the big fight. You know how Griffith plays a fight.

That gallant little Alvarez, gentle as a lamb toward the women—hard as a tempered blade against the hard men of that time. And loving little Chiquita, who gains her reward at last—after the sheriff's deadly aim goes astray. And the beautiful daughter of Rosy Nell—and Randolph, the boy from Virginia—how brightly they all shine, to be sure.

It's a true Griffith play.

O'Brien Makes Hit In "Sealed Hearts" At the Criterion

The feature attraction at the Criterion theater all this week is Eugene O'Brien in "Sealed Hearts," the second Selznick picture in which this popular star has appeared.

"Sealed Hearts" is a story of an adopted son's love for his father's pretty young wife whose heart hs grown hungry for the boyish love her aged husband cannot give her. She returns the young man's love and when they can no longer hide their mutual devotion, the father becomes the pitiable prey of a jealous rage.

The complications that grow out of this unusual situation form the nucleus of a play both sensational and startling and the crucial moments, as they occur, fairly leap from the screen.

BUSINESS LEADERS ASKED TO PROVIDE FOR SERVICE MEN

A call upon the business men of Atlanta to provide work for ex-service men, their wives and members of their families has been issued by the war camp community employment bureau, 190 Peachtree street. Despite the recent response of Atlanta business men, A. Baumberger, secretary, stated yesterday there are many applications for work which have not been filled and anyone desiring help is urged to communicate with the employment office.

The W. C. C. S. is ready at all times, Mr. Baumberger stated, to assist in "community service" by furnishing expert advice and assistance to anyone wanting to know more about mass singing, athletics, domestic science, cooking, sewing, dressmaking, millinery, chorus, glee club, orchestra and dramatic work. The object of the organization, he said, is to provide community service and an urgent call has been issued to Atlantans to avail themselves of the opportunity.

YOU CAN THINK AND WORK BETTER; EAT AND SLEEP BETTER

If You Have Pure Blood

Your blood is made up of the food you eat, the water you drink, and the air you breathe. If your food, water and air are bad, your blood will become impure. But, even when the best and most nourishing food is eaten, the purest of water is drunk, your blood may be made impure from other causes.

For many years Plough's Prescription C-2223 has been used with great success as a blood purifier. Before the treatment, ready prepared, was offered to the public, it was used by a prominent physician to relieve those conditions caused by impure blood. It was his prescription for blood and rheumatic troubles.

This concentrated liquid treatment contains certain medicinal ingredients which are known and used by the medical profession, and authorities agree that these are some of the few drugs which are of value in the treatment of rheumatic conditions, skin diseases and troubles caused by an impure state of the blood.

If you are half sick, tired all the time, have reason to believe that your blood is impure, go to your nearest druggist, get a $1.50 bottle of Plough's Prescription C-2223 and a 25c package of 2223 Liver Pills, or the 2223 Laboratory, Memphis, Tenn., will send both, all charges paid, on receipt of $1.75. The Quick Way to Stop a Cough

This home-made syrup does the work in a hurry. Easily prepared, and saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. For 17 years he used these tablets (a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil) in his private practice with great success.

They do all the good that calomel does but have no bad after effects. No pains, no griping, no injury to the gums or danger from acid foods—yet they stimulate the liver and bowels. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." Note how they clear clouded brain and perk up the spirits. 10c and 25c a box.

DODSON WARNS CALOMEL USERS

Dyspeptic Soup Eaters Can Change Their Spoon for a Knife and Fork and With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets the World Smiles Again.

Ask a former dyspeptic who tried the Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets plan what wonderful relief they afford. Instead of the grouchy bowl of soup at home and the abject terror at the sight of good things to eat at a party supper, the soup spoon has been replaced by the knife and fork. This comes from giving the digestive processes required assistance. These tablets digest food. They stimulate natural digestive secretions. Thus the food keeps on digesting, doesn't lie in the stomach to sour and create all sorts of distresses. And they act as soon as they enter the stomach, hence relief even in dyspepsia may be looked for almost at once.

If you have been troubled with gassiness, sour stomach, water brash, heaviness after eating and such troubles, try these tablets. You will find Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets on sale in any drug store in the United States and Canada.—(adv.)

Irish Engagement Scheduled Tonight

Adair and Avera Hold Their Blarney Party at Auditorium at 8 O'Clock for Atlanta's Padded Mitt Fans.

By Les Rawlings.

Both Larry Avera and Barney Adair are ready for their 10-round all-Irish bout at the Auditorium tonight, the managers of the scrappers announcing Monday afternoon that each had completed his preliminary training and was ready for the gong to go in what should prove a fast and furious engagement.

Because of the fuel conservation orders tonight's fight will begin promptly at 8 o'clock instead of 8:30, with the opening engagement a 6-round affair between "Battling" Barnett and "Rabbit" Palmer, of Camp Gordon.

The semi-windup will be a 10-round affair between Freddie Boorde and Benny Palmer, an unknown youngster, who is said to pack a lot of fight in his system. All of the bouts will be to decisions.

At the last Auditorium bout between Jake Abel and Vic Moran for the welterweight championship of the south McDonald engaged the services of a jazz band to liven up the evening and the same outfit will render syncopated selections during the intermissions and between rounds tonight.

McDonald is again in communication with Billy Gibson, manager of Benny Leonard, to get the lightweight champion of the world here during the month some time and it is possible that the redoubtable Benny will be seen on the Auditorium stage some time during the latter part of December.

All tickets to tonight's show include the war tax, which patrons will not have to pay, and from advance sale indications there will be a good house when the bell calls the fighters into the ring to start festivities.

McDonald himself will referee the main go, while Hugh Mauck has been engaged to take charge of the preliminaries.

COLONEL RUPPERT MUCH PLEASED AT BAN'S COMING

New York, December 8.—Colonel Jacob Ruppert, of the New York Americans, expressed satisfaction today when he read a dispatch from Chicago stating that Ban Johnson, league president, had canceled his call for the annual meeting of the league in that city and had agreed to attend the meeting called in New York by Messrs. Comiskey, Ruppert and Frazee.

"So Mr. Johnson's coming here, is he?" asked Colonel Ruppert. "That's fine. At last he has found he had no authority to call the meeting in Chicago."

In reply to a question as to whether withdrawal of the proceedings brought to enjoin Johnson from holding the Chicago session were in the nature of a compromise, Colonel Ruppert said:

"No, indeed. The suit was withdrawn because too many long drawn out technicalities were involved. There was no compromise."

TECH WILL ENTER BASKETBALL RACE

Jacket Faculty Finally Decides Positively That Gold and White Banner Will Be Carried on Cage Courts.

By Keller Melton.

At a meeting of the faculty of Georgia Tech held Friday afternoon it was definitely decided to allow Tech to play intercollegiate basketball this season. The student body has been practically sure of this for the last two weeks but not until a resolution allowing intercollegiate basketball was passed by the faculty Friday afternoon did this become a certainty.

Basketball has not been a major sport at Tech for several reasons. Foremost among these was a feeling among the faculty that three major sports was too much and that there ought to be a period during the school year when students were free to study, not being hindered by keen interest in some athletic activity.

A temporary court has been laid off down on the lower field out at the Flats and it is here that Coach Alexander will train the squad at first. The first official call for prospective members of the Tech quintet was issued for Monday but due to the fact that the court more nearly resembled a swimming pool than a basketball court no practice was attempted. The first real practice will be held Tuesday, weather permitting. Between seventy five and a hundred candidates are expected to report for first practice.

On this court Coach Alexander will go through a process of weeding out for the first two or three weeks. At the end of this process the squad should number between twenty and thirty. Practice will then be moved to a down-town indoor court, possibly the Y. M. C. A. court.

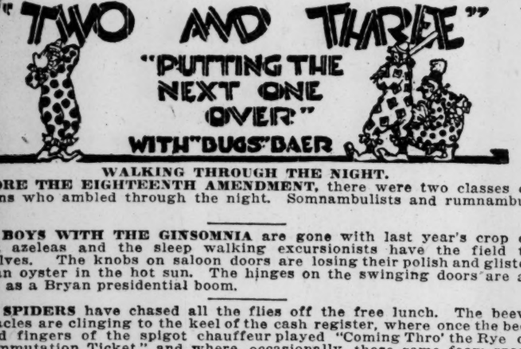

Professor Crenshaw, athletic director at Tech, is at work on a schedule, which will be announced as soon as it is completed. No games will be played before January 1. Tech's schedule will include some of the best college and city athletic club teams in the south.

The cross-country team returned from Birmingham Sunday afternoon with nothing but praise for their hosts, the Birmingham Athletic club, who so royally entertained them before and after the meet. That bunch finished fifth, which isn't so bad considering everything and it could have been a lot worse. McClesky finished third, just eight seconds behind the winner.

International Meeting.

INTERNATION MTETING—8 . . .

New York, December 8.—At the annual meeting of the International Baseball league here today the club owners agreed on a playing schedule of 154 games, and approved the transfer of the Binghamton franchise to Akron, Ohio, and the Newark franchise to Syracuse, N. Y.

WALKING THROUGH THE NIGHT.

BEFORE THE EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT, there were two classes of citizens who ambled through the night. Somnambulists and rumnambulists.

THE BOYS WITH THE GINSOMNIA are gone with last year's crop of sweet azeleas and the sleep walking excursionists have the field to 'emselves. The knobs on saloon doors are losing their polish and glister like an oyster in the hot sun. The hinges on the swinging doors are as rusty as a Bryan presidential boom.

THE SPIDERS have chased all the flies off the free lunch. The beevo barnacles are clinging to the keel of the cash register, where once the beer dewed fingers of the spigot chauffeur played "Coming Thro' the Rye on a Commutation Ticket," and where, occasionally, those same foam-spangled dime grabbers skipped a note. Very occasionally. No more does the boniface speed the exiting guest on his way with the Milwaukee blessing, "Pabst Vobiscum."

THE OLD BARKEEP'S APRON is hanging on the doorbell and those who pass may read the omen in its darksome hues. Booze is gone with yesterday and those who thought that Omar Khayyam wrote the Third Testament.

CARRYING THE BANNER is a lost art along with hiccoughs and delirium tremens. The sundodgers, with their healthy faces tanned by the moon and exposure to the bright lights, now walk around with bent skulls and bowed thirsts. There's quite a difference between bending the neck and bending the elbow.

YET, ONCE ANNUALLY, the banner packers returneth to the old nest like the murderer to the scene of the crime. That's whe nthe six-day race pops up at the Garden each December. Then the color bearers rush to the trophy rooms and throw the banner to the damp breeze. There is an armistice on prohibition and a moratorium on right living.

THEY CALL IT a six-day race. That's as erroneous as a two-foot yard stick. It should be labeled a six-night race.

ONE NIGHT IN MADISON SQUARE GARDEN is worth six years in a cheese mine. Air is composed of one part oxygen to four parts nitrogen, accelerated by argon, neon, kryton, xenon and hellium. The air in the Garden didn't read the book. It is nine parts hellium with oil on the first syllable. The six-day race is a bike race to the eye only. To the nose it is a camel race.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT was a big matinee for the banner toters. Equipped with Miss Oakleys for the Garden, self-starting thirsts and skulls to Moose Runyon's birthday party, a spelling-bee time was had by all.

WITH AN EYE TO TRUTHFUL DETAIL, Moose held his birthday party at the Fifty Club. The Moose has accepted Jim Corbett's challenge to fight the world when Jim is sixty. Runyon will wait for him.

AFTER A BEAUTIFUL pre-prohibition time at the Fifty Club the banner carriers paraded the Garden. The Fifty Club is named that because the members figure the contraband will last that long. After the eggs got through they will have to call it the Two Club. The color bearers knocked forty-eight years off of the locker room's life.

BACK AT THE GARDEN, Egg Curley checked his hard-shell at the coat room for a few seconds and offered one dollar for a fifty-mile sprint. His offer was accepted by a gent who had just grabbed an overcoat off the line.

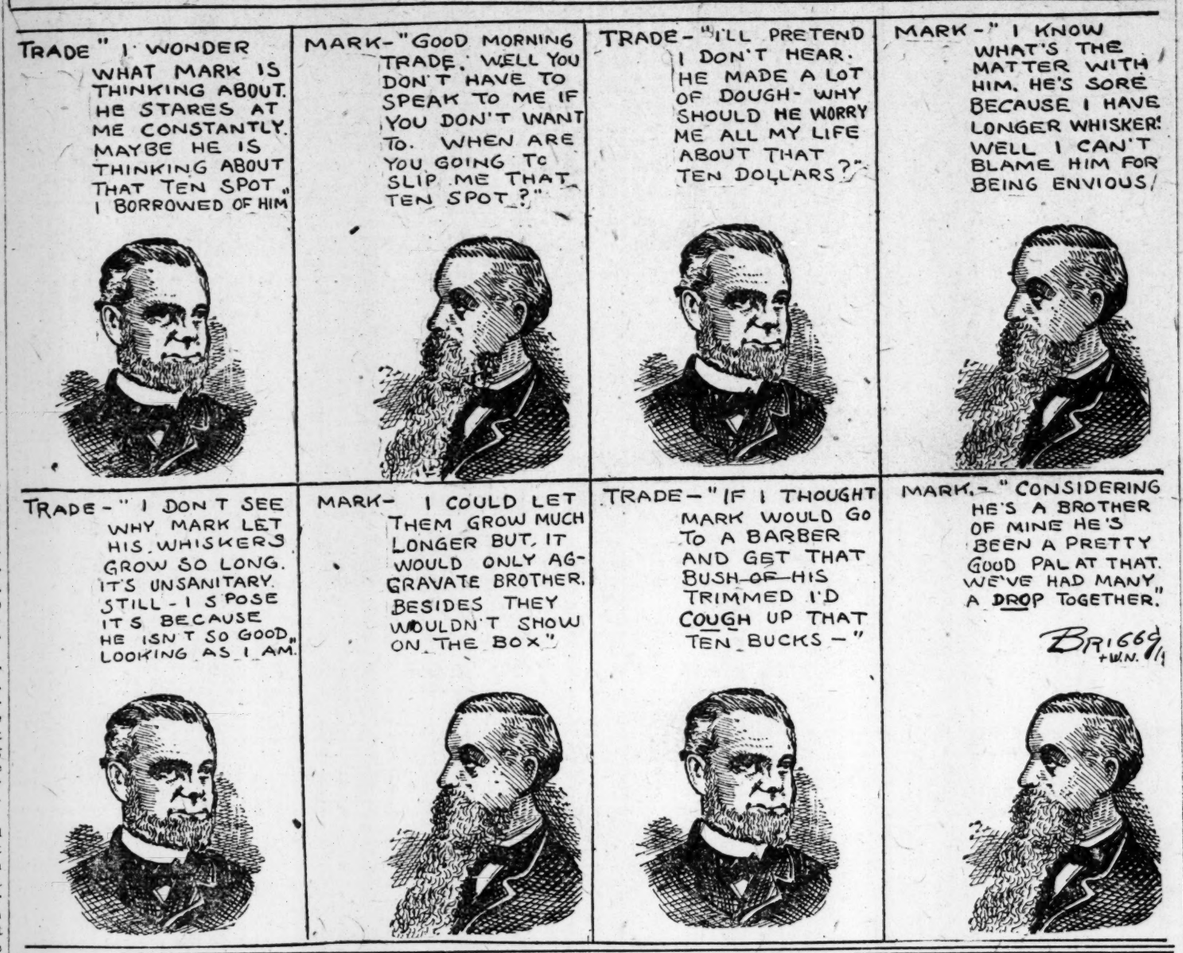

AT 6 A. M. HYPE IGOE DECIDED to join the bikers on foot. He went out between two corn-fed bulls with his coaster brakes working good. At 9 in the morning the banner carriers figured that the night was almost over, so John O'Reilly broke out a pair of radolite dice that you can see in the daytime. When the epidemic of dotted influenza died out all the kale was in Moose Runyon's kicks. It was his party.

AT NOON SEVEN RACERS tumbled off their wheels. It wasn't an accident. Just the Garden air. The bikers got ripe and fell off.

WHEN THE DINNER MEAL-BAG WHILST RANG Joe Smollen called the party off and no contest. The eggs went back to cold storage, boiled but not beaten.

ONCE MORE THEY WALKED through the night.

Chic Harley, who this season has played brilliantly on the gridiron for the Ohio State college, may be induced to play professional baseball next summer. Several clubs, including the St. Louis Browns, are after him. President Joe Tinker, of the Columbus club of the American association, is ready to offer the star an attractive contract. The Akron club of the International league is also angling for his services. Last summer, Harley played in the outfield on the Ohio State baseball team, and was one of the best players representing the college.

Back in Game.

Sam Fitzpatrick, the veteran pilot of ring champions, is back in the game once more. Fitz has dug up a lightweight in the person of Johnny Molinari, whom he believes is destined to become a leading figure in that division this winter.

Molinari was a member of the Fifty-first pioneers, and saw a great deal of service during the war. While in the army he took part in forty-three glove bouts, and was one of the most popular performers for the Knights of Columbus. He is not unknown in professional circles, as he appeared on uumerous occasions at eastern clubs. He scales close to 130 pounds, and is open to meet any 133-pounded in the country.

Fitzpatrick knows a fighter when he sees one, as he demonstrated when he piloted Kid Lavigne and Jack Johnson into the lightweight and heavyweight championships, respectively. Johnson was of the small time circuit when Fitzpatrick took hold of him and ran Tommy Burns to earth in Sydney, Australia, in 1908. Shortly after winning the title, Johnson desered the man who had made it posible for him to annex the honors, and Fitzpatrick was so disgusted that he has mingled very little in boxing affairs ever since.

Dixon's Battle.

Tomorrow will be the thirteenth anniversary of the last appearance in the ring of one of the greatest little fighters who ever wore a glove—George Dixon. The little Nova Scotian black met Monk Newsboy in Providence on that occasion, and lost the decision in fifteen rounds. He was but a shadow of his former self, and the marvellous skill and generalship which had made hi ma favorite were absent. After that, "Little Chocolate" who had made a fortune in the ring, sunk into abject poverty and within three years he was dead. Dixon's ring career extended over twenty years. He was a little pickaninny of 16 when he started in the game, and he was 36 when he engaged in his last bout. At 20 he became the bantamweight champion of the world, and a little later he achieevd the world's featherweight title by defeating Nuno Wallace in London; "Australian Abe" Willis, in San Francisco, and Jack Skely, in New Orleans. He lost the title to Solly Smith in 1897, but soon regained it, and held the honor until Terry McGovern whipped him in 1900.

DUFFY TO MANAGE TORONTO BALL CLUB

Toronto, December 8.—Hugh Duffy, who managed the Philadelphia National league baseball team in 1905 and 1906, has been appointed manager of the Toronto Ininterna tionals to succeed George Gibson, according to a message received today from J. J. McCaffery, president of the club. Duffy has been out of baseball for many years.

American Meet Off.

Chicago, December 8.—The annual meeting of the American league, scheduled to be held here Wednesday, was suddenly called off today. President Johnson announced he and the five "loyal" club owners would attend the meeting called in New York by Messrs. Comiskey, Ruppert and Frazee.

Somebody Starts Something.

The other night at one minute past twelve they staged a midnight revue at the Auditorium for the benefit of starving actors. Atlanta went wild and so many people tramped back and forth down Edgewood avenue that the city very nearly had to call out the construction gang and repave the sidewalks.

It was a big hit to everybody but the some four or five thousand who didn't get inside the place and the bird who had to refund the money.

For the first time in five years the New York of the South failed to go to bed at 10 o'clock.

After being bottled up with no way to allow their natural emotions to break forth, everybody, from preachers' sons to undertakers, were out looking for excitement, and most 'em either found that or something that could produce it.

It was a concrete example of the fact that Atlanta has been growing old. It's time for the jazz artists to get busy with the shears and clip a few whiskers off Peachtree and shoot a shot of hop into the flagging Bohemianism that used to furnish a thrill to the individual who heard the "Call of the Wild."

Movie shows and coal oil lamps don't furnish romance and this day and time the guy who gets by is the gazabo who can get a real punch over without necessitating a call for the reserves.

Atlanta's police force has gotten so it can sleep peaceably on darkened beat. The sleep used to be disturbed once in a while, anyway.

It Ought to Be Different Now.

If the youngsters didn't have to work so hard trying to find something to do at nights they wouldn't be too tired to go to church on Sundays, which ought to enlist everybody in lending a little moral support to setting the alarm clock for 10 p. m. instead of 5 a. m.

It has been suggested that after the coal strike is settled somebody mount a jazz band on the Five Points' flagpole and stage a street carnival from the Winecoff hotel to Mitchell street. It'll help Santa Claus find us and won't harm anybody but the people in Griffin.

One enterprising citizen has even suggested that he might start a real cabaret show, promise Chief Beavers to serve nothing stronger than Bevo, and put in a hospital ward for the shocked Atlantans who won't be able to stand the pace until they become hardened to it.

Solomon was a wise guy. He had his shimmy palaces and midnight eats. Why can't Atlanta stage a dance after 11 o'clock without the fire department getting the delirium tremens for fear the New York papers will write them up for inefficiency?

Council and the police board are having a hard time to keep men interested enough to work on the force. They don't get anything to do and people can't keep healthy without exercise. We're willing to concede it would be a sporting event if the street railway found it could collect a few nickels after the conducter got through.

People were sad when July 1 rolled around and the sadness hasn't worn off yet, but they ought to be induced to leave off the mourning if somebody would just start something.

BENDER DID NOT STEAL SIGNALS, SAY HIS FRIENDS

Chicago, December 8.—(Special.) Christy Mathewson, writing of the recent world series, in which the Cincinnati Reds annihilated the Chicago White Sox, does not credit the report that Chief Bender successfully stole Chicago signals and therefore assisted the Redlegs materially in winning the world's title. Mathewson is a warm personal friend of the Indian pitcher and what "Big Six" says of the matter will carry much weight among those who know him and believe in his inherent honesty.

"I have never been able to believe that Manager Moran took Bender on the bench for the purpose of stealing signals," said Matty. "I never could quite believe that Bender was the wizard at signal stealing that some writers are wont to credit him with being, because I have always believed Chief Bender to be a real smart ball player and a fair one, too.

"Bender is a student of baseball and a deeper student than many fans and writers are willing to admit. His presence on the bench or the coaching lines would naturally mean much to a ball club, for I have never met a player who could grasp situations as quickly as the Indian. Because he does grasp situations quickly however, it does not follow that he should be catalogued as a sharpshooter, nor should his motives be impugned until it is proven that he does actually steal signals."

What Matty says of Chief Bender seems to tally perfectly with Connie Mack's estimate of the Indian. "If I had one ball game to win I would rather have Bender pitch it for me than any other pitcher I have ever seen," said Mack. Then the Athletic boss explained that Bender always seemed to be able to get the dope on the opposition without being suspected of having gained any valuable information.

Matty says from what he can learn Bender's task on the bench with the Cincinnati club during the series was to advise with Moran and to give the Cincinnati hurlers some information on the hitting ability of the various members of the White Sox as he remembered it. Bender has played against nearly all of the Chicago team and he could find plenty to inform the Redleg hurlers about without trying to obtain or give out anything of an underhand nature.

JOHNSON "BEARDS LION IN HIS DEN," IN LEAGUE FIGHT

Chicago, December 8.—President Ban Johnson, of the American league, accompanied by five "loyal" club owners, departed tonight for New York to accept the challenge of the three "rebel" directors and attend the meeting called for Wednesday to settle the contest for the presidency of the league.

The controversy will be fought out on the ground chosen by the minority directors of the league—Charles Comiskey, owner of the Chicago club; Harry Frazee, of the Boston club, and Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York club.

The decision to attend the New York meeting was reached by the five loyal club owners at a secret meeting this afternoon. After the session, President Johnson announced that the meeting called for Chicago on Wednesday had been called off. This action was taken on the advice of counsel in the belief that the quickest way to straighten out the tangle was to compel the oppositon to "lay its cards on the table of its own choosing."

George W. Miller, counsel for President Johnson and his associates, said that the majority club owners did not by their action admit the right of the directors to call this meeting, but it was their desire to compel a show down.

SPORT PICKUPS

American football and baseball have been introduced at Tsing Hua college, Pekin, China. A golf course is soon to be laid out there. The registrar of the institution is Ming S. Lowe, who eight years ago graduated from the University of California, where he was an all-round athlete.

Michigan will lose eight of this season's varsity football eleven.

The movement for enacting laws for a uniform system of ascertaining the abundance of various species of wild animals (already in operation in New York, Wisconsin and Minnesota) is gaining headway among fish and game commissioners, and such legislation is expected to be urged upon legislatures in various states.

Pennsylvania State college will award two scolarships to perpetuate the memory of "Red" Bebout and Levi Lamb, former gridiron stars who were killed in the battles of France. The scholarships will be awarded to athletes with scholastic credits, who are unable to pay their way through college. A fund of $10,000 was subscribed by Pittsburg alumni.

A department of soldiers' civil re-establishment of Toronto has formed an athletic association known as the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment athletic association. A hockey team has been entered in the Toronto senior series interdepartment. Five and ten-pin bowling leagues will be organized and other sports promoted.

Yale will start swimming practice December 9 of this year's team which won the intercollegiate championship for the tenth time in succession; six natators are available again this season.

Toronto hockey league includes 100 teams and the players want dressing rooms provided in city rinks.

Milwaukee has three indoor baseball leagues made up of twenty-five teams.

The Prince of Wales donated a trophy for competition to the Toronto Hunt club. His father gave the King's Plate as a special encouragement to Canadian horse racing.

New York city public school athletic league is conducting a standing broad jump test, and it is estimated at least 350,000 boys are practicing.

Princeton university basketball team must win the eastern intercollegiate tourney next season to keep the Hoppe championship trophy cup in competition as Yale, Penn, Cornell and Columbia each has won it twice and another triumph means possession of the prize. Dartmouth, too, of course must be considered in the championship hunt.

Six-man hockey will prevail in the many Winnipeg leagues this winter for the first time in the history of the game there.

It may require $175,000 to $200,000 to send the American athletes to the Antwerp Olympic games. The squad will include track and field athletes, swimmers, cyclists, marksmen, football players, horsemen and fencers and will sail early in July. The games as at present planned are to start about August 15 and continue three to four weeks.

Fred Faller, of the Dorchester club, is not only the A. E. F. champion distance runner but he won the natitonal ten-mile title, the national cross-country championship and both the New England cross-country and ten-mile events. He has won other races besides, notably the American legion event.

AUBURN QUINTET SHOWING UP WELL

Fast Squad of Youngsters Trying Out for Plainsmen Five—Four Regulars Back—Phillips, Old Vandy Star, Is Helping Donahue.

Auburn, Ala., December 8.—(Special.)—Basketball practice in the "loveliest village" is progressing rapidly, and the squad which Coaches Donahue and Phillips are fast rounding into shape is looking more and more like a stellar cage outfit.

More interest is being taken in the court game this year than any preceding season, and this fact is true of all sports. In former years, Auburn's chief sport was football, and each year when the gridiron season would come to a close, there was a hiatus of sports until the next football season. Of recent years, however, more and more interest in the game of basketball has been shown, and the interest is at a climax this year.

Last year, the Orange and Blue quintet annexed the title for the college basketball outfits of the south, and by the rapid strides taken by the squad so far, the outlook seems very roseate for a repetition of that feat.

In the coaching staff, Auburn is very fortunate in having two tutors before whom the game lies like an open book. Coach Donahue, familiarly known as "Mike," has coached basketball at Auburn ever since the game was established at the school. He has had marked success, although laboring under the serious handicaps of lack of material and inexperience for many seasons. He knows the game from A to Z and is an able instructor, but he has needed an assistant for several years. He has one this year. The newcomer is Phillips, who, when wearing the spangles of the Vanderbilt Commodores, made his letter in both football and basketball and made a decidedly creditable showing in each. He will probably take charge of the forwards, and Donahue will do most of the guard coaching. Between these two mentors, Auburn should make the 1919-20 basketball season a howling success from every viewpoint.

As aforesaid, the Auburn five won the championship in college circles last year, and of the quintet from last year, four are in school and are going great guns. The four regulars returning are Hahn, center; Barks, forward; Trapp, guard, and Wade, guard. There is a possibility that one of these will be lost to the team, as Trapp is very undecided if he will be able to be in school for the basketball season or not.

His loss will no doubt be felt, but the team could easier afford to lose Trapp than any man on the team, for, although he is a coming star, last year was his first attempt at the court game.

The heaviest loss sustained by the team is the departure of "Hungry" Floyd who as a forward did consideraole damage to opposing teams' records last year. As a ringer of baskets, he had but mighty few superiors in the southland, and he was great at playing the floor and passing. He seemed to be all over the floor at the same time. His value to the team was inestimable, and he will be sadly missed.

To take Floyd's place, it is a strong probability that Hahn, the center of last year, will be shifted to the forward position. Though a good enough center, Hahn was rather light for the position, and was not exceptionally tall, and it was thought that he would show up much better at the forward position. He should fit in very well in Floyd's place.

Hub Barks will take care of the other forward place, and has demonstrated that he can do it well. Though not a very brilliant player, Barks is probably the hardest worker on the floor, and is a very sure shot. While showing up well last season, Barks should be at his best this year, and great things are expected of him.

Wade, a regular guard on last year's team, is back, and is showing up in fine form. Jimmy is a steady reliable player, and is particularly strong at the passing game. There are not many forwards in the south who can get around him, as he always covers up well, possessing plenty of height and extremely long arms.

To take Trapp's place, McFadden, a substitute guard of last year, will probably be tried, and should prove satisfactory. McFadden had but few chances to show his worth last year, but each time he was used in a game he showed tha makings of a splendid guard.

A large squad of hopefuls is being put through its paces every day by the coaches, and a fast scrub team has been organized and has been pitted against the varsity in several spirited games. Lacy, of the Mobile Y. M. C. A., has been showing up in good form, and should make a strong bid for a first string place. There are many others who are showing plenty of class, but it is rather early to say who will or will not make the five.

A hard schedule has been arranged by the coaches, but if the squad shows up in the games to come as well as it has in the recent practices, the coming games should be weathered without any great deal of trouble.

English Champion Is Not Giving Little American Square Deal, Assert the Boxing Fans Who Want Action for Visitor.

By Al Spink.

The friends of Pal Moore, perhaps the greatest fighter of his inches, are complaining bitterly of his treatment at the hands of Jimmy Wilde, England's champion flyweight.

There was a time when the English boxers and their following boasted of their integrity and square dealing.

In the first fight for the world's heavyweight championship sixty years ago, in which international honors were involved, the English proved their real sportsmanship when, after the fight between John C. Heenan, an American, and Tom Sayers, an Englishman, was declared a draw, they gave to each principal a belt emblematic of the championship, each of gold and equal value.

Fairness Is Boasted.

British fair play has been boasted of for centuries and seldom questioned.

After the English had beaten the French on the field at Waterloo it was Victor Hugo, a Frenchman, who wrote:

"What must be admired in the battle of Waterloo, is England, the English firmness, the English resolution and the English blood."

In another place he told of the Highlanders at Waterloo playing the bagpipes under a shower of canister and of how when the onslaught was terrific Wellington shouted:

"Boys, can you think of giving way? Remember old England."

And Americans for many a year have always remembered old England, especially in the boxing line, for her fairness as well as for her firmness. The words "fair play" in England sporting circles has, in fact, always stood for something.

But now there comes a cloud on the English coat of arms, and Pat Moore and his friends are complaining of a great lack of fair play on the part of Jimmy Wilde and his English sponsors.

"When the question wais raised as to international honors in the bantamweight line," said Moore, while in Chicago the other day, "I went to England and met Wilde. We fought there on December 12, 1918, and, according to a decision rendered by Englishmen, I was pronounced the winner after four rounds of lively fighting.

"In that fight we were battling not for the bantamweight championship, which is anything under 116 pounds, but for international glory among the little fellows.

"Had I not been a believer in fair play I would have ignored his challenge to meet him a second time, for I had everything to gain and nothing to lose by declining his proposition, and especially for the reason that he insisted on the second fight being fought as before, in England, and under a British referee and rules.

"This time we fought twenty rounds, and this time the fight was given to Wilde on points.

"It, like our first fight, did not involve the bantamweight championship, which is now 116 pounds, owing to our inability to make that weight.

Too Much Weight.

"It was too high for Wilde, while Wilde's weight was too low for me. And so we had to make the best of the weights, which really gave Wilde the best of it.

"Wilde's friends claim that he was greatly outweighed on this occasion, and that alleged fact got him a world of sympathy. As a matter of fact, he weighed 107½ pounds on that occasion, to my 114½. The latter is a lower weight that any one of the American fighters can make for him and do themselves justice.

"As my best weight is above 116, it was really harder work for me to get down to weight than it was for him to build up to the poundage he carried.

"In that first fight I gave way to

ST. GEORGE'S VASE.

Among other leading players staying at the Southeastern hotel at Deal were three interesting brothers-in-law, all fine Lancashire players. One was E. A. Lassen, a former British amateur champion, another J. R. Remer, a good player and writer—the "Niblick" of The Liverpool Courier, and R. W. Crummack, a very handsome, young golfer. Mr. Edward Blackwell, one of the greatest players Britain has produced, was there, too, and altogether it was an interesting little group of golfers that gathered in the lounge each evening after dinner in those carefree days that now seem a century away.

The other Americans were stopping at a hotel in Sandwich, the Bell, I think, very near the golf course. We went out every day for practice, and had verying luck and an abundance of the best partners. I remember that we all played a great deal with Mr. Everard Martin-Smith.

Before most national championships over here there are preliminary events, sort of curtain raisers to the big affairs. At Sandwich the preliminary event was the St. St. George's Challenge cup, the leading scratch medal competition in Great Britain. The cup was presented to the club by Mrs. W. K. Anderson, wife of the first honorary treasurer of the St. George's Golf clubs, and it was made from the first gold ever brought to England from South Africa. It is valued at 21 pounds, and is given each year by the club to the winner of the event. Competition is for the best aggregate score, and is open to all amateur golfers who are members of recognized clubs.

The then holder of the title was Mr. H. D. Gillies, who finished second; the cup was won by Mr. John Graham, Jr., of the Royal Liverpool club, who was the finest golfer I ever saw play. His victory was a very popular one. He was greatly loved by his friends who were always expecting him to win the British championship, for he had been semi-finalist five times.

Many mysterious reasons had been advanced for the failure of this fine player to win the big title, but to my way of thinking it was merely lack of strength. Usually there is some very simple explanation, behind these failures of the best players who really have the shots. If we could have looked into the future I am sure that we should have all been gladder than ever that Graham won—a year later this great golfer fell on the battlefields of France. The Americans did not stand out well. Strange to say, Jerome Travers made the best score, 155, considerably behind the leaders. He expressed himself as satisfied, however, saying that "This medal scoring business is not my game." Ouimet had 158 and I 159. Other Americans did not compete, failed to turn in their cards, or withdrew. I was paired with Mr. John Ball, who made 157. At that time I blamed a slight indisposition and the raw, cold weather of the previous week for my poor playing. Very probably I was mistaken, but in any event I was glad to have this opportunity for preliminary adjustment. The real test for which we had journeyed far was to come after.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

PAL MOORE COMPLANS OF WILDE'S ACTIONS

Wilde in everything, choice of referee, division of receipts and everything else. I was willing to concede him anything because I felt sure of winning.

"Naturally, in view of our two meetings abroad," continued Moore. "I expected Wilde and his manager to give me first consideration when they reached this country.

"They have, however, deliberately passed me up and taken on another man, who, I feel, due to my previous fights with Wilde, is not nearly so well entitled to the match as I am.

"Wilde in all his matches has insisted on his opponents getting below 116 pounds, the regular bantamweight limit. I believe I am the only one of the little men in this country able to do that weight and do themselves justice.

"I made no complaint of my treatment at the hands of the referee in my last fight in England, and have never uttered a word in criticism of their decision.

"I have thought, however, that as I had earned a victory over Wilde and he has one over me, the next fight for bantam honors should have been between us. And with all the facts in full view, I claim that Wilde and his sponsors in turning me down are ignoring all the old English rules of fair play, and will be sorry for it."

Wilde Acts Strange.

It would appear from another source that Wilde is acting very strangely since his arrival in this country, and is breaking away from the old English integrity and fair dealing. With Wilde just now it appears just a matter of dollars and cents.

Those who know say that he believes he is the whole show, and that he can draw all the people without reference to the sort of opponent that faces him. Believing that, he is picking up cheap men, men who will take anything he may offer for their share, and in this way he saves the lion's share for himself.

"Very recently this story was told about Wilde, a story which, if true, and with the English champion following the same lines, means a quick finish for him, insofar as a pleasant and profitable boxing experience in this contry is concerned:

"Promoter Jack Hanlon, who put on the Herman-Lynch affair in Philadelphia last week, invitd Jimmy Wilde to be his guest. The flyweight champion, in reply, said he would 'consider' the invitation if Hanlon would guarantee him transportation for a party of five, a suite at the Hotel Vendig and $1,000 for incidental expenses. Hanlon wired Wilde that he would do all those little things for him if he would make the date three weeks later and box Joe Lynch six rounds.

"Indications are that this Wilde person is of a somewhat grasping nature. Eh, what?

"If he wants all these nifty little accessories just for deigning to lend his presence at the ringside as a looker-on, what will he really demand for his services as a boxer? My word!"

PREP BASKETBALL RAPIDLY STARTING

Joe Bean, President of Prep League, Issues Call for the First Meeting of Year.

By Roy E. White.

Joe Bean, president of the Prep league, of Atlanta, has issued a call for a meeting of the league to be held in the Fulton High School building on Whitehall street, tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock.

The Prep league loses no time between football and basketball, so they will get busy tomorrow night for the definite purpose of awarding the football championship of the league to Tech High school for the season of 1919 and also to adopt a basketball scehdule for the ensuing year. A lively meeting is expected, inasmuch as several schools are anticipating something new for the league.

Peacock will again enter the league for basketball, but with a different management and coach. Bill Fincher, who will make his first appearance in the league this season, will lead the charges of Peacock.

Commercial High will have a new man to send into the basketball league. The Red and White team will have Harry Cabral, as its leader.

G. M. A. also presents a new man in the way of basketball. Mr. Tolbert, who coached the football squad, is coming into the league with his cadet five.

Guy A. Moore will lead the charges of Fulton during the coming season.

E. R. Enloe, who led Tech High to a tie for first honor with Boys' High last season, will again coach the Junior Smithies. Mr. Fancher also will help coach Enloe.

O. K. David, of basbetball fame when with Lanier High, will be seen teaching the Boys' High five the basketball game this season.

Joe Bean, coach of the Atlanta Athletic slub, will again coach the Marist college five.

From the above list of coaches for the Prep league, it looks like we are going to see some great basketball games in and around the city this winter.

In seasons past, the coaches of some of the teams were not withh the squads until after the season had started, but this year things look much better to begin with. Within a week practically all the fives will have the first good workouts, and scrimmages will be in order between the varsity and scrubs.

The schedules of several of the schools will include games with out-of-town teams, and Atlanta will have achance to see some real good prep basketball games this winter.

WILDE IS CLASSY, SAY NEWSPAPERS

Boxing Experts Credit Little Englishman With Showing Great Deal of Science in Bout With Sharkey.

Chicago, December 8.—Jimmy Wilde, the British flyweight champion, although outpointed last night by Jack Sharkey, New York bantamweight, is regarded as a remarkable fighter by newspaper boxing experts who saw the Briton's first American appearance in Milwaukee.

The little Welshman's superb blocking, head-slipping, accurate hitting and gameness would be more highly appraised under the English system of scoring points, experts agreed, than by the American ringside men who revel in hard hitting and a rough and smashing style.

Wilde did not box a defensive battle. On the contrary, he did his share of the leading and stood toe to toe and slugged with his heavier opponent. But he did not pack the punch that was expected of him, although his right cross was dangerous until the final bell.

There was no question about Wilde's gameness and the fact that he will take a chance with a heavier opponent suggests that some of the American bantams, harder hitters than Sharkey, may upset the Welshman in future contests in this country.

The receipts of the match were a disappointment. The promoters had figured on $38,000, but that dwindled to about $19,000. Wilde was guaranteed $11,000, win, lose or draw. Sharkey, boxing on a percentage basis, received about $3,000.

Actors' Fund Drive In Atlanta Goes Well Above Quota

Final report on the success of the actors' fund drive is not yet available, as redemption of tickets had not been completed up to a late hour Monday night. It is thought, however, that Atlanta went far over the quota assigned, since over $1,100 was received in checks alone from contributors on Monday morning.

It is thought that at least $6,500 would be realized from the "Midnight Frolic," which was given at the Auditorium-Armory Friday night, with an additional $2,000 from the special matinee performance of "Pollyanna."

The quota for Atlanta was $10,000, and Mr. Keene, assistant of Ed. Schiller, local manager for the Loew interests, stated that Atlanta had done much better than many of the larger cities of the country. The Atlanta quota will include theaters in this section of the country, such as Anniston, Birmingham and Macon.

In addition to the other accounts which are to be cleared up there were one thousand tickets given to stores and societies to be sold. It is thought that a good report would be forthcoming from these sources.

The box office at the Grand theater was open from 9 o'clock Monday morning until 10:30 at night and redeemed a number of tickets for persons who were unable to gain entrance to the "Midnight Frolic."

NO DECISION REACHED ON PRIMARIES IN 1920

According to Judge E. D. Thomas, of the municipal court, chairman of the Fulton county executive committee, the committee has not determined as yet whether there will be two or one primary elections in 1920, one for county officers and the other for state officers. In all probability the committee will meet in January or February and reach a decision on the subject. Two years ago a joint primary was held in September, while four years ago there were two primaries, one for county and the other for state officers.

New York, December 8.—Increasing optimism as to the prospects for an early settlement of the coal strike controversy, relatively firm Liverpool cables and unfavorable weather for the grade of late cotton in the south were considered chiefly responsible for an advance of approximately a cent a pound in the cotton market here today.

Trading was more than moderately active, but Liverpool and domestic trade interests were buyers, while offerings were light, and the best prices of the day were touched in the late trading, when March sold at 35.00 compared with 34.00 at the close on Saturday.

That delivery closed at 34.98, with the general list closing very steady at a net advance of 59 to 103 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 15 to 40 points, in response to the cables, and quickly sold some 65 to 80 points above the closing figures of last week. The census report showing 8,833,712 bales ginned prior to December 1, was a shade under expectations, if anything, but was not considered an important factor, and the early advance was followed by reactions of 15 to 20 points under realizing promoted by the easier ruling of foreign exchange.

Otherwise there was very little pressure, and the market firmed up again with business becoming more active in the late trading, when there was considerable buying by wire houses with southwestern connections. January advanced to 37.60 and May to 32.57, or 100 to 105 points net higher, and the close was within a few points of the best.

December was relatively quiet and irregular owing to further evening up and trading in the later months included covering for over the government's crop estimate due on Thursday.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK.

New York, December 8.—Spot cotton steady; middling 39.85.

NEW ORLEANS TREND DECIDEDLY HIGHER

New Orleans, December 8.—The trend in cotton was decidedly higher today from the opening practically to the close. Heavy buying for both accounts was caused by rumors of the sudden ending of the coal strike and by the smaller ginning returns than expected from the census bureau.

Around the opening there was a rise of about three dollars a bale and the improvement was constantly widened until late in the day the trading months were 102 to 113 points over the last prices of last week.

Closing prices were at net gains of 90 to 106 points. December touched the new high record of 39.80, but without being very active or sharing to the full the rise in other months. The spot month seems to be fairly well liquidated.

The census bureau report on ginning of 8,833,712 bales to the first of December, compared with general expectations of about 9,000,000 bales. Not only did the ginning figures in themselves cause buying, but they stimulated the demand because they were accepted as a pointer to a smaller crop than the trade was inclined to look for last week.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, December 8.—(Special.)—Washington advices indicating a possible early settlement of the coal strike situation caused a better feeling in the local trade, with continued demand for the near positions. The ginning figures were about in line with expectation and, therefore, did not influence the market. Unless the coal strike is adjusted immediately we fear that many New England mills will be forced to close down pending settlement of this unfortunate condition.

J. W. JAY & CO.

New York, December 8.—(Special.)—The ginning report will just 165,000 bales short of expectations and proved the signal for the bears to seek shelter. The trade has now settled to the conviction that the final outturn of this crop will show less than 10,500,000 bales and are also convinced that when July comes spots will surely bring as much as they are bringing today, and the July option is only 31 cents.

CLARK & CO.

New York, December 8.—(Special.)—Much stronger Liverpool cables than due and the census report of 8,833,712 bales ginned to October 1, together with trade buying, advanced cotton here today about 1 cent per pound from Saturday's closing prices. Local sentiment in the fore part of the day was adverse to advances. The ring crowd sold short to a moderate extent. Bearish sentiment wavered somewhat. On the other hand, there are many who expect the government crop estimate on Thursday at 2 o'clock to show around 11,000,000 bales, and if this expectation is realized, it is thought that present prices will shortly appear high.

ORVIS BROS. & CO.

NEW ORLEANS LETTER.

New Orleans, December 8.—(Special.)—Cotton rose strongly today on the sudden ending of the coal strike and the bullish showing of the census bureau figures on ginning to December 1, the total output to that date being 8,833,712 bales against 9,571,414 to the same time last year, 9,713,529 two years ago, and general expectations of 9,000,000 bales. Much short covering ensued as well as a buying movement among bullish traders, who were convinced that the report meant a bullish crop estimate from the department of agriculture at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

LIST UNSETTLED; TREND UPWARD

Stock Market Monday on the Whole Was Dull and Uncertain — Boud Dealing Was Mixed.

New York, December 8.—Although many important factors influencing the stock market remained unsettled over the week-end, prices were disposed to move forward during the greater part of today's dull and uncertain session.

Sentiment as reflected by market letters was more hopeful respecting the Mexican situation and the coal strike. The increasing seriousness of the fuel shortage was manifested, however, in further reduction or complete suspension of operations at various centers of industry.

Failure of the United States supreme court to hand down decisions in the much discussed stock dividend and prohibition cases now before that tribunal occasioned some disappointment, but did not extend beyond a few issues.

Another slump in foreign exchange, with sterling, francs and lires at greatest discounts ever known, was neutralized in part by the 6 per cent rate for call loans. In the last fifteen minutes of the session, however, call money rose to 8 per cent, 10 per cent being quoted at the close.

Reactions of 1 to 3 points accompanied the money flurry, the tone changing from firmness to irregularity in the final dealings. Steels, equipments, motors and shippings led the moderate reaction.

Two groups of stocks, sugars and metals, and especially the former, delied material benefits from trade conditions. Active sugar shares were 1 to 5 points up at their best and coppers rallied from their recent depression with an advance of ½ to 1 cent per pound for refined metals.

Movements elsewhere were chiefly due to the operations of pools or the caprices of the short interest, rails yielding moderately to pressure of professional origin.

Liberty, Victory and forein bonds were mixed as to trend, but local utilities and several of the convertible railroad bonds were firm to strong. Total sales, par value, aggregated $25,875,000. Old United States bonds were unchanged on call.

New York, December 8.—The local market for raw sugar continued strong and prices were higher. There were sales of 10,000 bags of Cubas for first half February shipment at 8⅝c f.o.b. GRAINS FOLLOW HOGS DOWNWARD

Bullish Coal Strike Prospects Ignored on Demoralization in Live Stocks. Corn, Oats and Provisions Weaken.

Chicago, December 8.—Notwithstanding bullish sentiment due to prospective settlement of the coal strike, corn weakened in price today. Demoralization of the hog market was chiefly responsible.

Corn closed heavy at 1¼c net lower to ⅛c advance, with January $1.35 to $1.35⅛, and May $1.32⅞ to $1.33. Oats finished ⅞c down to ⅛c gain, and provisions unchanged to 60c decline.

Corn at first had a decided upward tendancy, most traders assuming that the railroads would utilize for fuel supply purposes all available rolling stock and motive power and would thus curtail the movement of grain. It was also expected that food manufacturing industries, which owing to the coal strike have been out of the corn market, would soon become active buyers again.

During the last hour of the session, however, all other factors were eclipsed by severe breaks in the value of hogs. As a consequence selling of corn was general and last prices were about the lowest of the day. Arrivals of hogs here today far exceeded the usual number, and promised to reach a still greater total tomorrow.

Assertions that foreigners were reselling at the seaboard had a depressing effect on oats.

Provisions sympathized with the collapse of the long market, and with the new low record of British exchange.

Call Money Takes Jump On Less Active Market

BY R. L. BARNUM

(The Constitution-Philadelphia Public Ledger Service. Copyright, 1919.)

New York, December 8.—Today's stock market was less active, but strong on the prospects of an early settlement of the coal strike. Traders who bought stocks today pointed out today that last week, in the face of one unfavorable news development after another, prices show an unmistakable tendency to creep upwards. On any favorable news development, it was argued, there should be a decided recovery. Call money, however, which dropped to 5 per cent last week, jumped to 10 per cent in the last hour today, and there was some profit-taking in the stock market.

Around noon there was a crowd at every news ticker in Wall street awaiting a flash from Washington that the supreme court had handed down a decision on the war-time prohibition act. Traders were ready to jump into food products if a favorable decision had been handed down. Around 12:30 it was announced that there would be no decision and the crowd around the news tickers quietly dispersed.

Food Products, which closed at 79¼ Saturday, opened at 80 and sold up to 81. By 1 o'clock the price was down to 77. Industrial Alcohol in the meantime jumped from around 105 to 109. According to official statement, the Food Products company has 27,000,000 gallons of whisky which is being carried on the books at cost. This could have been sold at an enormous profit, Wall street believed, if war-time prohibition had been removed. The Industrial Alcohol company is only making alcohol for industrial purposes.

Copper Shares Strong.

Copper shares were strong on today's announcement that the price of copper in small lots had advanced from last week's low price of 18 cents to 19. Large lots were still being quoted today at 18½. However, the mere fact that the bottom had been reached in copper prices was considered highly encouraging. Beyond question, there is a very large short interest outstanding in the copper shares.

Wall street is expecting the stock market to continue a traders' affair to the end of the year. In the old days a "Christmas rise" in prices occurred almost every year. But since the war-time income tax was imposed, end-of-the-year selling to establish losses has acted as a damper. However, the general feeling in Wall street is that most of this selling for this year has been done.

Wall Street Gossip.

Last week's turnover on the stock exchange—the smallest since the upward movement in prices was resumed at the end of September. Last week, which was made up of five and a half days, the turn-over was 5,421,500 shares, or at a daily average of 903,583 shares. During this period the most active trading occurred during the week ending October 25, when the turnover was 10,158,400 shares, with a daily average of 1,693,066 shares. That was the week when the high prices were touched and when the decline first started. The worst liquidation occurred during the week ending November 15. With one day a holiday that week was 10,052,800 shares, with the daily average 1,675,466.

But despite the recent falling off in the volume of business handled, the daily average last week of 903,583 shares compared with only 393,833 for the corresponding period of last year.

Railway Equipment Shares Strong.

All of the railway equipment shares were strong today on the news that the American Locomotive company had taken orders from Japan, China and Brazil, and that there were a number of inquiries in the market from foreign countries for both locomotives and cars. Our own railroads are expected to be large buyers of equipment as soon as the railway situation becomes cleared up,

The bond market was active today, with prices holding strong. Few changes of any importance were reported in either the Liberty or Victory issues. One block of $1,000,000 Victory 3¾s changed hands at an advance of .02 of a point. All of the local traction bonds, stocks and notes continued to show improvement. A new low record was made for the Russian external 5½s at 28½. Other foreign bonds held steady.

Sterling Exchange Drops.

Sterling exchange and several other exchanges went to new low records today, sterling touching $3.84½ on the New York market. This was regarded as rather significant, in view of the return last Saturday of J. P. Morgan from Europe. It had been hoped that Mr. Morgan might arrive at some understanding with English bankers while in England as to means of stabilizing the exchange, but his brief interview on his return gave no indication of such a result. Instead, Mr. Morgan himself asked what could be done as long as peace had not been definitely established. His reference to the peace treaty helped to convince some people who had held that the senate's failure to ratify has but little effect on the sterling rate.

Last week's reduction of $132,000,000 in loans granted by the financial community by surprise, in view of the fact that the treasury last week sold $400,000,000 of certificates of indebtedness and an equal amount of "tax certificates." The reduction was heaviest at New York, Boston and Cleveland. Wall street would be more encouraged over such a showing if the weekly statements did not report a continual loss of gold. Since the beginning of June, when the embargo was taken off of gold exports, the banks have actually lost $114,600,000, despite the fact that $157,000,000 was received from Germany since that date, in payment for food.

Wall street banks are still refusing to lend time money in any considerable quantities, and bidders are still bidding from 7½ to 8 or more for 60 and 90-day accommodation. This week's income tax payments are now the feature in the money market.

Southern Pacific Weak.

Southern Pacific, during the early part of the day, was weak, while Union Pacific was firm. This movement caused several stock traders to find the source of the selling, and it was reported from the floor of the exchange that the stock was being sold under cover of strength in Union. No special reason could be found for this selling, other than that it is profit-taking by these people, who had bought the stock at the low level prevailing shortly after the unfavorable decision was handed down by the supreme court. Last week's announcement that the attorney general will drop all litigation against the company in the California lands case caused a sensational advance in the stock. This naturally invited profit-taking, which was going on on a large scale today.

Further sharp advances were recorded in the Rubber Tire stocks today. The entire group was strong, but two issues stood out from the rest. They were United States Rubber and Lee Rubber and Tire. The advance in the former is in connection with the report that the directors early in 1920 will declare an extra dividend of 10 or 15 per cent on the common stock. Some time ago the directors stated that as soon as the results of 1919 earnings were known, an extra dividend would be declared. The amount, however, is Wall street's prediction. Lee Rubber Tire is also slated for a dividend early in 1920, according to Wall street rumors. The earnings of this company are reported to be at a record. Thus far the company has not paid a dividend. Only recently Lee sold new stock to its shareholders at $33 per share. This money is to be used for expansion purposes, and as soon as the plants are in full running order large dividends are looked for.

London Stock Market.

(The Constitution—London Times—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1919.)

London, December 8.—The most satisfactory feature in the stock markets was a recovery in the war loan, the market in gilt-edged securities having a brighter appearance owing to the more favorable foreign trade figures disclosed in the board of trade returns for last month. Buying orders from New York caused a further advance in some of the Japanese bonds.

On the other side of the account had to be set the flatness of practically all securities in which continental operators are interested, Paris being a persistent seller, owing to the weakness of exchange. The speculative markets were dull and the amount of business passing was below the average, the slackness of the markets being attributed to the unsatisfactory position of foreign exchanges, and the country fed with a glut of new issues.

There was again a very small demand for short loans and quite early in the day new money was offered at 2 per cent, unemployed balances being placed at 1½ per cent. Weekly fixtures went on at 4½ per cent, with 4¼ for new money and for advances up to the end of the year. The tendency of the discount market was a little more confident; though the banks were not buying bills in some quarters, a fair volume of business was reported.

The feature among foreign exinchges was a further sharp fall in the value of the franc, Paris exchange rising to a new high level of 43 f. 30 c. and the rate closed at 42 f. 77½ c. There was slight recovery in New York to $3.95¼ at the close. German marks fell to 190½ to the pound.

Metals.

New York, December 8.—Copper, steady; electrolytic, spot and nearby, 18½@18¾; first quarter, 18½@19.

Iron, nominal; antimony, 9.50. Metal exchange quotes lead firm; spot and January, 6.85 bid; zinc firm; East St. Louis delivery, spot, 8.30 bid, 8.40 asked.

EARLY CLOSING NOW UNNECESSARY

and other communities that use this company's electric current are removed by the regional coal committee, according to the announcement made Monday night.

Regulations Not Lessened.

This, declare members of the committee, must not be interpreted to mean that regulations and restrictions are lessened by any means. It is only during the hours that the power plant operates without the necessity of coal or other fuel that lights and power may be used without restriction.

It was further pointed out that, although industries and places of business will be able to operate on longer hours, if served by utility plants under the ruling, they will not be allowed to use fuel for heating, gas or wood, except during the hours provided for in the original restricting order.

As regards Atlanta and other communities served by the Georgia Railway and Power company, this will have no effect on the existent opening hours, but will lengthen the hours that an industry or a place of business may remain open or in operation.

Thus, a department store, for instance, will not be allowed to use heat by fuel or electric power and lighting between 5 o'clock and 7 o'clock in the morning, any more than would have formerly been permissible, for at 5 o'clock the power plant again starts producing its current by steam, and is subject to the same stringent regulations.

Open Hours Extended.

After 4 o'clock in the afternoon, however, open hours may be extended as far as customers of the power company desire, until the hour of 5 o'clock in the morning.

The following statement is from the letter of the regional coal committee to the Georgia Railway and Power company, in appraisal of the new ruling:

"Please be very careful in sending out this information to emphasize the fact that full curtailment rules governing the use of electricity for light and power are still on for your territory, and for your customers, during the period between 7 a. m. and 4 p. m. of each day. Please also emphasize the fact that the rules covering the use of heat have not been modified in any way."

With reference to the towns of Dalton, Rome and Calhoun, the committee ruled that the restrictions on them in regard to electricity for light and power would be discontinued, since they were using power purchased by the Georgia Railway and Power company from the Tennessee Power company, which concern is now generating all its electrical energy by water power. This applies, of course, only to light and power electrically produced and will hold good, said the committee, until the Tennessee Power company again finds it necessary to use fuel in the production of its current.

No Fuel Is Used.

Two companies in the region of the Central Georgia Power company and the Alabama Power company, have cut off their connection with steam plants entirely, and for some time, at least, will supply consumers exclusively with hydro-electric current. Communities using the current of these companels are exempted from regulations in so far as the use of currrent is concerned.

The South Carolina Light, Power and Railways company has found that it can operate without fuel between the hours of 4 p. m. and 7 a. m. daily and will be free from restrictions in the dispensation of its current during those hours.

Manufacturing plants using power from the plants governed by the ruling may operate as they see fit, except during the hours between the time the company in question again begins the use of coal and the time the original restricting schedule allows them to begin operation.

Order of Committee.

The complete statement of the committee follows:

"To the Public: Heavy rains since Saturday in Georgia, South Carolina and Alabama have sent the water over the dams of several of the largest utility companies depending partially upon water power and partially upon steam for their current and enabled these companies to cut off their steam auxiliaries or to make a substantial reduction in their coal consumption.

"Two of these companies, the Central Georgia Power company and the Alabama Power company, have cut off their connection with steam plants entirely and for some time to come at least will supply consumers exclusively with hydro-electric current, which is subject to none of the fuel conservation restrictions. Communities served by these companies, effective at once, are exempt from the conservation regulations in so far as the use of such current is concerned.

"The South Carolina Light, Power and Railways company and the Georgia Railway and Power company have arranged to operate exclusively on hydro-eelctric current during certain hours of the day and night, and during such hours the restrictions do not apply to the current supplied by these companies.

Many Cities Supplied.

"The Central Georgia Power company, whose current now is exempted entirely, supplies Macon, Ga.; Forsyth, Ga.; Barnesville, Ga.; Thomaston, Ga.; Jackson, Ga.; Griffin, Ga.; Hampton, Ga.; Jonesboro, Ga., and Monticello, Ga.

"The Georgia Railway and Power company will shut off its steam plant at 3:55 p. m. each day until 5 a. m. the next day. Thus the lights and power of this company may be used without restriction between the hours named, and this means that in the communities affected merchants and others may be open in the afternoons and evenings without restriction except in so far as regulations forbid or regulate the use of coal, gas or wood. Communities supplied by the Georgia Railway and Power company are as follows:

"Atlanta, Hapeville, Tallulah Falls, Stone Mountain, Clarkston, Gainesville, Duluth, Whitesburg, East Lake, Bolton, Smyrna, Marietta, East Point, Carrollton, Decatur, Kirkwood, Ingleside, Fairburn, Porterdale, Acworth, Kennesaw, Hoschton, Chamblee, Cedartown, Cartersville, College Park, Sargent, Braselton, Norcross, Buford, Winder, Lawrenceville, Covington, Social Circle, Mansfield, Monroe.

"In addition to the above-named communities, the Georgia Railway and Power company has been in part supplying current for Rome, Dalton and Calhoun, Ga. This connection now has been cut, and the three communites named are supplied exclusively by the Tennessee Power company with hydro-electric current, to which current no regulations apply.

Cut Off Coal Consumption.

"The South Carolina Light, Power and Railways company has arranged to cut off its coal consumption entirely from 4 p. m. to 7 a. m. daily, and between those hours the current of this company is exempt. The communities served by the South Carolina Light, Power and Railways company are as follows:

"Spartanburg, S. C.; Glendale, S. C.; Inman, Sa C.; Woodruff, S. C.; Blacksburg, S. C.; Pacolet, S. C.; Cowpens, S. C.; Gaffney, S. C.

"Birmingham and all other communities (except Decatur, Huntsville, Guntersville, Marion and Selma, Ala.,) served by the Alabama Power company are exempt from the restrictions in so far as the use of current of that company is concerned. At Decatur, Huntsville, Guntersville, Marion and Selma steam plants are still in operation.

"Attention is called to the fact that the exemption of hydro-electric current from the conservation regulations in no way affects the restrictions upon the use of any light, heat or power produced by the consumption of coal, gas or wood (other than locally cut).

"REGIONAL COAL COMMITTEE.

BOY FROM COUNTRY WANTED TO SLEEP ON BUILDING ROOF

After having been arrested while winding his way up to an aerial roost on top of the Arcade building late Sunday night, Jack Finley, a seventeen-yer-old country boy, was tried in recorder's court Monday morning.

Finley stated that he had often thought of sleeping away up on top of one of Atlanta's tall buildings while picking cotton on his father's farm ner Cumming, Ga., and that he came to Atlanta to have that experience. He also stated that he slept on the roof of the Arcade building Saturday night and that he liked it so well he thought that he would return Sunday night and sleep there again, regardless of the downpour of rain.

The boy was arrested by Night Chief Jett while trying to get to the roof through rooms occupied by the Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. J. V. Parmales, of the Y. W. C. A., who appered as a witness against the youth, stated that she thought he had been misguided by other companions and that he should be allowed to return to his parents.

Judge Johnson was in favor of starting a back-to-the-farm movement and relesed the boy on a promise that he would return to the cotton fields and his parents.

Fire Causes Excitement.

A barrel of oil afire in the rear of the building of 220 Peachtree street, occupied by the Tegder Motor company, was the cause of considerable excitement last night about 10:15 o'clock. Downtown fire engines went to the scene, and the blaze was quickly extinguished.

Seed Peanuts Scarce In Alabama Markets

Seed peanuts are very scarce in our neighboring state, according to special advice from the Alabama field agent to the co-operative crop reporting service for Georgia, a union agency formed by the Georgia department of agriculture, J. J. Brown, commissioner, and the United States bureau of crop estimates, Z. R. Pettet, field agent.

A very considerable amount of cotton remained in the field in the northern Alabama counties, especially in the Tennessee valley. Some corn remained to be gathered, peanuts were not all picked, syrup making was not completed and the picking of velvet beans was only partially accomplished.

Reports indicate that an unusually small proportion of the velvet bean acreage will be gathered for beans and that the yield will be less than a half-ton per acre.

Only enough soy beans will be picked for seeding purposes another year, and, in fact, the amount picked will not seed more than the acreage grown this season.

Cowpeas have not been extensively picked and the yield was disappointing.

A larger crop of sugar cane syrup was made than usual, but the amount of sorghum syrup made was much less than heretofore.

A careful revision of acreage estimates indicate that the volume of production will have to be revised in most crops except cotton.

Information at hand points to a serious situation regarding seed peanuts for another crop. Spanish peanuts were harvested unusually early in an attempt to preserve the grades against rain damage. Very small yields of most excellent grades resulted and also the acreage gathered was cut down to much below the proportion of the past two seasons. As a consequence of the small supply, the excellent grades and the heavy demand for confectionery use prices soared to new high levels. This has induced the producers to sell a very large proportion of the harvested crop. It is feared that already an insufficient amount remains for seeding the next crop and that farmers will be forced to either pay back a high price for seed or forego the planting of what promises to be a profitable acreage another year.

Spanish peanuts for seed purposes have been shipped to the Carolinas and sold for $210 per ton. A larger proportion of the Runner type of nuts has been harvested than usual and these seed will probably be sufficiently available. The superiority of the Alabama and Georgia nuts of Spanish varieties has been acknowledged by the trade and the demand will probably be good for another season. About 8 per cent of last season's crop of peanuts was used for seeding purposes. With the smaller production of this year it is believed that at least 12 per cent of the crop will be needed next season if a sufficient acreage is planted to supply the demand. Something of the same situation exists regarding cotton seed.

Weather Monday Great for Ducks; Hard on Humans

Umbrellas and Raincoats Much in Demand—Five Inches Falls Between Saturday Afternoon and Monday Morning.

By Rose King.

Yesterday was a fine day for geese and ducks, but a hard one on humans.

"Another rainy day," sighed mother as she dolled Mary up in her raincoat, umbrella and rubbers, and watched her puddle off to school.

"Another rainy day," father sighed as he carefuly turned up the legs to his trousers half an inch more, and sailed out of the house minus overshoes and raincoat, despite the warning of his wife, whose last words consisted of warnings as to the early death he would meet.

Atlanta people got up Monday morning to find it raining. They watched it rain steadily and faster until shortly before noon when it stopped, and acted as if it thought of clearing off. Just as the young housewife had made up her mind that she would go out to do a little marketing—and incidentally, shopping—and go out safely, which is to say, becomingly, without being decorated with raincoat, umbrella and other paraphernalia, it started out to pour again. There she was, caught downtown, in all that afternoon downpour. For the most part, everyone but herself had rainy-day togs on. Of course the men, and the girls who worked, had to go out in the rain in the morning, and so they were prepared, but how did she know that it was up and going to rain again?

Tight skirts and mud puddles don't go very well together. It was fun to watch the fair ones as they tried to cross the street. Some of them were on the lookout for streams of water on the crossings, and so they started back the proper distance, held up their skirts, and executed a running-broad-jump which would have done credit to any contestant in a sack race.

And Then a Splash.

Others did not see the water until they were upon it. It was too late to make a good jump, and too late to hold up their skirts very high, and so they landed in the middle of the puddle.

Some business men walked nonchalantly along, splashing about as if they never even felt the water they were plunging into. Perhaps they did not, but the women within a dozen feet of them felt it, as it splashed on their ankles and spotted their skirts. Some very fierce faces were made by very gentle-looking women.

Then there was the sidewalk hog—both male and female. These were the people who insisted on walking under the awnings, even when they were on their left, and who forced the others to veer out of their way into the shelterless part of the walk, so that they themselves might be dry. Another species of sidewalk hog was the one who took the high and dry part of the walk when it belonged to those going in the opposite direction.

Getting on Street Cars.

Very amusing was it to watch passengers load on to street cars. These passengers were of two kinds, those who had umbrellas, and those who did not. As soon as a street car came the umbrella ones would pile on, one behind the other, holding up their umbrellas until they were entirely on the platform. The ones without shelter stood behind until the others chose to close their umbrellas, and caught the drippin from the umbrellas of the more lucky ones. Besides this, the rain poured down on them steadily.

However, in spite of the hurry and bustle down town, and the general sloppiness, there was genuine pleasure felt by those who like rain, and who were dressed for it. Some men and women walked along as if they really liked it. Women at home spent the day doing things they had been putting off for months. Favorite books were re-read again.

Small boys played out in the gutters, barefooted, with diminutive trousers rolled up above brown knees. Old tubs were utilized as boats for the children, and small sailboats of paper gaily sailed along the mock rivers. Dogs entered into the fun, played in the water, and received a baptism and a bath in one. Chickens sought refuge on their roosts and nursed their injured feelings and their wet fethers. Canary birds sang more valiantly than ever, perhaps to add their mite to the cheer of the day, and perhaps because they really enjoyed it.

More Rain Today.

A continuance of the rainy weather, which made its debut Saturday night and has continued through Sunday and Monday, is expected by the local weather man, Von Hermann. The weather expert predicts slightly colder weather, though, for Tuesday.

Monday the thermometer started an upward movement and registered 60 degrees, which is warm weather for this season of the year, but the weather man promises a fall in temperature today.

Due to the heavy rainfall Saturday night and Sunday residents of three sections of town were without car service Monday morning, due to washouts. No cars were able to get past the corner of Lucile avenue and Ashby street from late Sunday night until about 10 o'clock Monday morning, while a South Decatur car broke an axle at the East Lake junction early Monday morning, halting service on these two lines for some time.

A total of five inches of rain fell in Atlanta from Saturday afternoon at 6 o'clock until Monday morning at 7 o'clock. This is, however, not a record rainfall.

Forecaster Von Hermann did not predict just how cold it would get today.

Atlanta Tuesday Honors Creator Of 'Uncle Remus'

School Children Today Will Recall Br'er Rabbit and Br'er Wolf—Tribute Paid Joel Chandler Harris by Luther Rosser.

By Paul Warwick.

"Tankee—Brer Wolf—a tousand tankee—for bring me home. De brier-bush de berry place where I been born!"

You know who said it—shrewd Brer Rabbit—and you know that beloved soul that made Brer Rabbit say it—Uncle Remus, our own beloved Joel Chandler Harris, who was born seventy-one years ago today, in Eatonton.

Atlanta joins hands and hearts, invisibly and silently, today in the celebration of the birthday anniversary of the good man who made thousands of old hearts younger, and thousands of young hearts happier with the jolly tales and the happy verse that were so immutably and delightfully his, beyond and above imitation.

The schools of Atlanta will all observe the day, for though Uncle Remus died in 1908, in the "Wren's Nest" that will always be a spot to make the passers-by smile a reminiscent smile and feel a quicker beating heart—his memory still lives.

Monday, at the regular meeting of the Atlanta Woman's club, touching ceremonies in memory of the whimsical philosopher were conducted. The speaker of the occasion was Luther Z. Rosser, a lifelong friend and neighbor of Uncle Remus.

Mr. Rosser's talk was a simple and impressive eulogy of the man for the man he was. His genuineness, his total lack of affectation, and his admiration for all that was wholesome and unpretending were the points that were stressed by the speaker.

Delightful music for the program was furnished by the pupils of the Morgan-Stephens school of music. The violin soloists were Miss Ruth Dabney Smith and Miss Mischa Prager, and others who assisted in the musical numbers were Mrs. Paul Rollins, Mrs. Patterson, Paul V. McCash, Spencer McGaughey and Aileen Stephens.

Mrs. Sam D. Jones, of the Uncle Remus Memorial association, presided at the part of the meeting devoted to the memory of Uncle Remus, and is due much credit for the attractive program that was rendered.

"Sterilized Egg" Cause of Debate Between Officials

"Not Any Better Than Any Other Storage Eggs," Says Dr. J. P. Kennedy—"It's Practically Fresh Product," Rules Manget.

The subject, "Are there sterilized eggs?"

The debaters: John Manget, chairman of the Fulton county fair price committee, affirmative; Dr. J. P. Kennedy, city health officer, negative.

The Judges: The hungry public.

The argument started when a carload of eggs came down from Chicago labeled "Sterilized," and retail dealers of Atlanta asked Mr. Manget to set a price on the new discovery. Mr. Manget was shown invoice books where the Chicago packers had forced the local merchants to pay a fancier figure than was asked for the cold storage product. Chairman Manget decided 75 cents a dozen was a fair price for the latest eggs, and so they have been selling on the city markets.

Mr. Manget stated the "sterilized" egg was a fresh egg dipped in hot oil last spring. He stated the preparation into which the egg was dipped served to close the air holes in the shell, which resulted in the egg losing little of its freshness through the passage of time. Consequently he felt justified in permitting the merchants to receive a better figure than they get for the storage article.

Dr. Kennedy, for the negative:

"There is no such thing as a 'sterilized' egg. I have made a complete investigation of the products sent from Chicago, and they are simply nothing but storage eggs marked "sterlie' for the sake of the fifteen extra pennies they bring per dozen. I wouldn't pay a nickel extra for every one in the world. They're just like any other storage egg for that matter, when it comes to the question of health. They're all right, so is any other storage egg. But it's not all right to pay an extra 15 cents a dozen for them."

Anyway, the Fulton county fair price committee meets at the chamber of commerce at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, and the matter will be threshed out.

Chairman Manget is very anxious for a full attendance of his committee at the meeting this morning. The question of setting a price on dry goods will be discussed by Beaumont Davison, who returned a few days ago from Washington, where he had been in conference with members of the National Retail Clothiers' association, when the matter was discussed from their standpoint.

Shoes and men's wearing apparel will be discussed by Morris Eiseman and W. W. Orr.

MONEY TO LOAN

Credit

67 PER CENT of the business of this country is transacted on credit, leaving only 3 per cent represented by cash. You can, therefore, see the importance of keeping your credit good. Sometimes a little available cash will square up several pressing obligations that, if left standing, would impair your credit.

Save Your Credit

Call at our office and get enough to pay off those annoying bills and have just one place to pay back instead of a dozen.

Gentlemen:
Knowing that you would be interested in the results I have had in feeding Full-of-Pep Feeds, which I have used exclusively this year, I am glad to tell you of same.
In raising my pullets I used Full-of-Pep Growing Mash for four months, after which I placed them on the Laying Mash, and practically 90 per cent of my pullets were laying before they were five and one-half months old, which is truly a remarkable record.
During the month of November my hens averaged about sixty-six and two-thirds per cent eggs. I now have on hand about 125 hens, from which I am getting daily from seven to eight dozen eggs.
All of my stock is pedigreed, but I attribute the splendid result of my getting so many eggs at this time of the year largely to your Full-of-Pep Mash.
Wishing you continued success with these feeds, I am,
Yours very truly,
(Signed) H. N. COOLEDGE.

CLEANERS AND DYERS IN CONVENTION TODAY

Many National Figures in Industry Will Be Here for Meeting.

Cleaners and dyers from all parts of the United States, members of the National Association of Dyers and Cleaners, begin a two-day convention session in Atlanta today with their morning session at the Piedmont hotel.

Many important national figures in this industry will be in Atlanta for the session, and an important feature will be the organization of a southeastern division of the dyers and cleaners for affiliation with the national association.

W. J. Stoddard, prominent Atlanta member of the dyeing and cleaning industry, is a member of the legislative committee of the national association, and will be a prominent figure in its transactions.

Prominent Visitors.

Others prominent nationally who will attend the convention are Dr. H. E. Mechling, of Louisville, Ky., the national president of the organization; John L. Corley, secretary of the national association, and business manager of the inter-insurance exchange of dyers and cleaners of the country; George Caskey, chairman of the technical research committee, of Columbus, Ohio; Thomas P. Endicott, vice president of the national organization, of Atlantic City, N. J.; A. Scharf, of Memphis, Tenn., a member of the national legislative committee.

Dr. Mechling, the president, was in charge for the government of reclamation and cleaning work during the war. His headquarters were in Washington, and he had general charge of all this work in the military camps of the country.

Purposes of Convention.

The purposes of the convention, as related Monday by Mr. Stoddard, are:

1. Assistance in the conservation of coal.
2. Improvement of labor conditions.
3. Conservation of cotton and wool by cleaning and dyeing, thereby increasing the supply of those commodities.
4. Improvements in cleaning and dyeing as to quantity and quality.
5. The placing of all plants on a sanitary basis, as recommended by the United States government and the National Association of Cleaners and Dyers.
6. The advocation of laws governing construction and maintenance of dyeing and cleaning establishments.
7. Advocation of the cleaning of school children's clothing so as to minimize the dangers of contagion and infection and the consequent spread of such diseases as mumps, measles, etc.

The convention will have morning and afternoon sessions on both Tuesday and Wednesday, but it has not yet been decided whether or not they will convene in night sessions.

AIRMAN CHAMBERLAIN DECLARED TO BE GUILTY

Washington, December 8.—Sentence of dismissal, imposed by a naval court-martial on Captain Edmund George Chamberlain, an aviator in the marine corps, on charges growing out of his sensational claims of having defeated a vastly superior force of German airships on the western front, was approved today by Secretary Daniels.

Chamberlain is a native of San Antonio, Texas. His case became one of unusual interest to the service and officials of the navy department and of the marine corps were sent overseas to investigate every point involved.

Chamberlain claimed that on July 28, 1918, on a trip over the British front, he had combatted twelve German planes, destroyed five of them, damaged two others, and, sweeping earthward with a damaged machine, scattered a detachment of German soldiers. He said that after landing he took a German prisoner by pretending that a compass was a bomb, and then carried a wounded French officer back to safety.

Denial of the exploit by British officers led to an investigation. Chamberlain contended that the failure of the British fliers to corroborate his story was because the admission that an American officer had used a British machine would have resulted in their court-martial. Witnesses in Chamberlain's behalf testified that he had landed in a British plane on the date mentioned in his official report.

Chamberlain's case now goes to President Wilson for final decision.

After the court-martial trial at London, Chamberlain was returned to this country and pending review of the case remained in arrest, being confined to the District of Columbia.

The case attracted widespread attention due to the publicity which Chamberlain's story received and his recommendation for both the congressional medal of honor and the Victoria cross of England. The marine aviator is a gradute of Princeton and the University of Texas.

NATIONAL BANKS WIN IN U. S. HIGH COURT

Allowed to Take Interest on Discounts at 8 Per Cent in Georgia.

Washington, December 8.—The supreme court in an opinion today upheld the right of national banks in Georgia to take interest on discounts at 8 per cent, the maximum allowed by the state law.

In deciding the case Justice McReynolds said the court thought "congress intended to endow national banks with the power, which banks generally exercise, of discounting notes, reserving charges at the highest rate permitted for interest."

He added "to carry out this purpose the national bank act provides that associations organized under it may reserve on authority discount interest at the rate allowed by the state."

The opinion, with which Justices Pitney, Brandeis and Clark dissented, was rendered in appeals involving the National bank of Savannah.

When shown the above Associated Press dispatch, James S. Floyd, vice president of the Atlanta, National bank, said:

"It is a very just ruling and bears out the policy Georgia bankers have been following. It means quite a bit to us, and I am glad to see that the supreme court has cleared the matter up."

Explaining how the ruling would affect the national banks of Georgia, Mr. Floyd stated:

"For instance, when a man enters a bank and borrows a thousand dollars, he gets this amount, minus the interest, which is deducted when the money is paid over to him. In Georgia this means 7 per cent, legal rate, and 8 per cent contract. In this manner the banks have the use of the interest in making other loans.

"This practice has been followed in Georgia banks, state and national for many years, in note discounting and other phases of the banking business, and I, for one, am glad that the matter has been finally settled by the supreme court."

David J. Meyerhardt Assumes Duties Here In Federal Building

David J. Meyerhardt, young Rome attorney, who was recently appointed assistant United States district attorney, has arrived in Atlanta to assume the duties of his office.

Mr. Meyerhardt was admitted to the bar in Rome a few years ago. He enlisted in the army in the summer of 1918 and saw overseas service, returning to the United States in July of this year. Since that time he has practiced law with his father, Judge Max Meyerhardt, and was building up a fine practice when, without solicitation, he was offered the position of assistant to the United States district attorney.

Mr. Meyerhardt has many friends throughout the state who predict for him a brilliant future in his chosen profession.

CLASS IN CREDITS FOR GEORGIA TECH EVENING SCHOOL

Plans are being formulated for the organization of a class in credits as part of the curriculum of the Georgia Tech evening school of commerce in the Arcade building. The class was suggested by J. T. Bryan, who is chairman of the education committee of the Credit Men's association.

Professor J. M. Watters, dean of the school, thought very favorably of the suggestion and at once started plans by which the class can begin its work with the opening of the second term, which will be on February 2, 1920.

"Practically all the business firms in Atlanta are doing from 50 to 100 per cent more business than ever before," said Mr. Bryan in a recent lecture at the school. "People are not only buying more goods, but they are demanding a higher quality than during previous years. This is a reflection of the prosperity of the south during the past few years.

"The country merchants are being educated to submit certified financial statements to the wholesalers and jobbers. This is enabling them to secure credit more easily and at the same time reduce the credit losses of the jobber to a minimum."

DUEL WAGED IN STORE; HOLD-UP MAN FLEES

An unknown negro entered the grocery store of W. Levine, located at the corner of Grant and Hunter streets Monday night about 6 o'clock, and after making a few purchases made an effort to hold up the proprietor.

Levine reached for his gun, which frightened the negro, and after firing once he fled. Painful flesh burns were received by Levine, but the bullet missed him. Several shots were fired at the negro as he fled up the street, but none took effect.

Negro Shot to Death.

Warren Murven, a negro about 30 years of age, was shot and killed Monday night in a pressing club located on Howell street. Officers Davis and McDaniel answered the call, and the negro was dead when they arrived on the scene. A search is being conducted for Mike Jefferson, colored, who is the proprietor of the pressing club. It is said by friends of Murven that he and Jefferson had a recent quarrel over a woman, which might have led to the killing.

The ceremony took place at 6 o'clock in the Capitol Avenue Baptist church, with Rev. Mr. Major, pastor of the church, officiating. Scores of friends of the couple were present. The bride is an Atlanta girl, and the groom is formerly a Chicago man.

HELP IN FINDING YOUNG NEWSBOY ASKED BY MOTHER

After walking the streets through the rain all day yesterday, Mrs. M. E. Scott, 174 West Alexander street, came to The Constitution office last night to ask help in her attempt to find her 13-year-old son, Ernest Rudasill, who has not been seen since Friday night.

Young Rudasill is one of the best-known newsboys of Atlanta. He is a familiar sight to the many patrons of his wares at his stand on Marietta street, in front of city hall. That he is ambitious is shown by the fact that he has three "newsies" working for him despite his youth.

The boy when last seen by one of those working for him was standing on the Forsyth street viaduct about 5 o'clock Friday afternoon. He stated at the time that he intended selling Constitutions on the street that night, but has not been seen since.

Ernest came home Thursday night at 11 o'clock. He did not see his mother Friday morning, as she left for her work before he awoke, but told his little sister that he would return Friday night at the same time. He left home about 4:30 o'clock wearing a brown suit, blue serge cap and black scout shoes.
